

Control OF Bronchitis

IS UNDOUBTEDLY POSSESSED BY THE WELL-KNOWN FAMILY MEDICINE

DR. CHASE'S SYRUP OF LINSEED AND TURPENTINE.

Turpentine is considered a specific for bronchitis.

The difficulty has been in the administration of turpentine so as to reach the irritated and inflamed parts and not be disagreeable to the patient.

Not only has the trouble been overcome by Dr. Chase in his Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, but he has also combined with turpentine two or three ingredients of almost equal power in soothing and healing the diseased parts and overcoming bronchitis and other dangerous ailments of the bronchial tubes and lungs.

By a secret process these elements of unquestioned medical power have been combined in Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine so as to be pleasant to the taste and suitable for children and adults alike.

The remarkable success of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine as a cure for bronchitis, asthma, croup and whooping cough is sufficient evidence that it is effective in ordinary coughs and colds.

MRS. RICHMOND WITHEROW, Shubeneadie, Hants Co., N. S., writes:—

"I have used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine with good success. My second daughter was troubled with bronchitis from the age of three weeks. Oftentimes I thought she would choke to death. The several remedies we got did not seem to be of much use, but the first dose of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine brought relief and further treatment made a thorough cure. This trouble used to come back from time to time, but the cure is now permanent. Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has saved us many doctor's bills, and I would not be without it in the house for many times its cost."

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, 25 cents a bottle, at all dealers or Edmonson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box.

Manitoba and the Territories.

For some time there have been indications of a feeling in our North-West Territories that their basis of representation in the councils of the Dominion should be altered. And indeed Mr. Haultain, the Premier of the Territories, has made a plain demand in that direction, which it is understood Sir Wilfrid Laurier was to consider, if not grant, after the Dominion election which has just taken place. It cannot be wondered at that such a demand should come, nor, we think, can it be successfully argued that increased representation should be refused. As to its taking the form of provincial autonomy, there may be reasons to state which caused the Government at Ottawa to delay approval of such a step. Nevertheless, something more than mere formality will have to be urged to quiet the demand.

The people of Manitoba, according to a speech of the Premier of that province at Manitoba, on Monday last, are in sympathy with the people of the Territories in their effort to obtain self-government, and Mr. Roblin declared that the time has arrived when it is possible to take common action. He went on to say that:

The opportunity is not one to be neglected by Manitoba to press her claim looking toward the extension of her boundaries. He was not prepared to urge any encroachment on the Territories to the west, but he thought that the time had come when Manitoba might insist that her northern boundary might be extended to Hudson Bay, so as to include a sea-port, which, connected by rail with the more populous centres of the province, must prove of inestimable economic and social benefit to Manitoba and the North-West. The Provincial Government will use its best endeavors to secure this extension, and, once accomplished, it would fall within its province to construct the necessary railway, thus giving Manitoba direct connection with the markets of Europe.

It is further significant that the speech from the throne read at the opening of the Manitoba Legislature on Tuesday, referred to the success of the railway policy of that province, "which will be continued where possible on the lines of Government control." We must remember that there are now some 870,000 persons in that Great West of ours, with the probability that by the end of another year there will be a million. The existing population is largely composed of the very best quality of the Canadian people, penetrated with the western spirit of enterprise and self reliance; that they have a magnificent country, whose populace feel that their affairs are past the territorial stage of development and that they are entitled to the kind of self-government that suits their ideas best. Therefore it will be well for the authorities at Ottawa to make no unnecessary delay in meeting the wishes of our western brethren; to meet them indeed in a spirit of large compliance. Any one who has been much among our western folk must know that they are apt to be disdainful—sometimes unjustly so—of "The East," and that red tape is a thing of which they are impatient. Any delay that is needless under the circumstances will only serve to heighten the feeling that they are being kept out of their rights. And this, in the interests of harmonious nation-building, is heartily to be avoided.—Monetary Times.

To Fill up Her Time.

The family who had lived for ten years in the small house owned by old lady Crocker had moved away. She asked her agent to secure some quiet and desirable tenants for the property as soon as possible.

The agent advertised, and within a few days had a call from a man who asked numerous questions about the house.

"There are seven good-sized rooms," said the agent, "and an excellent cellar. How many are there in your family?"

"My wife and myself and twelve children," said the man.

"Ah!" said the agent. "I'm afraid that would hardly do, as Mrs. Crocker is old and something of an invalid, and lives next door. She is not particularly fond of children."

"Well," and the man looked indignant "I shouldn't think she'd mind; there are only five little ones."

But the agent shook his head.

"It's all right, anyway," said the man, with a quick change of base. "I don't believe there's land enough around that house, and it's too near the city. What I really want is a place farther out, with an acre or so of ground, and a barn, and a chance to keep a cow and chickens, and room to grow some vegetables, so my wife will have something to take up her spare time."

