

Travellers and Tourists

Travelling from place to place are subject to all kinds of Bowel Complaint on account of change of water, diet and temperature.

Dr. Fowler's Ext. of Wild Strawberry is a sure cure for Diarrhoea, Dysentery, Colic, Cramps, Pains in the Stomach, Seasickness, Cholera, Cholera Morbus, Cholera Infantum, Summer Complaint, and all Fluxes of the Bowels in Children and Adults.

Its effects are marvellous.

It acts like a charm.

Relief is almost instantaneous.

Does not leave the Bowels in a constipated condition.

New Office Rules.

1. Gentlemen entering this office will please leave the door wide open.
2. Those having no business will please call often, remain as long as possible, take a chair, and make themselves comfortable.
3. Gentlemen are requested to smoke, especially during office hours; Havanas and newspapers supplied. Expectorate on the floor, as the spittoons are only for ornament.
4. The money in this office is not intended for business purposes—by no means—it is solely to lend. Please note this.
5. Talk loud and whistle, especially when we are engaged; if this has not the desired effect, sing.
6. Put your feet on the tables or lean on the desks; it will be of great assistance to those writing upon them.
7. Gentlemen will please examine our letters, and jot down the names and addresses of our customers, particularly if they are in the same profession.
8. As we are always glad to see old friends, it will be particularly refreshing to receive a visit and a renewal of orders from any former customer who has passed through the Bankruptcy Court and paid us not more than sixpence in the pound. A warm welcome may be relied on.
9. Having no occupation for our office-boy, he is entirely at the service of callers.
10. The following are kept at this office for public convenience: A stock of umbrellas (silk), all the local newspapers, time-tables, bus, tram, and all other guides and directories; also a supply of notepaper, envelopes, and stamps.
- N. B.—Private notepaper for private letters may also be had if desired.
11. Should you find our principals engaged, do not hesitate to interrupt them. No business can be of greater importance than yours.
12. If you have the opportunity of overhearing any conversation, do not hesitate to listen. You may gain information which may be useful in the event of disputes arising.
13. If you wish to inspect our premises, kindly do so during wet weather, and carry your umbrella with you; we admire the effect on the floor, it gives an air of comfort to the establishment. (The umbrella-stand is only for ornament, and on no account to be used.)

Poultry Conundrums.

Why is a hen on the fence like a cent? Head on one side, tail on the other.
Why don't hens lay at night? Then they are roosters.
Why is the first chicken of the brood like the mainmast of a ship? A little forward of the main hatch.
Why is the first chicken of the brood like a cow's tail? Never seen before.
To conclude: A hen is a very poor economist; for every grain she takes she gives a peck.—John H. B., Portland, Me.

Ordered Knife for Pie.

Professor George Lincoln Burr, of Cornell, who is making a tour of New England on his bicycle in order to gather facts about witchcraft, is an authority on the history of superstition and persecution, and he is also an indefatigable wheelman. Professor Burr, with his bicycle has penetrated many primitive and secluded parts of the United States. From these journeys he returns with little stories that are now quaint, now strange, now humorous. A story of the last named sort concerns a visit to Tennessee.
"I arrived one night at a mountaineer's cabin," said the professor, "and asked for shelter for the night. The good people were hospitable. They gave me a comfortable bed and an excellent meal.
"While I was eating the meal my host watched me narrowly, to see that I had everything I wanted. He kept ordering his wife to fill my glass, to bring me some more bread, etc. Finally, when I began to eat a piece of apple pie, he exclaimed in an indignant tone:
"Jaee, why don't you bring the gentleman a knife? Do you see him here, tryin' to eat apple pie with a fork?"

A Literal-Minded Class.

A teacher in one of the schools near Philadelphia had one day been so disturbed by the buzzing and the shuffling of feet of the children that she was on the verge of distraction. Finally, she said: "Children, I cannot stand so much noise. Please be quiet for a little while, at least. Let me see if you can't be so still that you could hear a pin drop."
Instantly every child became as still as a mouse. Then a little boy in a back seat piped out, with marked impatience:
"Well, let her drop!"—Philadelphia "Ledger."

He Was Always Cool.

Paul du Chaillu was always cool in danger. He was once in a parlor-car at the end of a train when a rear-end collision was narrowly avoided. As the collision seemed imminent, he said to the conductor, standing near, "Have you got a piece of chalk?"
"What on earth, sir," asked the conductor, "do you want of chalk now?"
"Why, it looks," he answered, "as if our legs and arms would be flying about in a little while, and I think it would be a good thing to mark them so that we may identify them later."

Cassidy's Dilemma.

"Here, you!" cried big Mrs. Cassidy, "Stroike or no stroike, Oi'll not hev ye standin' round doin' nothin'."
"Well, oh, well," meekly protested little Cassidy, "'tis the most onraisonin' woman you are. Last wake ye told me if Oi didn't behave mesself ye'd make me stand round, an' now that Oi'm doin' it ye're kickin'!"

