KNOXFORD.

The Parish Sunday School Convention held in the Free Baptist church here on the 17th was pronounced instructive and encouraging to all interested in the work.

Quite a number of friends have been visiting among us. Mrs. Wallace, of Cloverdale, spent a week here, the guest of her daughter, Mrs. George H. Knox, and also of her sister, Mrs. Robert F. Jones. Mrs. Jones' brother, Ahimay Knox, of Caverhill, paid her a visit recently. Just now Calvin Knox, of Caverhill, is visiting his sister.

Robert M. Jones' daughter, Mrs. Robbie Orchard is enjoying a few days in the old home. Mr. Jones' son, Gibson, of Beaver Brook, Albert County, gave his friends a pleasant surprise some days ago. He has not been here before in ten years.

Mrs. Curtis Jones has returned from Grand Falls where she spent about two weeks with her brother, Leigh White.

Mrs. Samuel Fulton who has been spending the winter with her daughter, Mrs. Cyrus Kinney, of Greenfield, arrived home last week.

We were pleased to greet James E. Fulton, of Houlton, Me., whose visit this time was largely due to Robert F. Jones' accident and consequent confinement to his room for some weeks. Since Mr. Jones is well known his many friends would probably be pleased to know how he is progressing. For the benefit of those who have heard nothing of the accident we will give particulars. While he and his son, Truman, were getting wood on January 17th he had his right leg caught between a stump and a heavy birch about 30 feet long. Fortunately no bones were broken but the calf of the leg was horribly bruised and mangled and was burst open seven or eight inches and spread open at least three inches in the widest part. Dr. Peppers was summoned and dressed the wound. Since then the Dr. has given faithful and skillful attention. The bruised flesh decayed away leaving a spot bare to the bone say eight or nine inches by six. We are glad to report Mr. Jones considerably improved in strength and the wound healing very well indeed.

Mrs. Cuthbert Clark and children spent last week at Mrs. Peppers' home.

Mrs. David Irvine returned last week from Mars Hill, Me., having enjoyed a short visit with her nephews and nieces and other friends.

A Great Man Worsted.

In an interesting case where Rufus Choate and Daniel Webster were both retained by a Boston shipping house, Mr. Choate examined the witnesses. He had before him in the witness-box one of the ship-owners, whom he wished to confuse, and consequently he began by asking a long and complex question.

George Francis Train, who tells the story, says this question wound all around the case and straggled through every street in Boston.

"You say," asserted Choate, "that you did so and so, that you went to such and such a place; after this you did so and so, and then thus and so."

But the man was an Irishman of perfect nerve and an unshaken coolness. Mr. Choate went on coiling up his question and tying knots in it; and when he had quite finished, the witness merely looked at him, and said, calmly:

"Mr. Choate, will yez be afther repating that again?"

The bench and the spectators roared. Mr. Choate was worsted. Yet he won his case.

A MOTHER'S RESPONSIBILITY.

Every mother is responsible to some extent for the health of her little ones, and the prudent mother will always keep at hand the means for protecting the health of her children. For this purpose there is absolutely no medicine can compare with Baby's Own Tablets. These Tablets speedily relieve and promptly cure all stomach and bowell troubles, break up colds, check simple fevers, prevent croup and allay the irritation accompanying the cutting of teeth. They are good for children of all ages from birth upwards, and are sold under a guarantee to contain no opiate or harmful drug. All mothers who have used Baby's Own Tablets praise them and keep them in the house. Mrs. John Weaver, Blissfield, N. B., says: "I have a family of six children and have used Baby's Own Tablets and know that they are the best medicine I have ever used for my little ones."

You can get Baby's Own Tablets from any druggist or they will be sent by mail post paid at 25 cents a box by writing to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Tillage.

As a fundamental factor in progressive orchard management, systematic tillage is a practice of comparatively recent introduction. While the practice has become quite general during the past few years and is growing more so, the principles underlying the operation are not so fully understood as they should be. A better understanding of these principles will make the operation more effective, because it will be more thorough.

The offices of tillage are several. Among the more important ones are:

(1.) The setting free of plant food by increasing the chemical activities in the soil.

(2.) The soil is made finer, and hence presents greater surfaces to the roots, thus increasing the area from which the roots can absorb nutriment.

(3.) The surface of the soil is kept in such condition that it immediately absorbs all the rain that falls during the summer, when it is apt to be dry. Little is lost by surface drainage.

(4.) Moisture is conserved thereby. Where the surface remains undisturbed for weeks the soil becomes packed, so that the moisture from below readily passes to the surface and is evaporated, thus being lost to the growing crop. If the surface is kept light and loose by tillage, so that the capillarity is broken, but little of the soil moisture comes to the surface and evaporation is not so great. In this way nearly all the moisture remains in the soil, where it can be used by the plants.

Thorough tillage has a tendency to cause deeper rooting of the plants. The surface of the soil is made drier by tillage during the early part of the season than it would otherwise be; hence the roots go where the soil is moist. The advantage of deep rooting during drought is obvious.

But tillage, to be of value in fruit growing,
