A Sophistical Egotist. [From the New York Sun.] Don't ask me, dear, to smoke no more. For whilst I smoke I dream, my own; And all the rings that upward soar Are halos for thy face alone.

Don't ask me not to drink a drop. For when I drink I love thee most; And after every sip I stop To conjure thee another toast.

Don't ask me ne'er to take an oath, For when I do I swear by thee, And sacred as a pledged troth Is every oath that comes from me.

But if I must give up all three, Ere I may claim thee for my wife, I think I'd rather single be, And stay a bachelor for life.

Profits in Live Stock. The profits that may be made from feeding live stock have been emphasized in a manner at once striking and convincing by the results from feeding a bunch of steers at J. J. Hill's North Oaks farm the past winter. Mr. McCusick, the manager, went down to the South St. Paul's stock yards in November, 1900, and purchased forty five steers eighteen to twenty-four months old. They were chiefly high-grade shorthorns, although in the white faces of some of the lot were indications of Hereford blood. The point to be noted here is, that the steers were high grades, and that they were well chosen. With common animals and carelessly picked up, the results obtained would have been impossible.

The steers were driven over to North Oaks, a distance of eighteen miles, and were delivered there at an average cost of $20 18. This cost included commissions, dehorning, and delivery at the farm. They were fed corn fodder the first winter. This food was grown the same as the ensilage corn, but was simply fed in the cured form. In the summer they had pasture only. The following winter they were fattened on corn fodder, which was fairly well laden with ears. In addition they were given all the shelled corn they would eat, and along with it a moderate amount of oil cake. In the same feed lot were seventy-five pigs which gleaned after the steers.

On May 5, 1902, or eighteen months after the steers were purchased, they were sold at $74.10 per head. This was the average amount received per animal, after commission, yardage, and feed at the yards had been deducted. The steers had also been driven all the way from North Oaks to South St. Paul in the finished form, which told heavily upon the shrinkage. The average obtained, therefore, for keeping those steers eighteen months, was $53 92. But this does not represent all the return. The profit on the seventy-five pigs that followed the steers. In fact, much of it ought to be considered as clear profit, for the fertilizer from the steers, during the fattening period at least, ought to be worth fully as much as the cost of caring for the steers.—[St. Paul Pioneer Press.

The age of Brain Work. "In these days, half our diseases come from the neglect of the body in the overwork of the brain. In this railway age the wear and tear of labor and intellect go on without pause or self pity. We live longer than our forefathers but we suffer more. They fatigued only the muscles, we exhaust the finer strength of the nerves." Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the greatest medicine of this age because it is best suited to the needs of the present day. It restores and revitalizes wasted nerve cells and makes the pale, weak and exhausted strong and healthy and vigorous.

Advantages of Dairying. At a recent meeting of the Georgia State Dairy Association, President Redding, in summing up the points in favor of dairying, said: "The first advantage of dairying is that it takes less fertility from the soil than other branches of farming. A ton of wheat takes $7.00 out of the farm, and sells for less than $16.00." Young man, think of that—every time you sell $16.00 worth of wheat you must charge up on the debit side of your account $7.00 gone from the value of your farm. Is it then any wonder that the wheat farmers of the Northwest impoverish their farms until they could not make a living on them?

President Bedding next said: "A ton of butter takes 50 cents' worth of plant food from the farm, and sells for from $400 to $600." He says comment is needless. It was this fact that saved the wheat farmers in the above instance, for they turned their attention to dairy work, and are now among the most prosperous farmers in the country. Not only does butter-making take almost nothing from the fertility of the farm, but the cows and young stock fed on the farm, practically all the manure goes back to the fields, and quickly becomes plant food again, adding to the richness of the fields and the profit of the farmer. The same story could be told of those sections of the Southern States where constant cropping with cotton has robbed the earth of its virgin fertility, if the owners of those robbed fields would do as the Wisconsin farmers did after wheat had nearly ruined them—turn their attention toward intelligent dairying.—[Home and Farm.

Mrs. Hicks (who is entertaining her little son's playmate, aged five, to dinner)—Willie, can you cut your own meat? Willie (who is struggling with a piece on his plate)—Yes, thank you (with a desperate saw at the beef), I've cut quite as tough meat as this at home.—Glasgow "Evening Times."

Was Pale, Weak And Very Nervous

Mrs. Benj. Hatfield, 77 Hillyard St., St. John, N. B., writes:—"For three years I was a sufferer from extreme nervousness and female weakness. I was pale and weak, had no appetite and would sometimes faint two or three times a day. I underwent a very painful operation and for seven weeks was under the doctor's care but he seemed unable to help me.

