The audience was by no means confined to the juniors and the lecturer easily held their interest till the close.

THERE was a run on the Houlton Savings bank one day last week and $25,000 was withdrawn by excited depositors. The run is supposed to have been started by the injudicious remarks of a preacher named J. T. Moore, speaking in Linneus on the evening of February 14th. Most of the money withdrawn has since been replaced in the bank.
