Teach Your Daughters to Cook.

Teach your daughters to cook; that should be the first care of every mother as soon as her girls reach the age of twelve. It does not matter if they may count on an income of $2,500 or $250 each per annum, whether they are fine ladies or poor working girls; they should know that a woman who cannot cook and serve an appetizing meal is a disgrace to her sex.

It is true a rich woman need not go into her kitchen and soil her fingers in doing what she can pay servants to do for her. None the less she should be able to criticise their efforts and supervise the household expenditure, so that a perfect knowledge of the art of cooking is as necessary to her as it is to the laborer's wife who has to make one shilling do the work of two, and yet feed the family well. The young bride who, suddenly finding herself without a servant, discovered that she could not even boil a potato, is a very good sample of the useless sort of woman who should not marry until she has qualified herself at the cooking school.—Health Journal.

Will Accept Existing Conditions.

Springfield Republican: Several of the powers, somewhat tardily, are now expressing their disapproval of the midnight murders of the late King and Queen of Serbia. England's action in withdrawing her Minister from Belgrade is a moral rebuke, although a rather feeble one, since the Minister will probably be sent back after a while. Russia's announcement that the new King will be expected to punish the guilty is the right policy to pursue, but it is hard to understand how Peter will be able to play the role of avenger when he owes his throne and his stability upon it to the assassins. The appearances are that the disapprobation shown by the powers is mainly for home consumption, and that nothing will ever be done in Serbia to avenge the crime. Political conditions favor such an outcome.

Marriage is like stage scenery; it looks well from a distance.

Woman is an angel who seldom appreciates a man who has not bit of the devil in him.

In our family life in France we preach a delightful philosophy. We preach the gospel, the duty of cheerfulness.

A Better Sidewalk.

Asphalt sidewalks have not been a glorious success, and the attention of the DISPATCH has recently been drawn to the cement walks that are being laid in most of the Ontario town and cities.

The commissioner of highways for Ontario, in his last annual report thus describes the nature of the concrete walks and the manner of making them:—

Concrete is rapidly taking the place of plank for sidewalks, a number of municipalities having wholly given up the use of the latter material. Wooden walks now cost six or seven cents a square foot for construction, and their life, with extensive repairs, rarely exceeds ten years; while concrete, although costing nearly twice as much as plank, should last ten times, as long. Concrete, made of Portland cement and gravel, or of Portland cement, broken stone and sand, although an artificial stone, is, when properly made, more durable than the natural stone commonly used for walks, and the cost is much less.

These walks are variously called "artificial stone," "granolithic," "cement," "concrete," "cement-concrete." The term "granolithic" is properly applied to the walks of this class in which granite chips are mixed with sand and cement in forming the wearing surface. Although of similar appearance, concrete walks are not the same material as is used for asphalt roadways, with which they are very commonly confused, the asphalt pavement being a mixture of sand and mineral pitch. Asphalt is occasionally, as in the city of Kingston, used for sidewalks. Vitrified paving brick are also used to some extent for sidewalks, costing about the same as concrete, while they are commonly used for crossings, being laid on a concrete base, and taking the place of the concrete wearing surface.

The usual requirements for a concrete walk are:

1. A foundation on layer of stone, gravel, cinders, or other suitable material, consolidated to a depth of from six to twelve inches in thickness, according to the nature of the sub soil.

2. A concrete base from three to four inches in thickness.

3. A surface coat of cement-mortar, one inch in thickness, mixed in the proportion one of cement to two of sand.

The foundation layer is intended to provide a certain amount of drainage, as well as strength, and should be greater on a clay soil, retentive of moisture and subject to upheaval by frost, than it need be on a loose gravel soil.

A concrete base three inches in thickness is ordinarily required on a favorable soil, and four inches where the sub-soil is of clay or where, for other reasons, the drainage is not thought sufficient.

Where broken stone is used in the concrete base, safe proportions would be one part of Portland cement, two and one-half of sand, and five of broken stone. This quantity of sand and cement will make a strong mortar, and there will be sufficient to surround each stone and fill the voids.

Where gravel is used to form the concrete base, the usual proportions are one part of cement to five or six of gravel. The gravel used in mixing concrete should be free from clay, loam, or earthy material, and should contain about thirty per cent. sand. As there is apt to be some uncertainty as to the quality of the gravel, and the uniformity with which sand is intermixed with it, a greater proportion of cement is required than with a carefully adjusted mixture of cement, sand and broken stone.

The sand used in mixing broken stone concrete should be clean, sharp, and of varying sized grain. One of the objects to be aimed at in mixing concrete is to have fine and coarse materials in such proportion to one another that the percentage of voids in the consolidated mass will be reduced to a minimum.

For the surface coat the proportion of one of cement to two of sand is customary except at street crossings, where one part of cement to one and one-half of sand is commonly employed.

THE DANGERS OF CHILDHOOD.

Summer is the most deadly season of the year for little ones. The little life hangs by a mere thread; diarrhoea, infant cholera and other hot weather ailments come quickly, and sometimes, in a few hours, extinguish a bright little life. Every mother should be in a position to guard against, or cure these troubles, and there is no medicine known to medical science will act so surely, so speedily and so safely as Baby's Own Tablets. A box of the Tablets should be kept in every home where there are little ones, and by giving an occasional Tablet hot weather ailments will be prevented, and your little one will be kept well and happy. Don't wait until the trouble comes—that may be too late. Remember that these ailments can be prevented by keeping the stomach and bowels right. Mrs. A. Vanderveer, Port Colborne, Ont., says: "My baby was cross, restless and had diarrhoea. I gave her Baby's Own Tablets and they helped her almost at once. I think the Tablets a splendid medicine for children."

The tablets are guaranteed to cure all the minor ailments of little ones; they contain no opiate or poisonous drug, and can be given safely to a new born babe. Sold by medicine dealers, or mailed at 25 cents a box by writing to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Hay and Oats.

The outlook for the hay crop is not so bad after all. In the last two weeks it has grown wonderfully and in some sections will be 100 per cent. while the quality is much better than last year.

The old hay is now all cleaned up; whatever is now held in Carleton County is in the hands of the buyers. The last lots bought by the buyers were at $9.00 per ton loose. The new hay will probably be started at $8.00.

Oats in Woodstock are worth 38cts. The amount coming in from the surrounding country is not sufficient to supply the local demand and some of the Woodstock buyers are buying oats from the Florenceville buyers who last week were paying only 32cts.

I'd like to have a nice, soft job,
Where I could simply be
A sort of weekly visitor,
To draw my salary;
And then, as that got burdensome,
And seemed inclined to bore me,
I'd like to have some fellow paid
To go and draw it for me.
