

The Nervous Temperament.

A child born with a nervous constitution is to be pitied or envied according as he has parents who do or do not know how to treat him. Character is made or marred, even more than we are wont to believe, by the training which the child receives, and the future of no child is more absolutely in the keeping of its father and mother than is that of the nervous child. By injudicious treatment such a child may be made to grow up a physical and moral wreck, at odds with all the world, while under wise management it may develop into one of the highest types of lovable man or woman—gentle, affectionate, sensitive, intellectual and dependable.

The nervous child is often difficult to manage, especially if the mother is impatient with its despondency or its irritability. Scoldings only increase the tension of its nervous system and more severe punishment, which the phlegmatic child takes with scarce a whimper and to its betterment, is often cruel in the extreme.

There are two types of nervous children—the active child, always on the go, inquisitive and acquisitive, but delicate as the mimosa leaf, shrinking back into itself at the first repulse or harsh word; and the pale, quiet, sensitive child, intelligent and thoughtful, but retiring. The child of the first type develops into the inventor, the active philanthropist, the promoter, the schemer, the adventurer, or the leader of criminals, according as his training has been wise or foolish. The child of the second type becomes the philosopher, the thinker, the man of letters, the poet, or the misanthrope, the sour recluse, and the plotter against society and government.

One great mistake in training a nervous child is to try to strengthen the nerves by opposition. A nervous child must be guided, not driven; if afraid of the dark it must not be forced to sleep in a closed room without a glimmer of light. It should not be laughed at for its natural timidity, but should be gently convinced by argument of the groundlessness of its fears. At the same time its physical constitution should receive careful attention. Tonics, good, digestible food, an open-air life, avoidance of long hours of study, frequent changes of air and scene are all not only serviceable but, one might say, indispensable in the transformation of the child of nervous disposition into the well-balanced man or woman.

As Plucky as a Boy.

The ways and means by which a clever Maine girl earned money for her studies in art are briefly sketched in the New York Sun. One summer she worked with a comrade in an improvised laboratory, where the two made jellies sweet pickles and preserves for sale. They made them out of fruit and berries which they picked themselves. After they got a start, they employed the neighborhood boys and girls to pick for them. The art student alone worked up enough trade to keep her at the art school in New York through the winter.

The next summer, when she went home, she set up in the vegetable business and sold the proceeds of her garden patch to hotel and boarding-house keepers in the vicinity. Her truck farm paid well, but it involved much hard work and not very congenial going about.

The next year the indefatigable girl thought of another plan for raising funds. She had secured a prize scholarship at the art school, but there were still many expenses to be met. Everybody who is familiar with the islands along the Maine coast knows how necessary the private ferry is to the convenience of the tourists and cottagers. Many of the small islands contain summer homes, or are occupied by camping parties, and visiting is constant. A man in the art student's neighborhood owned such a ferry, which he had tired of running. The girl persuaded him to sublet it to her.

She ran the boat successfully all that vacation time, and made a most picturesque, as well as capable, ferrywoman in her short skirt, shirt-waist and sailor hat. Once it got about her venture was for the sake of art, not for notoriety, many people quartered in the various summer colonies thereabout made it a point to patronize her ferry whenever possible on their outing excursions. She formed the habit of coming to the ferry early to take a ride. The toll she took that summer exceeded by a considerable sum the income from either jelly factory or truck farm.

The girl has now attained a definite place in her New York career. Her work is decorative design. But she declares that if her eyes or hands or ideas give out, she intends to start another passenger ferry up among the Maine islands.

His Auspicious Beginning.

To gratify the curiosity of the public, Mr. Delabarre, "putted the young person with the no cock, "will you please tell me if the first contribution you ever sent to a magazine was accepted?"

The literary celebrity smiled genially. "I am happy to say it was," he answered. "What was it, may I ask?"

KIDNEY TROUBLE

CURED BY DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS FOR PALE PEOPLE.

Sufferers from this Disease are in Great Peril and Should Not Experiment With Other Medicines.

From the Sun, Seaford, Ont.

The kidneys are the most important organ. They must filter every drop of blood in the body. If the blood is weak the kidneys cannot do their work, so the blood is left unfiltered and foul, and the kidneys are left clogged with poisonous impurities. Then come the backaches that mean fatal kidney disease. Don't neglect that backache for a moment. Strike at the root of the very first symptoms of kidney trouble by enriching the blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills—the only medicine that makes the blood rich, red and health-giving.

Mr. Wm. Holland, of Seaford, Ont., has proved that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will cure the most obstinate case of kidney trouble. To a reporter of the Sun he freely gave the particulars of his case: "I have suffered from kidney trouble for about two years," said Mr. Holland, "Sometimes the backache which accompanied the trouble would be so severe that I would be unable to work, and I have often suffered severely for weeks at a time. I tried a number of medicines said to be a cure for kidney trouble, but I found nothing to help me until on the advice of a friend I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills soon began to make their good work felt, and after using them for about a month every vestige of the trouble had disappeared, and I have not since had a single symptom of the disease. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have proved a great blessing to me and I am always glad to say a good word in their favor."

As a curative medicine Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have never yet been equalled. They build up the blood and nerves, give new strength and enables the body to resist disease. Among the complaints cured by these pills are rheumatism, nervous disorder, paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, indigestion, anaemia, lung troubles, and the troubles that make the lives of so many women miserable. Sold by all medicine dealers, or sent post paid at 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50, by writing direct to the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. Don't take a substitute at any price—only the genuine pills can cure.

The little-grains-of-sand business has a commercial exemplification. English "drummers" do not take their meals with ordinary travellers at the hotels, but dine together in the "commercial room." The first-comer acts as president of the table. With the dessert, according to the World's Work, a waiter passes around a plate on which each diner puts one penny, or more,—for the support of the Orphans' School of the Travelers' Association. The money collected is counted by the president of the table, who enters the amount in a book kept for the purpose.