Manana, Tomorrow.

My friend, have you heard of the town of Yawn, On the banks of the River Slow, Where blooms the Waitawhile flower fair, Where the Sometimeother scents the air, And the soft Goeasys grow?
It lies in the valley of Whattheuse, In the province of Letherslide; That tired feeling is native there, It's the home of the listless Idontcare, Where the Putitoffs abide.
The Putitoffs smile when asked to invest, And say they will do it to-morrow; And so they delay from day unto day, Till death cycles up and steals them away, And their families beg, steal or borrow.
—Popular Mechanics.

Hints to Bachelors.

The dark is the proper environment for a proposal. Be reasonably certain, however, that you are talking to the right girl. Marriage will prove conclusively whether or not it was the right girl.
In proposing to an heiress, use the term, "May I be yours?" The time to propose to an actress is just before she brings her breach of promise suit. The time to propose to a widow is when you call and she is out.
Be careful of your words. A girl may refuse you if you say "Do you love me?" who would gladly throw herself into your arms if you ask simply, "Will you marry me?"
A proposal should be accompanied by a kiss, as evidence of good faith. If you are timid, ask a hypothetical question, thus: "Milly, if a man about my build and prospects should ask you to marry him, what would you say?" Leave the rest to Milly.
If you propose on your knees you will stay there the rest of your life.
A long engagement means a short marriage. Every cloud has its silver lining.
If a girl takes your proposal with a gasp of surprise, be grateful; your wife will be a diplomat.
No gentleman proposes before dinner.
When a girl says "No," she means "No."
When a girl says "N-no," she means "Yes."

A Question of Titles.

Harper's Weekly: The City Treasurer of Edinburgh, Colonel Sir Robert Cranston, who has lately been knighted by King Edward, was called upon recently by a commercial traveler who wished to see the colonel on business. As Sir Robert, like most of his associate, is of the volunteer corps, not of the regular army, the traveler's inquiry was for Mr. Cranston. Colonel Cranston, he was informed, was out.
"Oh, very well; can I see Mr. —, then?" (mentioning another member of the firm.)
"Major — is out, too."
"And is Mr. — out, also?"
"I am sorry to say that Captain — has just left to attend a musketry class."
The exasperated traveler turned to go, when he was recalled and asked if he wished to leave any message.
"Well," he replied, "it's of no consequence, but you might just say, if you think of it, that Wolsey looked in."

This is how the editor of a paper in Pekin, China, declines manuscript: "Illustrious brother of the sun and moon! Look upon the slave who rolls at thy feet, who kisses the earth before thee, and demands of thy charity permission to speak and live. We have read the manuscripts with delight. By the bones of our ancestors we swear that never before have we encountered such a masterpiece. Should we print it, his majesty the Emperor would order us to take it as a criterion, and never again print anything which was not equal to it. As that would not be possible before ten thousand years, all tremblingly we return thy manuscript, and beg thee ten thousand pardons. See—my head is at thy feet, and I am the slave of thy servant.—The Editor."

The jury brought in a verdict of "Not guilty." The Judge said, admonishingly, to the prisoner—"After this you ought to keep away from bad company."
"Yes, your Lordship. You will not see me here again in a hurry."

"Leave now, my dear," he said, passing his hand nervously over his head. "I want to be alone for an hour or two."
"Why, what is the matter?" his wife inquired, with anxiety.
"I have to consult a railway guide," groaned the unhappy man.

"Does the climate agree with your husband?"
"Well," said the woman with the gentle and patient expression, "my husband is sometimes a little difficult to please. His ideals are so high, you know. I am sometimes not sure whether the climate disagrees with him, or whether he is disagreeing with the climate."

He gazed at his wife in her bathing suit and he said:—"I am ready to share For the very first time the sentiment, dear. That you haven't a thing to wear."

"I see Newlywed at the country club quite often since his baby came. I thought he was firmly anchored to a home life."
"He was; but at the first squall he began to drag his anchor."

"Do you not sometimes have soulful yearnings which you long to convey in words, but cannot?" asked the sentimental girl.
"Yes, indeed," replied the young man. "I was once dreadfully anxious to send home for money, and I didn't have the price of a telegram."

Cured two Bone Spavins of Ten Years' Standing.
Eastville, N.Y., Mar. 11, 1901.
I used your Kendall's Spavin Cure on a horse that had two Bone Spavins, and it removed them entirely. These Spavins had been on him from birth, and were of ten years' standing. I now have a case of a mare that was injured by falling through a bridge, and am going to give her complete treatment with your Spavin Cure. Please send me a copy of your "Treatise on the Horse" and his Diseases. Yours very truly,
