Blackie-Caldwell.

Miss Gertrude McRay Blackie, of Lowell, Mass., and Mr. Howard Thomas Caldwell, of Beverly, Mass., were united in marriage September thirtieth by the Rev. H. B. Foster, of the Westminster United Presbyterian church. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Duncan McKinnin, 384 Walker street, and was a pretty home affair. The ceremony was performed at eight o'clock in the midst of a number of friends and relatives. The bride, attired in a gown of pale blue silk with white trimmings looked very pretty carrying a large bouquet of bride's roses being unattended save by a flower girl in the person of her niece little Margaret Ruth Blackie whose dress was white with large pink sash and she carried a basket of pink roses. The bride was given away by her father, Mr. Andrew Blackie, of Oak Mountain, N. B. Following the ceremony a reception was held and a wedding supper served. Messrs. Oliver H. Blackie, Anthony M. Dickison were the ushers. Misses Harriet Publicover, Mary McReen, Miss Josie Hardy, Clara McLean, Minnie Stewart, Ada Penny, Ida McLaughlan assisted. The decorations were pink and white smilax. Miss Olive Wing at the piano played the wedding march for the bridal party. The Evans Company catered. Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell left on the 9.25 train amid showers of rice and good wishes on a wedding tour to New York and vicinity and upon their return will live at 105 Rantoul Street, Beverly, Mass. The wedding gifts were especially numerous and beautiful.

The Reader.

The first number of "The Reader" is a surprise and delight. For the intelligent reader it is the most satisfactory magazine published. Its contents are a happy mixture of interest, inspiration and entertainment, and without being frothy are bright and readable. Chief among the contributions we must mention a remarkable story, treating of Dante and Beatrice, by R. V. Risley, and "The Literary Guillotine: The People Against Richard Harding Davis," an anonymous report of the first sitting of the Literary Emergency Court, with Mark Twain and Oliver Herford as justices of the court. Needless to say a great deal of fun is poked at Mr. Davis; it is very well done and full of good things. Other contributions are selections from a new rendering of the Lyrics of Sappho by Bliss Carman; a timely article, "The Attitude of the Jews towards Jewish Fiction," by Bernard G. Richards, and a very clever satire on the Tabard Inn Library. Numerous other contributions and departments constitute the remainder of a notable number of what promises to be a notable magazine. "The Reader" is beautifully printed.

An Ocean School.

A floating school has been conceived by an American, and a fine new sailing vessel, the Young American, is to accommodate 250 pupils and twenty-five masters, and for nine months in every year it will be rolling happily about on the ocean wave. The idea is that the scholars should get the full benefit of the sea air at a critical time in their development, and that by visits to all the principal seaboard countries of the world they should acquire useful knowledge of the manners and customs of many peoples. The school course covers a period of four years, and the fees for this time work out at something like a thousand pounds.

Bound to Rent.

"I don't see how you came to rent that house," said Suburba to Commuter. "It was in very bad condition."

"I know, but the perquisites were unusual. This is the way I advertised it," and Commuter handed Suburba a clipping from a newspaper, reading:

FOR RENT - TWENTY FIVE BUSHELS OF coal, surmounted by a small house. Apply at once to the undersigned.

"No wonder!" murmured Suburba [—Cincinnati Commercial-Tribune.

Marriage of Dr. Stanley C. Neales.

The Laurence, Mass. Sun of October 23rd contains the following account of the wedding of Dr. Stanley C. Neales son of the Ven. Archdeacon Neales, of Woodstock. "One of the most brilliant wedding functions solemnized this season took place Wednesday evening, when Dr. Stanley Colebrook Neales, the well known South Lawrence dentist, took for his bride Miss May Stratton, the accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Stratton, of Garfield street, and a teacher in the Packard grammar school.

The wedding ceremony was performed in St. John's church Bradford street at 5 p. m. before a large assemblage of friends and relatives of the bride and groom.

The couple entered the edifice unattended while a full vested choir sang to the organ accompaniment by Mr. Marsh, the organist. The scene was one of remarkable beauty as the bride and groom were met at the altar by Rev. Henry Wood, the rector and Rev. Mr. Neales, of Woodstock, N. B., father of the groom, the latter assisting.

The bride was attired in a becoming costume of white lansdowne, over white taffeta, and she carried a bouquet of bride roses, making a very charming appearance.

The inspiring strains of Mendelssohn's march poured from the organ as the couple left the church.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on Garfield street immediately following the ceremony. The house was prettily trimmed. Friends were present from Millinocket, Me., Woodstock, N. B., Cambridge, Boston, Melrose, Highlands, Fitchburg, Haverhill and Methuen.

The ushers were William Gilchrist, Frank W. Emerson, both personal friends of the groom, H. B. Baker, of Newport, R. I., a member of the class of 1903 at Harvard and LeBaron Dibblee, of Millinocket, Me.

Dr. and Mrs. Neales left on the 7.08 train for their honeymoon to be spent in Newport, R. I., and Washington, D. C. On returning they will take up their residence on Garfield street.

The couple were the recipients of a large and valuable collection of wedding gifts sent by admiring friends. A feature among the gifts was that of a silver tea service sent by the bride's Chinese Sunday school class.

Dr. Neales many friends in Woodstock join in heartiest congratulations and wishes for a happy and prosperous future.

Hewitt-Everett.