Flowers in Place of Grain.

In Lincolnshire, England, where severe agricultural depression has lately prevailed, some of the farmers have found a new and profitable use for their soil in raising flowers. Broad fields formerly covered with grain now bear acres upon acres of beautiful flowers. The display extends in some places as far as the eye can reach. Other farmers have recently devoted their fields to the cultivation of strawberries with great success. Celery and carrots are also now grown in Lincolnshire to an extent never before thought of. A writer in Science asks if this may not afford a valuable hint for New England farmers who cannot compete with the vast grain-fields of the West.

Stick to the Farm.

Indianapolis Star: "Stick to the old farm." wrote a young man up in northern Indiana just before he committed suicide, a wanderer from his home.

How many men there are who wish they had followed such advice! In the restlessness of their youth and their ignorance of the world they look upon life on the farm as "cribbed, cabined and confined," and as a thing from which to escape. They go eagerly away, not necessarily to sorrow and death to be sure, for many attain wealth and fame,

One Million Dollars

Have Been Spent to Give Liquozone Free to the Sick.

When we purchased the rights to Liquozone, we decided to buy the first bottle and give it free to each sick one we learned of. We published the offer in nearly every newspaper in America, and 1,800,000 people have accepted it. In one year it has cost us over one million dollars to announce and fulfill the offer.

Don't you realize that a product must have wonderful merit to make such an offer possible? We have never asked a soul to buy Liquozone. We have published no testimonials, no physician's endorsement. We have simply asked the sick to try it—try it at our expense. And that is all we ask you, if you need it.

Kills Inside Germs.

Liquozone is not made by compounding drugs, nor is there alcohol in it. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. This process has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research.

The result is a liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. Yet it is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. The reason is that germs are vegetables; and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetable matter.

There lies the great value of Liquozone. It is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissues, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease. It is this fact that gives Liquozone its worth to humanity. And that worth is so great that, after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, we paid $100,000 for the American rights.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone attacks the germs, wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must end, and forever. That is inevitable.

but whether they miss or gain prizes in the big outside world the time comes when they look yearnings back to the farm where boyhood days were spent. The one who is poor regrets the lost independence of the life there and has visions of even yet becoming the possessor of a few acres and of getting back to the soil. If he is rich he buys a farm and equips it to suit his taste and his purse, deriving what pleasure he may have from his occasional visits there.

Perhaps no one appreciates rural life as much as one who has left it, and it may be that absence is needed to prove its advantages and its charms, but it is a pity that when the lesson is learned while one is yet young the wanderer does not make haste to return and remedy his mistake. The time will arrive when farming will be recognized as an art and will be followed as a profession. The things that the young find irksome will be fewer than now. The restless boy will make his journey to "carcassone," while his years are few and will return satisfied with his home. It will not be necessary to urge him to "stick to the farm."

Not to be Fooled.

Uncle Cyrus had come up from the country to visit his nephew, Charles, in town. Charles had shown the old gentleman the sights until he was at his wit's end for further entertainment. One morning, however, he noticed in the paper that "The Imperial Italian Band" was still giving its celebrated open-air concerts. Uncle Cyrus said he should like to hear them play.

As the concert progressed Uncle Cyrus waxed enthusiastic. Toward the end of the program a solo on the slide trombone was announced. It was a really fine performance, and the audience demanded an encore with a storm of applause. Charles noted that his uncle was among the most appreciative, but he was somewhat puzzled by the smile which played round the corners of the old man's mouth, for the selection had been mournful rather than gay. At the conclusion of the encore, when the applause had finally died away, Charles turned to his uncle:

"That was fine, wasn't it?"
"Mighty fine, mighty fine," was the reply. "But you city folks are easy fooled. He didn't fool me a bit. I knew all the time he was playing that he wasn't really swallering that thing!"

Trout that are not Trout.

Theodore Gill of the Smithsonian Institution, in calling attention to the misnaming of our native fish by early settlers, instances among others the trout. The Pilgrims, finding in New England streams a fish that reminded them of the trout of England, gave it the same name, although Izaak Walton would have told them that it was not a trout but a char. In Maine landlocked salmon, and in certain lakes another salmoned fish, were also called trout. In the South the name trout was given to black bass. In California peculiar fish was named trout, apparently for no other reason than its possession of spots. The Gila River trout is not a trout at all.

Seedy Stranger—Excuse me, sir, but can you change a dollar for me?

Seedy Stranger—Thanks, and now, will you kindly tell me where I can get the dollar?
"Your daughter's music is improving," said the professor, "but when she runs the scales I have to watch her pretty closely."
"Just like her father," said Mrs. Nuritch.
