

Summer Carnival.

The A. Henderson Furniture float was an attractive one. The base was covered with one hundred yards of velvet pile, Axminster and Brussels carpet and along the top of the base lay two mammoth rolls of linoleum. On the float was a rich brass bed with a spring and a Marshall Sanitary Mattress. The bed was made up and in it lay comfortably ensconced a smiling little darkey boy. Beside this the float carried a white enamel dressing case with oval glass, two enamel chairs to match. Behind these were two King Edward chairs one red and the other finished in natural wood. Mr. Henderson drove the float himself.

Dolph McLean's Old English Castle of 1147 was a work of art, and there is no reason in the world that it shouldn't be, for Dolph McLean, aged about 16, is an artist. This castle, built by himself, with a wooden frame with cardboard covering represented the nicest detail an old castle, and it was painted by him, in shades of brown, to represent stone walls no longer in their prime. Student of history that he is he carried above it the old English flag, not seen by any generation now living. This castle was all ready to be launched on the river Tuesday night, but the high wind would not allow its illumination.

Any float that Charles Camp puts in a parade is always all right. This year he had the Ferris Wheel. The wheel was 11 feet in diameter and the top of it was 16 feet from the ground. Every bearing was a ball bearing and with each of its seven cages loaded with a husky boy it turned easier than a sewing machine. The scene on this float represented a small section of Coney Island and the bar, which was liberally patronized, bore the sign, "Licensed to sell Booze, when Mr. Colpitts is not around." The men in charge of this were Charles Camp, Will Smith, Harry Smith, Robert Brown, Robert Corbett, Gordon Moores, Will Bohorn and Tom Camp. They were arrayed as John Bull, Uncle Sam, Emperor of Japan, clown, Hooligan, sporty coon and bar tender. The float carried the flags of Canada, the United States and Japan.

William Hill came to the front this year with the steam yacht "Summertime," coloured white and gold, a 34 footer, with a 9 foot beam. In her bow was a steam engine that carried over 100 pounds of steam and had a whistle that made the pumping station sound like an infant. The yacht was decorated with house flags of 15 different steamship companies. Behind the engine the whole was covered with a canopy, beneath which a merry party of young people were regaling themselves with ice cream, fruit and mild things to drink. In the party were William Hill and his three little children, Misses Nellie P. Dent, Bessie McLauchlan, Mabel VanWart and Dolly Brown and Harry Dunbar, Roy Watt and Arthur Stevens. John Sherman, of No. 1 Hose Company, was engineer.

The Old Oaken Bucket float, the one designed by Harry D. Baird, chairman of the parade and sports committee, was a large one 12x36ft. It was a pleasant farm scene, the whole surrounded by an old fashioned pitch-pole fence. There was a farm house before which stood an old moss covered well, with the Old Oaken Bucket suspended from the primeval pole. The bucket itself was an old timer, being older than any one knows for. The iron hoops on it are almost as thin as tissue paper. In a meadow on the float were the following men making hay, all of whom have good voice and who sang sweetly and with abandon. Harry D. Baird, Lewis Milmore, Jame McDougall, Norman McIntyre, Arthur Taylor, Ralph Chapman and George Greer.

The Water Waggon was a water waggon indeed, for it was the town springing cart, manned by Frank and George Buck, armed with ominous bottles from which they quaffed freely. Their Karry Nayshun motto was humorous.

The float of F. L. Atherton, harness maker, was 8ftx22ft. In the centre stood his large grey horse, ridden by Miss Mabel Atherton. Both ends of the float were covered with canopies, beneath which were displayed single and double harness of his own manufacture and a beautiful display of robes, blankets, whips, and other things usually kept in such an up to date harness shop as Mr. Atherton keeps. The bottom of the float was draped in blue felt on which his name was ingeniously woven in brass buckles.

J. M. Fripp proprietor of the Meduxna-keag Flour Mills had a good looking delivery waggon drawn by a lively roan mare. The waggon was loaded with cotton sacks of flour on which were printed the names of his well known brands, Primrose and Lilly White.

The Imperial Packing Company had two floats. The first representing the coo-perage of their establishment carried a tub lathe for turning the inside and outside of a tub. This was belted off a counter shaft and was in working operation during the progress of the procession. This was in charge of Mr. Ferguson who had 9 men with him. The other float represented the packing department. Here were displayed all kinds of cured and canned meats put up by the company. At the cutting table stood A. Wilmot Hay, president of the company, dressed in frock coat and silk hat, cleaver in hand. There were five other men on this float.

Two floats from Grafton were driven in the parade, but the owners were so modest they would not let anyone know who they were. One was a very attractive hunting scene including a lean to shelter and other accessories of a hunting trip. The body of a big moose lay near by, ready for the hunters knife. The other Grafton float was a gorgeous band waggon filled with boys in uniform who furnished music, that at least possessed the virtue of being audible.

ST. VITUS DANCE.

MUST BE TREATED THROUGH THE BLOOD AND NERVES.

One of The Worst Cases on Record Cured Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

St. Vitus dance is a nervous disease chiefly afflictin children. There are a number of signs by which it may be detected such as a twitching of the muscles of the face, shaky hands, or a jerky motion of the arms, a trembling or a dragging of the legs, irritability and restlessness. St Vitus dance is caused by disordered nerves and blood—that is why it is always cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The pills fill the veins with pure, rich red blood, which in turn soothes and braces the nerves, making the sufferer well. Mrs. Luffman, Poucher's Mills, Ont., tells how Dr. Williams' Pink Pill cured her daughter, Louise. "I do not think it possible," says Mrs. Luffman, "that anyone could be afflicted with a more severe form of St. Vitus dance than that which attacked my daughter. Her arms and legs would twitch and jerk, her face was drawn, and finally her left side became numb as though paralyzed. Her speech became thick and indistinct and she could neither stand still nor sit down. Two doctors attended her, but gave her no benefit. The last doctor who attended her told me she would never get better. It was at this discouraging time we decided to give her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After taking two boxes we could see an improvement; she could sleep better and the spasms were less severe. From that on she steadily grew better, and after using eight or ten boxes she was as strong and healthy a girl as you will find anywhere, and she has not had the least symptom of the trouble since."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the surest cure for St. Vitus dance, hysteria, neuralgia, nervous exhaustion, paralysis, and all the nervous troubles of men, women and children. But you must get the genuine with the full name, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," on the wrapper around every box. Sold by all medicine dealers or sent post paid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Races.

The horse races were of the best. E. R. Teed was starter, Dr. Colter and Andrew Williams timers, B. B. Manzer, J. T. A. Dibblee and Thomas Colter judges and Warren Lindow clerk. On the second day Frank Thompson acted as timer in place of Mr. Colter. One horseman said E. Teed was one of the best starters he ever saw in a Judges stand, "He sees everything." Following is the summary.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC.

In the future the Woodstock Papers will charge 50 cents per inch for all Advance Notices of Church Socials, Concerts, Lectures, etc., at which an admission fee is charged or collection taken.

From Bradstreet's annual report for 1903 it appears that 84 per cent. of the merchants who failed during the year 1903 were non-advertisers, and the other 16 per cent. were weak advertisers, or didn't advertise enough. It surely is a case of go in and win or fall by the wayside.
