A Coronation Ode.

BY BLISS CARMAN.

The Independent welcomes this poem as 'a literary event of large present value and larger promise." In an editorial it says:-

"We warrant that it (the 'Ode') will be easily the finest poem which the occasion will produce. The lines that we have had from Kipling are not equal to it. The Poet-Laureate cannot write such a poem. It expresses, in fine musical verse without a bit of obsequious flattery, the welcome which the procession of the British peoples offer to their new King, and their worship of right more than glory, and their recognition of the task they have undertaken for the world."

There are joy-bells over England, there are flags on London town:
There is bunting on the Channel, where the fleets

go up and down : There are bonfires alight

In the pageant of the night; There are bands that blare for splendor, and guns that speak for might; For another King in England is coming to the

What people are these passing to the sound of pipe and drum, In the garments of all nations, and singing as

By the color on the cheek,

By the accent when they speak, They are foreign-born and alien, and their homes are far to seek; But they all come to England, when England calls them home. And these who speak the English tongue not in the English way,

With the careless mien and temper self-assured, whose sons are they? By the larger, looser stride,

By the ampler ease and pride, By the quicker catch at laughter and the outlook keener-eyed, They were bred beneath the tent-cloth of a wider, whiter day.

From the rough red tides of Fundy, where the ships go far inland, To Kamio ps where the hills are set as at a conneil grand: From the waving Northern light

At the edge of polar night, Where underneath the burnished stars the bitter trail is bright, To the inland seas that sparkle where goodly orchards stand.

By prairie swale and barren, by jungle and lagoon; Where endless palm-trees rustle and the creamy breakers croon,

By canon, ford and pass,

By desert and morass, In snows like stinging lashes, on seas like burn-By every land and water beneath the great lone

Our fathers died for England at the outposts of Our mothers toiled for England where the settler's smoke upcurled;

By packet, steam and rail, By portage, steam and trail They bore a thing called honor in hearts that did not quail,

Till the twelve great winds of heaven saw their scarlet sign unfurled. O East they go and West they go, and never can

For the longing that is in them, and the whisper at their side : They may 'stabli h hearth and home,

But the sons will forth and roam, As their fathers did before them, across the Till strange lands lift to greet them at the edges

They have visions of a country that sorrow never

They have rumors of a region where the heart has naught to rue; And never did they rest

Till they reached the fabled West, That is charted, dim but certain, in the Volume of the Breast. And forever they are dreamers who make the dream come true.

In the North they are far forward, in the South they have begun,
The English of three continents who take their rule from none,

But follow on the gleam. Of an ancient, splendid dream, That has manhood for its fabric, perfection for With freedom for its morning-star, and knowledge for its sun. And slowly, very slowly, the gorgeous dream

Where rise the four democracies of Anglo-Saxon

The Republic, fair, alone;
The Commonwealth new-grown;
The proud, reserved Dominion with a story of And One that shall emerge at length from travail, war and blight. O doubt not, wrong, oppression, and violence, and

The ignorance and anguish and folly of the years, Must pass and leave a mind More sane, a soul more kind,

And the slow ages shall evolve a loftier man-When over lust and carnage the great white peace

To still the shrieking shrapnel and bid the Max-Not as invaders come,

With gun wheel and with drum, But with the tranquil joyance of lovers going Through the scented summer twilight when the spirit has release.

By sea and plain and mountain will spread the larger creed-The love that knows no border, the bond that knows no breed;

For the little word of right Must grow with truth and might, Till monster-hearted Mammon and his sycophants take flight, And vex the world no longer with rapine and with greed. O England, little mother by the sleepless northern tide, Having bred so many nations to devotion, trust and pride, Very tenderly we turn With welling hearts that yearn

Still to love you and defend you-let the sons of Wherein your right and title, might and majesty

O Sir, no empty rumor comes up the earth today From the kindred and the peoples and the tribes a world away; For they know the Law will hold

And be equal as of old,

And beneath the form and letter the spirit will have play.

When the Bowels are Constipated

It is a serious matter to neglect constipation. You may do so for a time, only to find that your health has been undermined by bodily derangements of the most fatal kind. You should have a movement of the bowels every day. To accomplish this, avoid concentrated foods, use vegetables and fruits freely, and take one of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills before retiring, two or three times a week, or oftener if required. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are not an ordinary cathartic. They have a specific and combined action on the kidneys, liver and bowels, and consequently cure constipation and the accompanying derangements thoroughly and well, by removing the causes.

