

Why?

COME AND SEE WHY.

WHY men find our overcoats as much better than others sell at the same prices.

WHY we always hold our old customers and are constantly adding new ones.

WHY so very many people think that this is the best store in which to buy clothing.

WHY YOU should do YOUR trading here.

Come in and learn about these and other WHYS.

John McLauchlan,

The Leading Clothier, Hatter and Furnisher.

Country Hops,
Sage,
Summer Savory,
Thyme,
Sweet Marjoram.

ALL THIS FALL'S CROP.
FRESH AND PURE.

PEOPLE'S PHARMACY,

OPPOSITE CARLISLE HOTEL.

I. EDWARD SHEASCREEN, PROPRIETOR.

A Beautiful Display of

RINGS

In Diamond, Opal, Pearl, Ruby, Sapphire, Emerald, Garnet, Turquoise, and other combinations, suitable for Engagement Rings. Wedding Rings in 14 and 18 karat; Children's Rings, Band Rings, Gentlemen's Rings and Rheumatic Rings.

MARRIAGE LICENSES at the Blue Front Jewellery Store.

H. V. DALLING, Prop.

INCREASING BY MILLIONS.

The record of The Manufacturers' Life places it amongst the BEST life companies in Canada.

The applications received for new insurances in each of the last four years amount to the following sums:

1900.	$4,894,874
1901.	5,502,069
1902.	6,542,569
1903.	7,764,542

Such increases prove once more that "Nothing succeeds like Success." The Company has still good openings for energetic men. Apply to

The E. R. MACHUM, CO. Lt'd.

T. A. LINDSAY, Mgrs. Maritime Provinces, St. John, N. B.
Inspector, Woodstock, N. B.

SENTENCED TO BE HANGED

on January 12th for the Murder of Willie Doherty.--Thomas Cammack Receives his Sentence Calmly.

Thomas Cammack has been found guilty of murder and sentenced to be hanged on January 12th. In the case of his son Walter Cammack the jury disagreed.

The evidence all being in, the addresses of counsel and the charge of His Hon. Judge Gregory having been made, the jury retired at noon on Thursday.

The jury returned to the room at 3 o'clock, the judge having been informed that they could not agree as to Walter Cammack.

When the prisoners were brought in, Thomas Cammack looked very pale. Walter was anxious but apparently not greatly disturbed.

By their foreman, Mered Brewer, the jury announced that they could not agree. The judge said that in his charge he had intended to say something which he had forgotten then, although he had referred to it during the address of the counsel. It was with regard to a statement made by Thomas Cammack to Mr. Foster and Mr. Martin. This statement must not be taken by the jury as any proof whatever of the facts stated by Thos. Cammack. They must not take that as a proof of the facts at all. It is evidence of what he said, not the truth of what he said, and so far was evidence against, not in favor of Walter Cammack. Attorney General Pugsley asked that the court withdraw that part of the charge in which the judge said that where prisoners were tried jointly one had the right to call the other.

The judge—"At the request of the crown I will withdraw that part of the charge I gave you, where I said either prisoner could call the other to give evidence in the witness box in his behalf."

The foreman then said: "It might be well to let us go out again for a few minutes."

The jury again retired shortly after three. They returned into the room at ten minutes to four. The foreman said to the judge that they had agreed as to Thomas Cammack, but they could not agree as to Walter. The judge, the attorney general agreeing, said that he would take their verdict as to Thomas Cammack and discharge them as to Walter Cammack. The foreman then announced that they found Thos. Cammack guilty and that there was no possibility of them agreeing as to Walter Cammack.

Mr. Hartley moved that an order be granted by the judge allowing the prisoner, Walter Cammack, out on bail until the next circuit court, in the same sureties as had been given before the trial. The attorney general raised no objection to this.

It was learned that ten jurymen were for acquittal and two for conviction. The prisoner, Thomas Cammack, kept his eyes on the ground as the verdict was rendered. The attorney general moved that the prisoner Walter Cammack, be remanded. The attorney general moved that the sentence of the court be now pronounced on Thomas Cammack.

The court adjourned till 4.20, when Judge Gregory pronounced sentence.

