NOTICE OF DISSOLUTION.

This is to certify that the co-partnership that existed between the under-signed Harry G. Noble, of the Town of Woodstock, in the County of Carleton, and Province of New Brunswick, merchant, and Percy J. Trafton, of the said Town of Woodstock, merchant, under the firm name of Noble & Trafton, for the purpose of carrying on a general retail business at said Woodstock, was on the thirtieth day of April last past dissolved by mutual consent.

Dated this second day of May, A. D., 1904.
HARRY G. NOBLE,
PERCY J. TRAFTON

Married in North Dakota.

The following is from The Optic of Minot, North Dakota, of April 29th. The bride is a daughter of Arthur McLean who lives just below Woodstock. She is well known here where she spent her girlhood days. She went to Minot three years ago.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Tompkins of this city was the scene of a very pretty wedding last evening when Miss Isabel Elizabeth McLean sister of Mrs. Tompkins, and George Archibald Porter of Granville were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. The Tompkins residence was beautifully decorated with cut flowers potted plants and ferns, white and pink being the prevailing colors.

Mrs. Shaw presided at the piano and to the beautiful strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March the bride entered the parlor on Mr. Tompkins arm and joined the groom who waited her coming before a beautiful bank of flowers. Here the beautiful and impressive ceremony was performed by Rev. Edgar Jones pastor of the M. E. Church. The bride looked charming in her going away gown of blue broadcloth with silk and lace, and carried an exquisite bouquet of white carnations tied with white satin ribbon.

After the ceremony congratulations were offered and the evening was pleasantly spent in music, games, and conversation after which very delicious refreshments were served, the guests being daintily waited on by Misses Annie M. Leach, Della Taylor, and Mildred Waite.

Many handsome and useful gifts were received by the bride from friends at home and abroad.

Mrs. Porter has been a valued member of church and social circles and will be much missed by her many friends whose earnest wishes for her future happiness accompany her to her new home. The groom is a highly respected young business man of Granville and has many friends in Minot who congratulate him on winning so fair a bride. The happy couple left on the midnight train for their home in Granville accompanied by the best wishes of a host of friends.

In Collier's Weekly for April 30th there is an article by Prof. W. F. Watson on "Photographing Through Animal's Eyes." It is a well known fact that the eye of an animal is an optical instrument resembling in its plan a photographic camera, the lens being analogous to the camera lens. It is double convex and focuses the images of objects upon the sensitive back wall inside the eye, just as the camera lens focuses images upon the sensitive plate within it.

A consideration of these facts first suggested the possibility of removing the crystalline lens from the eye of a recently killed animal, mounting it in a camera, and using it to make photographs. After a large number of experiments this has been accomplished.

The article is intensely interesting from start to finish. Prof. Watson is making a name for himself in original work, but he is not too busy to give some of his results to the public in language that the wayfaring man can understand.

Prof. Watson is a son of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Watson of Hartland.

THERE will be a joint meeting of the churches this evening under the auspices of the British and Foreign Bible Society, in the vestry of the Methodist church. The meeting will be addressed by the society's agent and others.

A MEETING of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Golf Club will be held at the club house on Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

ANDREW CHETLEY, an employee of the Imperial Packing Company, went to St. Marys last week to visit at his home there. On Thursday night he was drinking and for reasons unknown, a chap named Fred Ryder struck him a blow which felled him to the ground. The old man is lying at the Victoria Hospital in a very serious condition. Ryder is under arrest.

Annual Summer Carnival and Horse Races, July 13th and 14th.—Public Meeting Tonight.

The Woodstock Summer Carnival has come to be regarded by the people of the province as an annual affair and is looked forward to with greater expectations each succeeding year. It is proposed to make it better than ever this year if possible, and to hold it earlier than last year in order not to conflict with the Annual County Fair which will be held in September.

The Woodstock track has been entered in the New Brunswick and Eastern Maine Circuit and the races will be pulled off here on July 13th and 14th. It has therefore been decided to hold the Carnival on those days. The classes and purses for the races are:—

Free For All	$500.00
2-28 Pace and 2-25 Trot	300.00
2-25 Pace and 2-22 Trot	300.00
2-20 Trot and Pace	300.00

This will be the largest purse ever offered here and horsemen may expect to see the best races ever held in Woodstock, where the races are always of a high order.

A public meeting was held in the council chamber on Monday night to talk the Carnival over. Mayor Lindsay occupied the chair. N. Foster Thorne was made secretary and J. S. Crighton treasurer of the Carnival committee. Mr. Crighton said there was about $80.00 in the treasury left from last year.

Mayor Lindsay, W. B. Nicholson and I. E. Sheasgreen were made a committee to draft committees for this year.

A public meeting will be held in the council chamber this evening at 9 o'clock at which the organization will be completed. Everybody invited to attend. A large and representative gathering of the citizens is earnestly requested.

Married in Helena, Montana.

Friends of A. H. Hartley were surprised Wednesday when the news was received from Helena of his marriage in that city to a young lady from his former home in New Brunswick. Thursday's Independent has the following to say regarding the happy event:

"That Cupid draws a long bow and that love laughs at distance as it does at Locksmiths' received fresh illustration last evening when A. H. Hartley, Missoula, and Miss B. M. Emory, of Boston, Mass., were married in the parlors of the Grandon hotel in this city.

