REASON No 13 WHY YOU SHOULD USE Red Rose Tea

Because no premiums, prizes or coupons are ever given with Red Rose Tea, either to the merchant, clerk or consumer.

You don't get a premium with a pound of butter. Why? Because the butter is worth what you pay for it. Just so with Red Rose Tea; the tea itself is worth the full price.

A pound of tea is not worth the price when a premium is thrown in free. A premium costs something. You must pay for it.

If you are doubtful, use a pound of premium tea, then try a pound of Red Rose. You will soon discover why premiums cannot be given with Red Rose Tea, and if you like a rich, flavory, pure tea, you will use Red Rose in future.

In Case of Pneumonia.

Several years ago, says a writer in the American Agriculturist, one of the old school physicians who had never lost a case of pneumonia where the patient was under 60, said that he attributed his success, largely to the timely use of soap poultices, which were made by having the soap very hot, then thickening with bran. In those days, when so few, even among the farmers, make soft soap, a poultice nearly as good can be made by using a weak lye, in place of the soap.
To make the lye, pour boiling water over wood ashes. At most drug stores an alkaline poultice can be purchased ready prepared, which is similar to the soap poultices of former years. In case of extrema tenderness, cracker crumbs can be used in place of the bran, making it far lighter.

Sometimes it is difficult to wring clothes out of water sufficiently hot to attain the desired result. One way is to place the cloth to be wrung inside of a dry towel, and then twist at the ends. A wringer may be used, but the best is to use a steamer. If possible, have a small oil stove near to the patient's bed, and on it place a basin of boiling water, and over this set the steamer.
The first time, the clothes will need to be wring out of the water, but after that, all that is necessary is to place them in the steamer.

The remembrance and use of the simple ready-at-hand remedies may prevent a severe illness but greatly to be avoided is the self-administration of drugs. No matter how much common sense and self-reliance we may have, the most of us know absolutely nothing of the real effects of the various drugs upon the system. As for myself, I should pity even a sick ext who was compelled to lap up any medicinal doses of my compounding.

One Or The Other.

A certain Duke, while driving from the station to the park on his estate to inspect a company of artillery, observed a ragged urchin keeping pace with his carriage at the side.

His Grace, being struck with the cleanliness of the lad, asked him where he was going the lad replying, 'To the park, to see the Dook and sogers.'

The Duke, feeling interested, stopped his carriage and opened the door to the lad, saying he could ride with him to the park.

The delighted lad, being in ignorance of of whom he was riding with, kept His Grace interested with his quaint remarks till the park gates were reached.

As the carriage entered it was saluted by the company and guns, whereupon His Grace said to the lad, 'Now can you show me where the Duke is?'

The lad eyed his person over, and then, looking at the Duke, replied quite seriously, 'Well, I dunno, meester, but it's either me or you!'—London 'Tit Bits.'

A Chinese Dog Story.

(From the 'Woman's Home Companion.')

A number of noted New Yorkers were presented to Prince Pu Lun and the Chinese Minister, Sir Chentung Liangcheng, during their American tour, and one of these gentlemen told an incident that illustrated the remarkable intelligence of a dog of his.

The minister said, with a smile, 'I am reminded, sir, of a Chinese dog story.'

'There was a Chinaman who had three dogs. When he came home one evening he found them asleep on his couch of teakwood and marble. He whipped them and drove them forth.

'The next night when he came home the dogs were lying on the floor. But he placed his hand on the couch and found it warm from their bodies. Therefore he gave them another whipping.

'The third night, returning earlier than usual, he found the dogs sitting before the couch blowing on it to cool it.'

A certain godly man aboard ship got an answer one day that was unexpected and undesignedly startling when he tackled an artist with this query: "Young man "Young man, where do you wish to spend eternity?" The artist turned and looked at the godly man with frank inspection. "Well, where do you?" he retorted. "In glory, praising my Creator and Redeemer," said the godly man, solemnly. The artist looked at him even more intently, then turned away with a hopeless shrug. "Each to his taste," said he. "For my part, I'd be perfectly satisfied to spend the longest eternity you can fix up in a little place I know, where the skies are never the same two days at a time, where there are light effects I never can be sure I've caught exactly, and where God is still and quiet and sweet; no glory, and no shouting." Somehow, the smile that went round the ship when this story broke loose was very kind to the artist and just the least bit mischievous to the godly man.

A TEST OF READING.

With How Many of These Authors Are You Acquainted?

Let him who pretends to be a master of English letters say whether he has read the prose works of Milton and of Dryden. Has he first hand knowledge of the Elizabethan dramatists other than Shakespeare? Has he really perused a lot Edmund Spenser's poetry? What does he know from his own reading of the "A View of Learning"? Has he read all of Sir Thomas Browne's prose and John Donne's poetry? And the great English pulpit orators—namely Taylor, Fuller, South and Baxter—was he was cred their sermons?

Can he truthfully testify that he knows all of Swift, Johnson and Burke, all of Bishop Berkeley, Diderot, and the novels of Richardson, Fielding, Smollett and Sterne, the histories of Hamlet, Robert's and Gibbon and also Hamlet's philosophical essays, the prose of Chaucer, Warton's "Excursion," all of Shelley, Jane Austen's Maria Edgeworth's and Disraeli's novels? These are English classics, books which no gentleman's library should be without and with the contents of which a well read man ought to be acquainted.

One would wager much against little that the ordinary man who calls himself well read has not read 50 per cent of the classics here enumerated.
