

Picnic, Presentation and Address.

Upwards of fifty of the Wakefield Baptist church and congregation drove up to the parsonage at Goldstream bringing their baskets filled with good things ready for a picnic. After spreading tables on the lawn the pastor and family were invited to partake with the party. Ample justice was done to the sumptuous food and just before arising from the table Mr. B. A. Robinson in behalf of the Wakefield people read the following address to Mrs. Wetmore at the same time presenting her with a beautiful silver water pitcher and purse of money.

To our Sister Worker, Mrs. J. D. Wetmore:—It was with the deepest regret, that we learned of your intended departure, from our midst; but it is simply the repetition of the old saying "The best of friends is a must part." One has said that "Perfect friendship has been made permanent by goodness and character," and so it has been during your stay with us, we have been helped and encouraged by your friendship. But we must not give self too prominent a place, but be willing to share with others, for we know that they too cannot fail to be helped, as we have been, by your association. We hope though that the time will not be far distant before you will be among us again.

Then on behalf of the ladies of the Wakefield Baptist church in which you and your husband have so diligently laboured permit me to present to you this gift as a slight token of the respect and love in which you are held; and trust that it may recall to you pleasant recollections of the friends whose best wishes follow you and your family to your future home.

Mrs. Wetmore replied in a few well chosen words as best she could realizing full well how hard it is to part, as she soon anticipates doing, from a people who have by such repeated acts of kindness endeared themselves to the heart of the pastor and his family.

The Coming Exhibition.

Though the farmers were in the midst of harvest and Saturday was a fine harvest day, there was a large attendance at the meeting of the agricultural society, showing that they are taking a keen interest in the preparation for the annual exhibition, September 27th, 28th and 29th.

The question of judges was taken up and it was announced that two men from Ontario, W. F. Stevens and Andrew Elliott would be sent by the Department of Agriculture to judge the stock and would give some good lectures in the ring. The name of Dr. Twitchell, Editor of the Maine Farmer, was also spoken of in connection with the judging of stock.

Messrs. Archie Scott and John R. Ronald of Glassville will judge the grain, Mr. L. C. Daigle, Provincial Dairy Superintendent, will judge the Dairy products and Mr. J. Frank Tilley, Provincial Dairy Superintendent, will judge the fruit, Miss Gray of Hartland has been invited to judge the fancy work. Mr. W. S. Tompkins of Meductic and Mr. Tingley of Littleton, Me., will also be among the judges.

Invitations have been issued to the Lieut. Governors of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, the governor of the State of Maine and the Hon. L. P. Farris, Chief Commissioner of Agriculture, to be present at the opening ceremonies, September 27th. Prize lists may be had on application to THE DISPATCH office or to Mr. Charles F. Rogers, Secretary, Woodstock.

Working to Avoid Work.

Since the opening of the great fair in St. Louis the newspapers have recorded the deeds of a number of men who have crossed the ocean in small dories, or ridden the width of the continent on horseback or on a bicycle, or walked thousands of miles in the hope of making money by exhibiting themselves. Only lately a morning paper mentioned two men that had arrived at St. Louis on foot, the one after a journey of six thousand miles, the other after a walk of three thousand. Each had heard a report that a money prize had been offered to the man who walked the farthest, a story that had no foundation in fact.

It does not require a world's fair to bring persons of this sort to the front. Some of them are always conspicuous. They belong to the class of Tom Sawyer's boy friends, who gladly performed the work of white-washing the fence because they did not see that it was work. An excellent plan for singling them out of a crowd is the maul-and-peg contrivance common on picnic grounds, whereby the strength of a blow is recorded on a dial. It is an interesting study of human nature to see how this attracts men who have to handle a pick or shovel or paving stone tamper the most of their time. They turn eagerly to this heavier maul as a recreation.

Think of the energy in foot-pounds or horse-power, or any units of measure, which was represented by the six-thousand mile walk, and then think what it would have accomplished if it had been applied to the wood-saw or the ax or the hoe-handle?

