Redeeming a Town.
A story—evidently of his boyhood home—was recently told by Rev. Willard Scott of Worcester, who thus described how three people redeemed a town:

The village had been left high and dry by the development of a waterpower a few miles on one side and the opening of a railroad on the other. People moved away; business dwindled to nothing. The little red schoolhouse had few pupils, and in the winter-time these were rough ones. The little white church grew shabby for lack of paint, and at last it was closed altogether.

The redemption of the village began in the coming of a minister with so large a family that once there he could not well get away.
His salary was small to the point of starvation, and he eked it out by taking young pupils into his family. Thus the parsonage, with its own children and those who were imported, became a new center of life. The minister's sermons were long and doctrinal and dry, but the little church became again a center of religious and social life and a source of power.

The second person was a teacher who came to teach throughout the whole school year.
There had been a succession of young girls in the fall, followed by men in the winter, all one-term teachers. But this gaunt, earnest woman, whose day-dreams were past, and who had no other ambition than to teach well, braved the turbulent element that made up the winter school, and taught for twenty years, a period equal to that of the ministry of the pastor. And these two molded a new generation, and sent out boys and girls to the academy and into the world with enlightened ideas and earnest and resolute purposes.

The third person was a business man who bought a farm because his health had failed in town. The farm had been rented until its thin soil was impoverished, and hardly a fence or building remained. Realizing that he had come to spend the remainder of his life on the farm, the new owner began to improve it. He bought the first commercial fertilizer the town had known. He bought new varieties of grapes and of fruit-trees.
Grafts and cuttings from his trees and vines were soon in demand, and were freely given to the neighbors. He paid five dollars for a pound of potatoes for seed, and in a few years the whole village ate new potatoes on the fourth of July. The live stock of the community improved as he sold his surplus lambs and calves to neighbors. With all the rest he was deacon in the little church, superintendent of the Sunday school, and the adviser of widows and of people in need.

The community took on new life. Fences were repaired, and flowers appeared in the dooryards. The meeting-house was painted and the school became noted. The obscure, isolated village, with no large future possible, ceased to be ashamed of itself, and had pride in the achievements of its young people out in the world. Of these young people the man who told the story was one; and he reflected that but for those three people he would have grown up in a neighborhood void of great ideals and high impulses.

Doubtless disappointment lay back of the circumstances that brought to the village the minister, the teacher, the health-broken merchant. Each, perhaps, had cherished other and larger ambitions, and each had suffered through the limitations of life in such a place. Yet who can believe that any larger work could have been possible to them than this—that these three persons should have regenerated a community?

A Victim of Precept.
Prison Visitor (to convict burglar): "You say you are now serving your third term for burglary?"
Convict: "Yes'm." Prison Visitor: "He tible! What could have induced you to repeat, for a second and even a third time, a crime whose fearful punishment should have made you recoil from even a thought of further offending?" Convict: "Ah, madam! It was the influence of a precept taught me in Sunday-school." Prison Visitor: "In Sunday-school? Impossible!" Convict: "Nay, madam! Even now I hear it, as it were the voice of memory luring me back to my boyhood: 'If at first you don't succeed, try, try again.'"

How She Knew.
Two little girls were playing in front of a city dwelling when a strange man went by.
"That man is an undertaker," said one of the little girls.
"How do you know?" asked her companion.
"Oh, because he is the man who undertook my grandmother.—September Lippincott's."

SKIN DISEASES.
INVARIABLY DUE TO POOR AND
WATERY BLOOD.

Pimples, Blisters, Boils and Ugly Rashes Easily Cleared From the Blood.

From the Advocate, Exeter, Ont.
All diseases of the skin and complexion are caused by bad blood. Paleness and pimples, blotches and boils, ugly rashes and open sores, itching eczema and burning erysipelas —all these blemishes come from bad blood.
A bad skin is a sure sign of bad blood—thin blood, watery blood, blood poisoned with impurities. You can't have a healthy, clear skin till you make your blood pure and rich with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills are a sure and speedy cure for all skin diseases, for agonizing eczema or bothersome little pimples—for a bad complexion or ugly open ulcers. No claim is ever made for Dr.
Williams' Pink Pills not backed by the most positive proof, and in this connection we offer the testimonial of Mrs. Nicholas Mc-Avoy, a life-long, much esteemed resident of Exeter, Ont. To a reporter of the Advocate Mrs. McAvoy said:—"Some years ago I was taken with a slight itching under one of my arms. I gave it little attention at first thinking it would pass away, but in this I was mistaken, for as time went on it became worse and soon developed into an aggravated case of eczema, causing a great deal of painirritation and suffering. In fact I was compelled to endure tortures. I consulted a doctor and took his medicine for several months, but the trouble did not leave, neither did it get any better. In fact it took a turn for the worse and developed into scrofula. As the doctor's medicine did not help me I tried several advertised medicines, but with no better results. Finally a lady friend strongly urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The effect was almost magical.
In a few weeks there was a decided change for the better, and as time went on the trouble gradually left and today I am entirely free from it. I owe my complete recovery—if not my life—to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a fact I wish to put on record that others may benefit as I have done."