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Deville Hewitt, Fort Fairfield, was the scene of a very interesting event on Tuesday, the 14th, when their eldest son, William, was united in marriage to Miss Flora Everett, formerly of Andover. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Mr. Hartt and was witnessed by about twenty-five guests. The bridal party stood beneath an arch of evergreens, autumn leaves and berries erected in a bay window in the parlour. The bride looked charming in white muslin. She was given away by her uncle, Mr. Job Everett. The bridesmaid Miss Belle MacLeod, of Andover, also wore white muslin. The best man was Mr. Garfield Nightingale, of Fort Fairfield. After the ceremony and reception the young people indulged in many enjoyable games until the "wee sma' hours."

The following is a partial list of the presents which testify to the popularity of the parties.

Mr. Edward Everett, 4 dozen plates; Mr. William Doughty, 4 dozen cups and saucers; Mr. and Mrs. Deville Hewitt and Miss Myrtle, a bedstead; Miss Ida Hewitt, pair blankets; Miss Anna Hewitt, pair towels; Miss Hope Hewitt, match safe; Miss Helen Hewitt, glass pitcher; Mr. and Mrs. Clinton White, 4 cups and saucers and a picture; Mr. and Mrs. Will Curless, lamp; Mr. Garfield Nightingale, lamp; Mrs. David MacLeod, pitcher; Miss Belle MacLeod, syrup pitcher; Mr. Winnifred Bagley, Miss Lola Bentley and Miss Augusta White, lamp; Mrs. Roy Wilcox, water set; the bridegroom, water set; Mrs. Anna White, fruit dish; Mr. and Mrs. John Rackliffe, fruit dish, vase and toothpick holder; Mrs. Miles Bains and Miss Gladys, silver berry spoon.

The Circuit Court.

At the Circuit Court last week the only two criminal cases on the docket did not amount to anything. In one case the Grand Jury found no bill and the other case was not sent to them all. The only civil case tried was H. V. Mooers vs. B. B. Manzer, for illegal distress for rent. The jury gave the plaintiff a verdict for $660.00. Mr. Connell, counsel for the defendant is making an application to the Court for a new trial. The case for the plaintiff was conducted by W. P. Jones. The members of the jury were George Palmer, Robert Robinson, Haddington Birmingham, John McCormac, W. A. Hay, Charles Wheeler and Frederick Anderson.

GLOOMY OUTLOOK.

In the South African Colonies.

NEW YORK, Oct. 27.—Gloomy accounts of the state of affairs in Cape Colony, the Orange Colony and the Transvaal have been received from time to time through private channels, but there has been a tendency to discredit them, says the London correspondent of the Tribune. The announcement of Colonial Secretary Chamberlain's decision to proceed to South Africa to examine on the spot the problems presented by the termination of the war and the settlement of affairs in the new British colonies consequently caused the utmost surprise in political circles. It is tolerably certain, declares the correspondent, if the situation had not been one of peril, the colonial secretary would have left the whole matter absolutely in the hands of Lord Milner. The feeling between the British and Dutch people in Cape Colony just now it is said to be more bitter than it was in the days before the war. The Transvaal and Free State colors are worn freely in the Dutch towns of the Cape. The loyalists are naturally alarmed at this state of things. Ever since Mr. Chamberlain became colonial secretary he has disregarded precedent. One notable instance, which has a slight resemblance to a master stroke of policy now initiated by him, was his visit last autumn to Malta to inquire into the petition of the Maltese against compulsory adoption of the English language. When he returned to London he consulted with his colleagues, and soon afterward came an intimation that the objectionable edict had been withdrawn.

It is possible that it is this experience which has prompted him to study for himself the present position of affairs not only at the Cape, but in England's two new colonies, so as to be able to initiate and carry out an imperial policy which would be best suited to the requirements of the whole of the British South Africa.

The Lumber Industry.

The Monetary Times of Toronto, in an article on New Brunswick, has the following: "Everywhere in New Brunswick now preparations are being made for the winter's lumbering operations. It is too early yet to make a forecast of the winter's cut of lumber, but it will probably be quite up to the average. On the St. John river and its tributaries, there is in the vicinity of 120,000,000 feet. Practically the whole of this is shipped through the port of St. John and much of it is sawed in the mills in the neighborhood of the city. A considerable portion of the St. John river cut is American logs, for the St. John river itself and some of its tributaries comes in from the State of Maine, and American lumbermen have treaty rights which allow them to float their logs down the St. John, manufacture them at the river's mouth, and take the manufactured product into the United States duty free. This arrangement has resulted in the location in St. John of quite a large American colony. Some of the best equipped mill are those of the Americans, but the workmen are all local people, and the manufacture of American logs is one of the staple industries of the port of St. John, giving employment to large numbers of people and putting into circulation large sums of money.

Benjamin F. Estey.

Mr. Benj. F. Estey passed away at Woodstock, N. B., on the 12th inst. after a prolonged illness, aged 63. Mr. Estey was a faithful member of the Albert Street Baptist Church for 20 years. He was a son of the Venerable Beverly Estey, of Jacksonville, of whose large family two brothers and four sisters of the deceased survive. Mr. Estey leaves a faithful and beloved wife and four daughters who deeply mourn their loss. The funeral at the residence was largely attended. Pastor Fash spoke most fitting words of comfort, Rev. Joseph Blakney read the scripture and prayer was offered by Rev. F. S. Todd. The selections rendered by the quartette very appropriate and beautifully rendered.