The judge said: "Thomas Cammack, stand: You have been tried by a jury of your countrymen on the indictment charging you with the murder of William Doherty, in the parish of Kent, on the 17th of July last. You have been convicted and found guilty of that offence. Your trial has been conducted with fairness. The jury have given marked attention to the evidence as it has been adduced. There was no room for doubt in the mind of the jury, or any one of the jurymen, on which they could find otherwise than that you were guilty of this crime. And a most atrocious crime it was which you committed, apparently without any adequate or great cause, provocation, or reason for anger, or for evil doing upon the part of your victim. You appear to have gone in the dead of night, with the intention of not only taking the life of this person, but apparently of taking life indiscriminately, because it appears in evidence that the first discharge of the revolver was against Charles Doherty, wounding him; secondly, against William Doherty, causing his death, and then against George Doherty. I cannot find any extenuating circumstances whatever in the case appearing by the evidence. Your counsel has been unable to point out any that would move the compassion of any court, or any citizen in your favor. It is not for me to conjecture how you came to commit this fearful crime. You have committed it and are now obliged to submit to the consequences imposed by the law upon you for this offence. You have been defended by counsel, who with the poor material he had, has, I am sure, manifested a desire and zeal on your behalf, as great as could be shown by anybody. Nothing could be found by him upon which he could hold out any reason whatever to the jury to acquit you or to take a mitigating view of your offence. All that remains for me to do is to pass sentence of the law upon you. You will understand that I have no option, it is not in my power to mitigate the sentence. The one power given to me, the only discretion I am to exercise is in fixing the time when sentence shall be executed on you. I am about to fix a time which will give you sufficient opportunity for meditation and reflection, both as to your past course of life and your future condition. I hope you will use that time to advantage. I hope you will use it in making your peace with your Maker. I hope you will use the time which will elapse between now and the day of your execution in serious reflection, in making that peace with Almighty God, whom you have offended so grievously that may insure you what this world cannot give to you, a peaceful hereafter. I implore you to think and take cognizance of that time, advise consultation with those who are able to direct your mind and assist you in arriving at a state of penitence, such as will be acceptable to your Maker, so that though you leave this world in disgrace, it may end in your merciful deliverance hereafter.

"The sentence of the court is that you be taken hence to the place from whence you came, and there detained in custody till the 12th day of January next, on which day that you be hanged by the neck till you are dead, and may God Almighty have mercy upon your soul."

The Flag.

There were some flags flying in town last week. There were a few British emblems, and the United States Consul courteously hoisted the Stars and Strips in honour of visiting celebrities.

It is about time to remark that the United States Consulate here always flies a clean reputable looking flag, while in contrast the British flags looked like the dish cloths of a boys' camp. I don't believe there is a new clean British flag in town. If these flags of which I complain had been carried to victory on bloody fields, if their stains and tatters were mementos of a struggle for national existence, I should not cavil at them, but I might reasonably ask that they be preserved carefully with our dearest national treasures. But when one knows that their disfigurements do not represent a glorious past in these particular flags, but a past mostly spent lying crumpled on the floors of dirty store rooms, then one has a right to kick.

It is our duty to the young people growing up in this community to instruct them that the flag of the British Empire is not a dirty and torn rag, but a beautiful clean emblem representing political and religious liberty and a few other things, like territorial expansion, sometimes called land grubbing. Please let us not, any more, from pure carelessness, fly a flag that looks like a tramp's shirt. God Save the King.

A Farewell to Mr. Weyman.

Mr. Weyman who has been teaching grades 9, 10 and 11 in the Grammar School left on Friday evening for Yale University where he will take a post graduate course. On Thursday evening twenty of the young men of his school tendered him an oyster supper at the Cafe Royal. The gentlemen present beside the guest of the evening were Mr. G. H. Harrison principal of the Grammar School and Messrs Charles Jones, Wennie Jones, Roy M. Watt, Clarence Sprague, Walter Sprague, Beresford Connell, Harold Garden, Guy Gable, Clyde Camber, R. Perley Hartley, Clifford Rogers, Arthur Fisher, William Brittain, Eugene McKeen, Bliss Brittain, E. Frank Woolverton, Malcom Munro, Allan Poole.

The toast list brought forth a number of interesting and amusing addresses from the gentlemen present. Beside expressing their kindly feeling for Mr. Weyman an address from the young ladies of the school was read expressing regret at his departure.

The political fight in Carleton County is getting a little warmer each day as the time of election draws nearer.

