THE Inspector of the Board of Health, under instructions, takes this opportunity to notify all householders that they must keep their premises clean and clear away any rubbish that may be calculated to engender disease. Much sickness has its source in uncleanly surroundings and the Board of Health is determined that private householders shall be made to feel their responsibility to the community at large in this respect. It will be well to bear this in mind.

COLIN CAMPBELL has very much improved the appearance of his hotel at Queen Street Station by removing a large willow tree that stood very close to the front door, and by trimming other trees near by. The willow which he had cut down was planted there at the direction of Mrs. Connell, wife of the late Hon. Charles Connell, when they lived in a house where the silver plating shop stands today. At that time a large store occupied the ground where Mr. Campbell's hotel now stands, and the wharf just under the hill was a public landing where the tow boats, of which there were a great many plying on the river at that day, tied up and disgorged their freight and loaded. The old tree removed by Mr. Campbell had reached pretty large proportions. The main trunk was about six feet in diameter and the two largest branches measured two feet across.

THE rumor that W. B. Jewett was to move permanently to another store as intimated in our last issue appears to have been not well founded, as a reference to our advertising columns will indicate. The Jewellery business of Jewett & Co., has increased to such proportions in Houlton as to require the undivided attention of the senior member of the firm. The stock advertised on the 5th page of this paper contains all the staple articles of the jewelry trade and present a rare opportunity to obtain such goods as may be wanted for immediate or future use at the lowest possible price, beside the satisfaction of spending the money in our own town.

Woodstock's Greatest Musical Event.

It is five years since Madame Clary, the celebrated contralto has been heard in the provinces, and since that time she has made rapid advances in her art, and occupies a higher place in the regard of the musical world. During this period no important musical event in the large centres has been complete unless the contralto roles were sung by Clary. Hardly a reference to her singing is to be found in any paper of standing which does not point to her as America's greatest contralto. Where so many opinions are unanimous regarding this wonderful voice, there can be no question as to the quality of the musical treat which we are to have April 29th. The interest already aroused safely indicates a record attendance for Woodstock. Clary will be accompanied by a splendid tenor, soprano, and pianist. Don't forget the date and keep it clear of engagements.

Headaches

are characteristic of intelligent people. They go with the finer nervous organizations of the civilized races. Few people of nervous temperament or mental power escape them. Those who are exempt are pretty sure to be so well physically as to escape all other ailments also. Headaches often mean danger. They go before all serious brain affections.
