Fashion Notes for Workingmen.

If you hang your coat on a fence, it is fashionable this spring to keep your eye on the fence.

Don't wear a dress suit if you are working in a sewer.

Gloves are not to be worn unless you are handling live wires.

It is not necessary to say "Excuse me!" if you fall from a ladder and land on top of the foreman. The foreman will do all the talking necessary.

Patent leather shoes are not being worn on scaffolds.

It is the proper thing to use a nail if you burst a button.

Do not bring your golf sticks to the factory.

Shotmakers' aprons are longer this year than before.

Sleeves may be rolled up during working hours.

It is not good form to put on your coat before closing time, unless the foreman has gone home.

Half-worn shoes may be made quite elegant by the use of iron heel taps.

Four-in-hand ties are not worn in factories this season, as they may be tangled up in the machinery.

It is not usual in Paris to carry the watch in the nail pocket.

Silk hats are not worn in the building trades, as they may be injured by falling bricks.

Bridge builders are wearing light shoes, so that they can swim ashore whenever they fall off.

Strong leather belts, with steel hooks at the ends, are popular among window washers.

Coal handlers are recommending large bars of soap for the complexion.

The report that London bricklayers carry canes while at work has been found to be incorrect.—[Memphis Commercial Appeal.]