There were two bumper meetings in the opera house last week. The Hon. R. L. Borden leader of the Conservative party in Canada addressed a large and enthusiastic audience on Thursday night, and on Friday night an audience almost as large greeted the Hon. H. R. Emmerson Minister of Railways and Canals and Sir Frederick Borden Minister of Militia.

Once in a while on the street one will see a faint demonstration of that alcoholic joviality that accompanies our elections. Fortunately this has not yet become so pronounced as to warrant making an arrest.

A Destructive Fire.

The millinery store of Mrs. A. D. Hartley at East Florenceville caught fire early Tuesday morning, October 18th, and in spite of the efforts of the neighbours it was burned to the ground and all the contents were destroyed. The thing happened so quickly that it was not possible to save even the money drawer which contained no small amount of money. Mrs. Hartley's fall stock of millinery which had not yet been taken from the packing cases was lost. Col. Hartley was away at the time.

It was with the greatest difficulty that the neighbors were able to save the residence which was about twelve feet from the store. Mrs. Nichols, of Lowell, who was visiting Mrs. Hartley, in endeavouring to save the cash drawer was badly burned about the hands and face. There was no insurance on the building nor on the goods. Col. Hartley returned from the Tobique on Wednesday night.

Dunbar-Aitken.

This afternoon at three o'clock an interesting ceremony will take place at the residence of Mr. John Aitken, Debec, when his daughter Clara will be united in marriage to Mr. William Dunbar of the firm of Alexander Dunbar & Sons, Woodstock. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. G. D. Ireland. Mr. and Mrs. Aitken will drive to Woodstock this evening and take up their residence on Richmond Street. Mr. Dunbar is an energetic young machinist, a member of a large and enterprising concern, and a popular citizen. Miss Aitken, who has been living in Woodstock for the past year or two has many friends here who will welcome her return.

Nelson-Turner.

A pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's foster mother, Mrs. Ann Anderson, Pioneer, October 19th, 1904, the contracting parties being Miss Nellie Turner and Mr. John Nelson, of Bridgewater, Maine. Upwards of eighty guests witnessed the ceremony which was performed by Rev. E. C. Turner. The bride who is one of Pioneer's fairest daughters appeared "effulgent in the light of youth" in her beautiful bridal costume. She was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts. The bridegroom was formerly of Pioneer but sold his interest there some years ago and is now a prosperous farmer in Bridgewater, Maine.

White-Crane.

The residence of Mr. Elmer Stokoe Bloomfield was the scene of an interesting event on Wednesday Oct. 19th 1904, when his sister-in-law, Miss Emma Crane of Bath was united in marriage to Mr. Stanley White an enterprising farmer in Wicklow. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. C. Turner in the presence of a few immediate relatives. The young couple drove to their home at Wicklow shortly after the ceremony, where they have many warm friends who wish them a happy and prosperous future.

Bengough

When J. W. Bengough the original artist and humorist gives his entertainment in Woodstock on the 11th of November, his audience is sure to be convulsed with laughter over his funny sketches of local incidents of a political and personal character. Bengough is comedian as well as artist and his mimicry and witticisms are simply irresistible. No one who can enjoy a good thing should fail to see this man's versatile art. There is only one Bengough and he comes to Woodstock only once in a long while. Don't forget the date.

Card of Thanks.

Mrs. Hartley joins with me in thanking our neighbours and friends for their heroic struggle in saving our home when the store and contents were burned only 20 feet from residence.

A. D. HARTLEY.

An Aid To Mother.

It doesn't help a sick baby to give it "soothing" drugs. On the contrary, it lessens baby's chance of recovery. If your little ones show any signs of being unwell promptly give Baby's Own Tablets and see how speedily they will be bright, cheerful, well and happy. This medicine is sold under a guarantee that it contains no poisonous soothing stuff, or hurtful drug, and it cures all the little ills of babyhood and childhood. Mrs. W. H. Austin, Farmington, N. S. says: "Baby's Own Tablets are just what every mother needs when her little ones are cutting teeth. When my little one cries I give him a Tablet and it helps him at once. Mothers who use the Tablets will have no trouble with their babies." Baby's Own Tablets are sold by all medicine dealers or can be had by mail at 25 cents a box by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Buy Your Groceries From H. G. NOBLE.