For the information of those who are not yet familiar with the peculiar merits of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, we might add that they are purely vegetable in composition, pleasant and natural in action, and remarkably prompt and far-reaching in effect, even in the most serious and chronic cases of constipation, kidney and liver diseases and stomach troubles. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box.

Danger From Pets.

In families where household pets of various kinds are allowed to be the daily companions of small children, parents should take the greatest care to see that these pets are always in perfect health and kept clean.

We know now that many of the small animals and birds most frequently chosen as pets are very likely to fall victims of various diseases, especially tuberculosis and diphtheria. It is natural for birds and animals to live in the open air, and confinement is probably the cause of their great proneness to consumption. It is certain that very few city dogs get nearly enough exercise, and therefore it is not surprising that they are generally troubled with indigestion and foul breath.

Cats, even oftener than dogs, are victims of tuberculosis. The disease is extremely vague in its earlier symptoms, and often slow. It does not require much thought to see how dangerous it must be for young chil. dren to romp and caress a consumptive pet. The sight of a tiny child seated on the floor and playing with a constantly sneezing kitten of doubtful physique is a shocking sight, but one which may be witnessed only too often.

It is now generally cenceded that canaries and parrots are a great source of danger in this regard. They are birds used to the free air in a warm climate, and it is little to be wondered at that they should develop disease when they are caged in steam-heated rooms in a northern clime. Parasite also constitute a great danger, especially from cats. It is believed by physicians that many cases of ringworm in children may be traced to the cat. Although dog fleas seldom leave their habitation for human beings, as they are fortunately a distinct species, still, this is by no means an invari-

Where the pet habit is ingrained and can not be overcome, -indeed, it is not wise wholly to deny children their pets, -very careful watch should be kept by the elders of the family for the first slight symptoms of indisposition, and when these occur the pet should be placed in the care of an animal or bird-doctor for treatment.

The Skin on Fire

Benefits of Exercise.

Next to bodily cleanliness exercise may be reckoned as the greatest aid to beauty. In fact, exercise is almost necessary to cleanliness, for it is a great incentive to perspiration, which is nature's way of throwing the impurities of the body to the surface of the skin, from which they are then removed by the use of water. Open air exercise should be taken every day, but according to strength. One should return home after walking, riding or cycling with a sense of being pleasantly fatigued, but without any feeling of exhaustion. Exercise should be taken regularly, and if possible dumbbells should be used night and morning. The corset should not be worn while exercising with dumbbells. Skipping is an excellent exercise for the figure and it is one of which our grandmothers were fond. It is usual with children to throw the rope forward when skipping, but it is far better to throw it backward, for it expands the chest much better.

Butter In Coffee.

If we wish to enjoy the peculiar flavors of the coffee made in Norway and France, we must doctor the beans and do our own grind. ing, advises an expert coffee maker.

In Norway, where superb coffee is made, a bit of butter is added to the beans while they are roasting in the covered shovel used there for that purpose. In France a piece of butter the size of a walnut is put with three pounds of coffee beans and also a dessert spoonful of powdered sugar. This brings out both flavor and scent and moreover, gives the slight car amel taste which will be remembered as a pleasing part of the French coffee.

Eczema's Itch Is Torture

Mrs. Ann McDonald, Kingsville, Ont., writes:-" For about three years I was a dreadful sufferer from eczema. At times the patches of raw, flaming flesh would extend from my waist to my neck and from the knees to the ankles. The intense itching almost drove me crazy and though I tried all the local physicians, they could not even relieve the suffering The flesh would crack open, and I don't believe anyone ever suffered more than I did.

"I was told of Dr. Chase's Cintment but did not believe that it could help me. After the fifth application of this preparation, I began to feel the benefit of its soothing, healing effects, and now attribute a cure to the persistent use of this wonderful remedy. It is truly worth its weight in gold and I never tire of recommending it to other sufferers.' Besides being a thorough care for eczema and salt rheum, Dr. Chase's Ointment comes useful in a hundred ways in every home for every form of skin inritation and eruption, chapped skin and chilblains. 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.