There is absolutely no disease due to poor blood—and most diseases are due to this trouble—that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will not cure. You can get these pills from any druggist or they will be sent post paid at 50c.

How to Acquire Mental Vigor.
Orison Swett Marden, in "Success": How little there is in an ordinary education or even in a college course which teaches the art of grasping things with the mind with that vigor and force which increases mental power!
Most students labor under the delusion that to know things increases power, when, in fact, it may have just the opposite effect.
Bookworms and walking encyclopedias are usually very weak people; they lack that power initiative which can seize things with a firm grip and manipulate them at will.
Overloading the memory with facts, statistics, and theories, like overloading the stomach, may defeat mental digestion. It is not knowing a great many things that avails, but knowing how to use one's powers to the best advantage.
Our observations have convinced us that the students who are always memorizing and

Are just what every weak, nervous, rundown woman needs to make her strong and well.
They cure those feelings of smothering and sinking that come on at times, make the heart beat strong and regular, give sweet, refreshing sleep and banish headaches and nervousness. They infuse new life and energy into dispirited, health-shattered women who have come to think there is no cure for them.

making notes of statistics, and who seem to get everything possible into the memory, are apt to impair their executive faculties. While they know a great many things, they do not know how to use them effectively. They are so overloaded with facts that they can not marshal their knowledge to good purpose.
They can not concentrate. Doing must accompany thinking, or there will be no power of execution.

Mental vigor is gained, not by memorizing or through teachers and professors, but by that mental self-help which utilizes knowledge as it is acquired. We grow in power by investigation, deep concentration, thinking, planning, and bringing about results without the assistance of others.

One self-wrought problem will give more vigor than a thousand worked out for us. It is the constant stretching of the mind over large problems, over large models—it is independent thought that increases mental power.

Memorizing is a parrot's work; it does not bring much mentality into play; but to think along original lines, to investigate, to reach out into new fields, to reason independently for oneself, is to grow.
Power should be the goal of all ambition.
This can never be gained by imitating, leaning upon others, asking advice, or going on crutches.

The grandest sight in creation is a normal man of power who stands firm on his feet and does not wobble or swagger or trample on a man who dares to think his own thoughts, or live his own life—who does not lean, or imitate, or sham—who can look the world straight in the eye without wincing, and does not swerve a hair's breadth to the right or the left, though a paradise tempt him, but goes straight to his goal.

Elderly persons who give up business, and professional men who lay aside their avocations without having other interests or pursuits to which to turn, are in many cases plunged into despondency or hurried into prematant dotage. It is difficult to imagine any surer way of inducing premature mental decay than for a man of active habits to retire and do nothing when just past the zenith of life, and, on the other hand, there is no surer way of enjoying a green old age than to keep on working at something until the close.

A youngster was holding a horse's head whilst a blacksmith was shoeing the animal.
The horse, being a young one and restless, did not seem to enjoy the process and plunged occasionally. The smith was putting on a hind shoe, getting impatient, requested the boy to keep the horse quiet, whereupon the youngster replied:—
"My end is quiet enough, guv'nor: see to yours."

The following letter, which was recently picked up in the street, is full of homely pathos:—
"Dear Jane,—I hope as you will forgive me for not larkin' at you when you larked at me last night. I ave a bile under my arm, and can't lark as I would like to.—Yours affectionately, JOHN."

Husband—"Here's a bill for a ball costume; what does it mean?" Wife: "Ah, you know that green dress I wore at the ball at which I was introduced to you last year?"
Husband: "S-c-h! And you mean to say that I am to pay for the trap in which I was caught?"

Ethel—I offered Freddy a penny for his thoughts. Edith—Well I'll never let you do any shopping for me!

Complete Cure for Bone Spavin.
Russell, Manitoba, Jan. 25, 1905.
Dr. R. J. Kendall Co., Gentlemen: I had to treat a young horse of nine years ago which had a Bone Spavin and got kicked on the same leg and was very badly swollen; so bad that I had to bathe it in warm water, then applied Kendall's Spavin Cure. I had Typhoid Fever the same winter and only gave the Kendall's Spavin Cure half a chance, and if only took one and a half bottles to cure his leg with very little treatment, and it did so completely that you would never know that he had a spavin; he never has gone lame since.
Very truly yours, GEO. S. HARRIS.
