Getting out of Bed.
(From Medical Talk.)

Don't jump up the first thing your eyes are open. Remember the vital organs are at rest. The vitality is lowered and the circulations not so strong. A sudden spring out of bed is a shock to these organs, especially to the heart, as it starts to pumping the blood suddenly.

Take your time in getting up. Yawn and stretch. Wake up slowly. Give the vital organs a chance to resume their work gradually.

Notice how a baby wakes up. It stretches its arms and legs, rubs its eyes and yawns and wakes up slowly. Watch a kitten wake up. First it stretches out one leg, then another, rubs its face, rolls over and stretches the whole body. The birds do not wake up and fly as soon as their eyes are open; they shake out their wings and stretch their legs, waking up slowly. This is the natural way to wake up. Don't jump up suddenly, don't be in such a hurry, but stretch and yawn and yawn and stretch. Stretch the arms and the legs; stretch the whole body. A good yawn and stretch is better even than a cold bath. It will get you thoroughly awake, and then you will enjoy the bath all the more.

Fashions in Horses.

As in nearly everything else, fashions in horses are frequently changing, and it is interesting to note how these have varied. Years ago nothing was considered more stylish, in tandem, for instance, than a smart dapple-grey leader and a good, upstanding chestnut in the shafts. Then came the period of rigid uniformity when the animals had all to be carefully matched—it made no matter what the colour. This has lasted pretty well until the present day, with varying imitations. At one time well groomed, satin-coated blacks were the rage, at another chestnuts were essential. Just now "liver-coloured" chestnuts and browns are declared to have Dame Fashion's smile, and there is also considerable request for the good, hard, serviceable blue roan, nowadays somewhat scarce. In this, as in other matters, however, the good lady's favor is fickle. A prominent fancier decides for a certain colour, and drives in a smart "turnout." He promptly has the flattery of imitation. A demand is created and the fashion set. Just as in clothes, so in selection for the stable. What was yesterday's "correct thing" may be tomorrow's "bad form"; but for the riding man the highest recommendation of a mount will always be quality rather than shade.

"Literary" News.

Miss Morley of Winton Center had never been twenty miles from her native village, and had never indulged in a daily newspaper.

"A weekly sheet which gives a synopsis of events and has choice articles as well, is more to my taste, having been born the daughter of a clergyman," Miss Morley said, with dignity, when a frivolous summer resident offered the second reading of her New York daily paper. "The records of crime are most distasteful to me, whereas literature has a constantly increasing charm."

There came a day, however, when only a timely explanation prevented Miss Morley from changing the habit of a lifetime. She had been one of a social gathering at the house of the frivolous summer resident, and there she had seen a Chicago banker and his wife.

"They were fashionable, worldly appearing people," said Miss Morley, in describing the party to the minister's wife, who had been kept at home by illness, "but I presume I am too quick to judge by the outward seeming, for I learned that she is the president of a woman's club, and he—well, I'll tell you what I overheard. Your husband was speaking to him about the growth of Chicago, its progress, and so forth, and he said, 'New York couldn't very well get along without the quotations we send on every day.'

"I turned to his wife and asked her if I'd heard rightly, and she looked greatly surprised, and said, 'Why, of course; they're telegraphed on every day, and printed in the newspapers, Miss Morley.'

"It appears that Chicago has grown to be a literary center without my becoming aware of the fact."

Breezy Items From the Arizona Kicker.

We understand that Major Callahan has referred to us as a jackass and a dude. We shall take early occasion to meet the major and give him opportunity to confirm or deny. We'll bet two to one he denies.

During the last few months our esteemed contemporary lay in wait for us with a gun on twenty-eight different occasions, but none of his bullets even grazed us. We shall make no change in the programme. We shall continue to saunter around, and he may continue to shoot. We believe in continuing harmless amusements.

While we now hold the honored position of editor, postmaster, mayor, senator and deputy United States marshal, we feel that we could easily take care of two or three more, and shall do our level best to gather them in. We know of no reason why an editor should let a good thing get past him.

There are seven shyster lawyers in this town, all of whom get a living by stirring up trouble. There are also six men who claim to be doctors, but who are the rankes: sort of quacks. We think we shall turn loose very soon and head a popular movement to start both shysters and quacks out in search of new abiding places. M. QUAD.

A THIEF.

King's Highway.

A person finding lost property and retaining it after they have learned to whom it belongs, is an out and out thief. Rev. J. Perry, of Hartland, while going about that village a few days since lost his pocket book containing about $17. His friends kindly made it up to him. This may ease the conscience of the finder a little, but that person remains a thief. Another gentleman lost upwards of $150 in the same way, in the same village, probably the thief that found that he quiets his conscience by saying he was able to lose it; he will not be any poorer. But still his conscience brands him a thief.

The stomach of a recently killed Indian crocodile gave up a half-digested calf, a human skull, a silver bangle, some brass ornaments, a tobacco box made of tin, a lute case, a nut cracker, a railway ticket, a horn case containing some twenty coins, and a soda water bottle containing some mustard.

It's simply immense and immensely simple.

Different Kinds Of Rings.

"I see that prize-fighters fight in a ring," remarked Miss Giddy girl, "What kind of a ring is it?"

"An engagement ring is used for sparring," replied the old bachelor, "but when it is to be a fight to a finish, a wedding ring is used, I believe."

Farmer's wife—"Please, sir, I want one o' them things as regglates the 'eat of a room," Chemist—"Thermometer you mean, ma'am, I suppose." Farmer's wife (eagerly)—"Yes, sir; that's it, sir. And if you'll be so kind, sir, to set it to sixty-five I shall be much obliged; 'cause that's what the doctor says I'm to keep the room at."

"Tornado" Threshing Machines, with "Direct Gear" Horse Power.

BRISTOL, N. B., January 14th, 190

MESSRS. CONNELL BROS., Woodstock, N. B.

Gentlemen,—I suppose that you are anxious to hear from the Threshing Machine. She has been tried and came out with the following results: In 32 minutes, 34 bushels by measure; in 62 minutes, 58½ bushels by measure; by weight 64½ bushels; this is an accurate statement. Threshing capacity 60 bushels per hour; this Mr. Curtis and myself have decided as correct. She was not forced to run beyond the ordinary rate of speed, cleaned the grain very nice, no clogging, none thrown over, none carried out in the straw. Now gentlemen, there is something more that I will tell you; it would be impossible for one crew of men to tend this machine, they could not stand it at that rate of threshing. Give her grain that has been reaped with a Reaper, and put in the barn in good shape, and she will thresh 600 bushels in ten actual hours, and do her work with ease, and clean in good shape.

Yours truly,
EDWIN PHILLIPS.

SPRINGFIELD, KING'S CO., Oct. 11th, 1902.

MESSRS. CONNELL BROS., Woodstock, N. B.

Dear Sirs,—I suppose you are anxious to hear from the machine. To tell you the truth, I think her the most perfect I ever have seen. runs smooth, and does her work complete, will not waste no matter how fast you thrash, can take care of a bushel per minute with all ease. I am running her with a very light team and every day I use her she seems to run faster.

Yours truly,
JAMES H. PICKLE.
