C. P. R. Changes.

Mr. J. N. Sutherland, General Freight Agent of the C. P. R. at St. John, is in the city today on his regular business visit. He is accompanied by Mr. F. Tinker, who has lately been appointed a travelling freight agent on the Atlantic Division of the C. P. R. and his territory is all points north and west of St. John. This position has heretofore been held by Mr. John Stewart, of Woodstock, a most highly respected gentleman. Mr. Stewart has been in ill health of late and the change is due to that fact. When Mr. Stewart's health permits of it, he will probably take up the duties of a position in another of the C. P. R.'s departments. Mr. Tinker will make his headquarters in this city.—Fenton Gleaner.

A Tobique Man Has Good Nerve.

One evening last week when William Johnston, jr., of Burnt Land Brook, went to the barn yard to milk he was attacked by a four year old bull and knocked down. He managed to get to his feet but the bull knocked him down again. Again he got to his feet and got his hand on a good rock with which he struck the bull on the forehead, straight between the eyes, stunning him and before he could recover Mr. Johnston whipped out his jackknife and cut the bull's throat.

Both Cammacks Sent up For Trial.

Thomas Cammack, charged with the murder of Willie Doherty at Ruth Glen July 17, is to stand trial in the Supreme Court, which will meet Oct. 18. Walter Cammack, his son, is to stand trial as accessory after the fact. Both were committed for trial by Magistrate Dibblee on Friday.

Alice Cammack, wife of Thomas Cammack, was first called. She said she was at her home (the residence of the Dohertys) at the time of the murder—the night of Sunday, July 17. She said she was aroused by someone entering her room. She arose and on entering Willie Doherty's room saw Willie leaning against the bed. Two shots were fired and hit the deceased before he fell back. Thomas Cammack, the murderer, seized the witness and said he would save her. Cammack had a revolver.

Later she said she saw a man lurking near a woodpile. The man seized a club and gave chase to her and her brother. He was Walter Cammack. He said: "I'll kill you." She seized the club, and Cammack said: "I'll shoot you." Cammack then threw the witness down and struck her with a club on the neck and placed both knees on her breast. She then lost consciousness. When she recovered, the house was in flames. She and her brother rescued two small children from the burning house.

George Doherty was next called. He said he was home on the night of the murder, and slept with Willie Doherty. He was awakened by seeing a man with a light. This was Thomas Cammack. Cammack fired two shots at Willie. Witness seized Cammack, and Cammack shot him in the shoulder. Later the witness and Alice Cammack went to the work of rescuing the children. The house was burning, and when he tried to get in the front door he found it tied. He was sure of Thomas Cammack being upstairs in his house on the night of the murder. The house seemed to have been set on fire in three places, kerosene being used.

Charles Doherty said he was home on the night of the murder. When he awoke he saw Thomas Cammack with a light. Cammack fired two shots at Willie, and shot the witness in the chin. He saw Willie fall. He tried to get out the front door, but could not, as the door was chained. He escaped by a rear door. He could not say a man whom he saw by the woodpile near his house was Walter Cammack.

Wm. H. Elliott, who lived near the Dohertys, said that at noon of the day of the murder, Cammack called at his house inquiring for his wife Alice. At midnight he saw a light at Willie Doherty's. Alice Cammack and George Doherty and two children arrived at his house. The Doherty house was in flames, the fire coming from the lower part. He heard Walter Cammack say it would be a good thing if the Dohertys were wiped out of the place. He heard Thomas Cammack say that he would shoot Willie Doherty if he went with his daughter; he would rather see Maggie (his daughter) in the Glassville churchyard than have anything to do with the Dohertys. The body of Willie Doherty was burned to a crisp—nothing but the trunk and neck remained.

Deputy-Sheriff Foster told of the arrest of Walter Cammack for "being with his father at the Doherty murder." At dusk Thomas Cammack was found in the woods where he attempted suicide. Dr. Commins was telephoned for. Cammack admitted to Mr. Foster that he had done the deed at Doherty's but said Walter was not with him; he was alone. The witness was doubtful as to whether Walter should have been arrested.

Dr. Commins, of Bath testified, he went to Thomas Cammack's and probed for the bullet, and satisfied himself that the bullet had lodged in Cammack's brain. Cammack told him that he was a member of the Church of England. He admitted the crime.

James W. Woolverton, constable, said Cammack admitted nothing to him regarding the shooting.

Deputy-Sheriff Foster showed the revolver taken from Thomas Cammack. One cartridge remained in the revolver. Mr. Foster then showed a box of cartridges taken from Cammack.

The prisoners were committed for trial at the supreme court, to open Oct. 18.

THERE WAS trouble with the train from Woodstock to Gibson last Saturday afternoon. About a mile and a quarter this side of Burside the rails spread. The engine and tender and the flat car loaded with lumber following stayed on the track as did the passenger car and the combination smoking and baggage car. The rest of the train, two loaded box cars and seven loaded flat cars all went off the rails and piled up on each side. Some of the cars were totally destroyed, while others were badly damaged. The rails were torn up and badly bent and the ties were broken into kindling wood. There were about 20 passengers aboard and neither passengers nor crew were injured. The passengers were taken to Fredericton on a flat car, arriving at 11 15 p. m., about two hours late.