Despairing of recovery, I took the advice of a friend who told me that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food would build me up and make me strong and well again. I continued this treatment, using in all sixteen boxes, and believe that I am as strong and well as ever in my life. As a result I cannot say too much for Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. The testimonials I see for it are not half strong enough." 50c. a box, at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto. On every box of the genuine will be found portrait and signature of Dr. A. Knew by Experience. The Irish witness very often contributes to the gaiety of the court-room, and not frequently, as in the case of one whom the Baltimore Sun quotes, by mixing some truth with his wit.

It was a suit brought by an instalment house to obtain payment for some furniture. The defendant, an Irishman, was asked if he knew what "quartered oak" meant.

"Sure, so," was the quick reply, "it means that it's thra-quarters poine."

A June Song. And it's Oh, for the month of June, When the world swings close to the moon, And a man and a maiden fleet To the goal where the pathways meet Down the road of the Heart's desire, Where never a one may tire Till hand hath been closed in hand On the highway of Happy Land.

And it's Oh, for the month of June, That is timed to an organ tune, When the blush of the rose's grace Is caught from the young bride's face. When the world is a golden thing Clasped round in a wedding ring And a man and a maiden stand On the highway of Happy Land. —Theodosia Garrison, in "Life."

Old News is no News. A good newspaper tries to give the people fresh news and to "dress up" old news in an attractive form. Most people like to hear again what they already know, but readers are few indeed who would approve the loyal attitude of the editor of a German paper published in America. He was very matter-of-fact, but a faithful, hard worker.

One night there was a great fire which destroyed the entire block opposite the newspaper office. The whole town turned out to see it, and the streets were crowded. The proprietor of the paper did not go out, but lay in bed dreaming of the fine display the story of the fire would make on the first page of his journal the next morning.

But when he opened the sheet at breakfast, there was not a word about the fire. With wrath in his eye he went to the office and burst into the sanctum of his German editor. "Why," he thundered, "is there no mention in this morning's issue of the fire across the street last night?"

"Ach, mein lieber Herr," said the editor, calmly, "for vy vaste so much gute paper? Erybody was in de street, und see de fire himself. Vy should ve tell de t'ings vat de people see already? Shall ve de news print or vat erybody knows? Dey haf seen de fire, but do dey know dat Schleier has lost his dog? No. So I haf dat printed."

REV. DR. CHAPMAN Will Retire From Ministry After 45 Years' Service.

Rev. Douglas Chapman, D. D., pastor of the Methodist church, has become very popular not only with the people of his own charge but in the community. In July last he succeeded Rev. G. M. Campbell. He was then about entering upon a supernumerary relation with his church, after a faithful ministry of about forty-five years, but upon request of the officials of the local church he consented to assume the duties of the Fredericton pastorate for one year, and this term is now nearly closed. He has filled many of the prominent charges in the Maritime Provinces, and will withdraw from the active work bearing away with him the love of all to whom he ministered. Mrs. Chapman has also endeared herself to our citizens and her departure will be deeply regretted.

We understand it is the intention of Dr. Chapman to spend his years of retirement in Amherst, N. S., the neighborhood of which busy town environs the home of the early days of both Dr. and Mrs. Chapman.—Fredericton Gleaner.

HAMILTON'S PILLS DON'T GRIPE. A Difficult Question.

A story of a conversation between a traveler visiting at a popular resort, and one of the permanent residents, is told by the "Ram's Horn": "I am a stranger here, sir; can you direct me to a first-rate church?" "Oh, yes, right around the corner." "What sort of a preacher have they?" "A very good man." "Interesting?" "Intensely so." "Eloquent?" "Very." "The best preaching in town, I suppose?" "Unquestionably." "What's his name?" "Ah, my friend, that is a question which modesty forbids me to answer!"

Intestinal Indigestion

There are forms of indigestion and dyspepsia which can never be reached by ordinary stomach medicines and so-called digestants. The kidneys and liver are involved, and though the stomach may be all right, it is the part of digestion which takes place in the intestines that is imperfect.

All over the country are people who are suffering from just this kind of indigestion. They don't get well, because they don't use the right medicine. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are admirably suited for this very trouble. They act directly on the kidneys, liver and bowels, remove the cause, and make a permanent cure of intestinal indigestion, backache, and diseases of the filtering and excretory organs.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are vegetable in composition, and remarkably prompt and effective in action. They are kept in thousands of homes as a standard medicine, and have proven by years of trial to be without a rival. 60c a box, 25 cents a box. At all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto.