The number of persons who work hard in order to avoid working is probably larger than they themselves suspect. They need a short course of instruction in mechanics. It is almost an axiom in that science that the most direct application of power is the most

A LUCKY WOMAN.

How Good Health Came to Mrs. Deschesne after Much Suffering.

Mrs. Abraham Deschesne, wife of a well known farmer at St. Leon le Grand, Que., considers herself a lucky woman. And she has good cause as the following interview will show: "I was badly run down and very nervous. Each day brought its share of household duties, but I was too weak to perform them. My nerves were in a terrible condition. I could not sleep and the least sound would startle me. In fact I was continually growing worse, and began to despair of ever being well again. One day a friend called to see me and strongly advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I decided to do so, and it was not long before they began to help me. I gained in strength from day to day; my nerves became strong and quiet, and after using about a half dozen boxes of the pills I was fully restored to my old time health and cheerfulness. I now think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills an ideal medicine for weak women."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills feed the nerves with new, rich red blood, thus strengthening and soothing them, and curing such nerve troubles as neuralgia, St. Vitus dance, partial paralysis and locomotive ataxia. These pills cure also all troubles due to poor and watery blood, including the special ailments of women. Get the genuine with the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," on the wrapper around each box. Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from the The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

economical. The kind of men who walk to St. Louis are always looking for the most indirect application.

The Tragedy of the Educated Colored Woman.

We have all heard and thought a great deal of the feelings of the white minority in parts of the Southern States who live in constant fear of being engulfed by the great black mass all around them. But another side to the tragedy—that formed by the life of the educated colored woman—is presented by a writer in the New York Outlook: "When," says this writer, "I try to imagine myself belonging to the negro race, I feel quite sure that I should prefer to live in the South rather than in the North. In either section the tragedy in the life of a cultivated negro woman, can be nothing less than terrible, especially if she be what I might call a white negro, of whom many are to be seen. The man if he be brave, can endure it. But who can contemplate the life of such a cultivated white negro woman and not feel the profoundest sympathy for her? She enjoys art, music, literature, she has all the aspirations and ideals of her white parentage, developed by an education which has given her the mental and moral graces of culture; and yet she is shut out by an impassable but impassable barrier from all cultivated society. She cannot ride in the same car, nor sit in the same room, nor share in the same life with those whose tastes and aspirations she really shares. Intellectually she belongs in the cultivated class; she is condemned to find her associates in a class as yet generally uncultivated, or to live a wholly lonely life. It is the not unfamiliar tragedy of a lonely leader, but written in its most dramatic and tragic terms."

Dental Specifications.

Among the curiosities of the late Doctor Evans, the American dentist of Paris, was a letter written to him long ago, when he began his career in America. The letter, says the New York Tribune, was from a young farmer of Vermont who wanted a set of artificial teeth.

My mouth, the young man wrote, is three inches across, five-eighth inches threw the jaw. Some hummocky on the edge. Shaped like a horse shew, toe forward. If you want me to be more pertickler I shall have to come thar.

Mr. S. S. SELFRIDGE of Aylesford, N. S., is visiting Mr. A. P. Connolly. Mr. Selfridge wants to purchase a number of horses.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

At August End.

The summer folds its hands with sense of rest, An emblem of old age that sits in peace O'ershadowed by its noonday warmth and bloom That deeds sown early reaped in rich increase. Long are her dreams of spring when leaf was green.

Of burning struggle and of tender rain, And now, repose—God's benediction smile—And glimpse beyond of harvest fields of grain.

When age comes on to parch my growth of years, May, also, I be calm in life's content; Secure the blossoms of my days have reached Nearer the sky because of past strength spent; God of all times, give me of summer's peace, That promises of spring shall be fulfilled; When autumn comes I pray my deeds may fall To nourish earth as thou in wisdom wilted. —Edith Livingston Smith, in New York outlook.