"Mr. Hartley passed through Helena Tuesday afternoon on his way to Bozeman, where he awaited the arrival of the Pacific Express over the Northern Pacific. He was particularly interested in this train for it had among its passengers the lady who was hurrying to Helena to become his bride.

"After waiting hours that seemed interminable the train reached Bozeman, the bridegroom became a passenger, sought out the lady of his choice, and they came to Helena yesterday forenoon.

Last evening the words were said that made them husband and wife, the ceremony being performed by Rev. A. D. Raleigh. The marriage took place in the presence of Proprietor Joseph Davis, of the Grandon, and his family, and several guests of the hotel.

A. H. Hartley, accompanied by his bride, returned from Helena Saturday afternoon and was warmly received by a number of friends at the depot and the entire afternoon was an informal levee at his place of business. —Missoula Paper.

A False Rumor.

There was a rumor on the streets on Tuesday morning of last week that A. F. Lockhart's saw, carding and grist mill at Hartford had been burned the night before. This was entirely false. There was no fire at or near the mill and Mr. Lockhart is as busy as a beaver running every department of his plant full blast.

R. R. RANKINE of Boston is at the Turner House.

Sarcasm Resented.

Editor Dispatch:—

DEAR SIR,—If you will be kind enough to allow me space in your valuable paper, I should like through such medium to resent a piece of impertinent sarcasm which appeared in the Centreville items in your issue of May 11th alluding to the non-observance of Arbor Day by the schools of this place.

I do not know whether or not your correspondent understands the significance of the term "Arbor Day," but judging from his spelling of the word, I should say not. And I question whether he could state correctly the provisions made in the School Manual for the observance of this day.

Arbor Day has generally been considered a holiday in a great many districts, not only by the pupils, but by the public at large, but if the trouble be taken to refer to the School Manual, such an impression will be seen to be erroneous. This false idea, however, has not been formed without cause, as in a great many cases, the small amount of labour expended on the school grounds would warrant the opinion that Arbor Day is a holiday. Far be it from me that I should criticise my fellow-teachers, but for my own part, if I cannot faithfully observe this day as I think the Board of Education intended it to be observed, I should not feel justified in making a report, and in demanding wages for same; I should prefer to carry on the regular school work.

I think that the time of the boys of this place on Arbor Day was spent in a more profitable manner by their attending school, than if they had devoted an hour or so to tearing up a few trees and carelessly and ignorantly transplanting them in the school-ground with the certain knowledge that they would never grow, raking up rocks and chips from the playground, carrying a pile of wood into the "woodshed" where it is protected from the weather about as much as it would be if stowed snugly behind a picket fence, and then sauntering off to the "corner" to spend the rest of the day lounging about smoking cigarettes. And with several years experience both as pupil, teacher and the observer of the work of other teachers, I affirm that the above remarks convey a fairly correct idea of the average Arbor Day observance.

I regret that I was unaware of your correspondent's excessive interest in Arbor Day sooner that I might have availed myself of his assistance. I wonder that he could restrain himself from volunteering his services! Let us hope that his aesthetic nature may not be so grossly ignored at another time. If his desire for the beautiful ever be gratified by an opportunity of spending a couple of months work (no less would be appreciable) around the school premises for the purpose of improvement, I would suggest that he begin by erecting a new school house, as I fear the present "apology" would look much out of place after his elaborate designs had been put into effect on the grounds.

I do not know the name of your correspondent, nor do I wish to; but it certainly must have required a ponderous intellect to evolve such a brilliant joke as his item contained. It was indeed puerile, like the talk of a whining school-boy. He sought to be witty but only succeeded in being unkind.

Thanking you for your valuable space I am, yours,
J. FRED WORRELL,
Principal Centreville Schools,
Centreville, N. B., May 14th, 1904.

Thomas Fewer.

Thomas Fewer, an old and respected resident of Carleton County died at the home of his son Thomas Fewer, Woodstock, on Tuesday morning May 17th, at the age of 85 years. Mr. Fewer was born in Waterford, Ireland, and came to this country as a young man, settling at Williamstown where he carved a farm out of the primeval forest. He leaves a widow, four sons, Walter, of Williamstown, Joseph and Thomas of Woodstock, William at Houlton, and one daughter, Miss Fewer, who lives in Woodstock. The funeral will be held on Thursday morning at 9 o'clock.

The Masculine View.

"She's really a lovely girl," he said,
"A blonde, and extremely fair.
With a gracefully small and classic head."
"Indeed? And what did she wear?"
Her eyes—you know those eyes like mist,
Just the color of skies, at dawn,
With lashes the longest, silkiest—
"Yes—yes, but, what had she on?"

"I liked her manner. Its gentle charm.
Suggested a soul at rest;
And then—her smile was so sweet and warm—"
"Good gracious. How was she dressed?"
"She must have worn some sort of a gown?"
"Why—yes—that is certainly clear;
But I did not see it, I frankly own—
I saw only her, my dear."
—Madeline Bridges, in "Smart Set."

THE Carleton County Sunday School convention held at Hartland on Monday and Tuesday of this week was a pronounced success.
