CRUELTY TO A LITTLE GIRL.

The S. P. C. A. Interferes and Certain Parties will be Taught a Lesson.

A couple living a few miles up country have living with them a small girl of about eleven years, who came out from England a short time ago. For some time past rumours have been current to the effect that the little one was being cruelly treated. The neighbours say that the head of the household lies in bed while the child feeds and milks the cows and cleans out the barn. They say that she is compelled to do other severe work which the man is too lazy to perform. Moreover she is not sufficiently clothed and gets little opportunity to attend school. Frequently, we are told, she is severely beaten by the cruel brute in whose charge she has been compelled to remain. Notice of this condition of affairs was recently given Inspector Colpitts, who is the agent of the S. P. C. A. for this county. Mr. Colpitts called at the house a few days ago and found the woman of the house at home. Upon inquiring for the husband he was told that he was ploughing in a field nearby. Mr. Colpitts went out to the field but did not find the man or any sign of him. Probably he was in the house when the Inspector arrived and concealed himself. Mr. Colpitts went back to the house and told the woman of the reports he had heard and that he had come to investigate the matter. She denied the whole thing and brought the child out of another room to prove the truth of her denials; but the child seemed too frightened to speak. Before leaving Mr. Colpitts warned her that he would pursue his investigations further and, if legal proof of cruelty to the child can be obtained, he will prosecute.

Free as a Bird.

John Hanson Esquire, the gentleman who recently took lodgings at Maplecroft pending his trial for indecent assault, will no longer have his slumbers disturbed by the dizzy strains of the music of the 67th. In the uncertain twilight of Friday evening last he removed his hat from the peg, packed his grip and struck the long trail that leads to nowhere. While Sheriff and Mrs. Hayward were enjoying a drive Jack made up his mind that things looked favourable for the Tracy act. Two gentlemen who called to see the sheriff happened to stroll under Jack's window and were warned in graceful language that they were violating the law in thus approaching the sacred precincts of a jail. Mr. Hanson even threatened them with arrest if they did not immediately remove themselves from the vicinity. They went. Then our hero hocked the peavy until he succeeded in breaking open the door of the inner corridor. From thence he carefully made his way to those apartments where they fatten persons who have the overdue account malady. From the debtors' corridor through an eighteen by twelve window to terra firma came as easy to Jack as taking candy from a child. Whether he found a horse and carriage handy or whether he took the old reliable "Shank's mare" at this stage of the game is a question that is as yet unsolved; but one thing is fairly certain,—he put ground between his precious person and the Town of Woodstock as quickly as possible,—and they haven't found him yet.

The officials are generally of the opinion that Jack got help from without; everybody is of the opinion that the county is saved a bill of expense; the sheriff is certain that Johnnie didn't pay his board and a prominent barrister can tell us whether Johnnie paid his bill for legal services. It's an ill wind that blows nobody good.

Summer Carnival Attractions.

Dr. G. B. Manzer has been in correspondence with a great Boston Bureau that furnishes special attractions for Carnivals, Fairs, etc. A selection has been made and a high figure will be paid for the performances of The D'Atalies, known the wide-world over as successful Aerialists, and M'ile De Lora, in her wonderful postures and poses. The contract has been sent to Boston for signature. The D'Atalies, original French aerialists, can be seen on the square, both days of the Carnival, "without money and without price," in their thrilling mid-air evolutions, dare-devil hair-raising leaps, sensational catches and bewildering breakaways; the most novel and pleasing attraction of the kind ever shown in New Brunswick.

M'ile DeLora will give several performances on a platform in the square, both days of the carnival. This lady has an American and European reputation of being at the head of her profession.

Entry blanks for the horses races on the track have been sent out, and lovers of the turf may be sure of seeing one of the biggest and best fields of horses ever brought to Woodstock. The purses are the largest ever put up.

Town Council.

The Town Council met on Friday evening in the council room. The mayor and all the councillors were present.

An animated discussion took place over Coun. Nicholson's motion that the town lease the lot of land between the armory and J. Corkery's lot, on which to keep the hose cart. Coun. Leighton seconded the motion. It was defeated, only the mover and seconder voting for it.

The Street Committee were authorized to purchase a portion of the Sunder lot bordering on the College grounds for $60.00 if it can be secured at that price. The portion to be bought is twelve feet wide, fronting on Green street, and runs back one hundred feet west. The object of the purchase is to secure a street of good width from Green street to Orange street.

There was quite a bit of interesting repartee between Councillors Fisher and Leighton, arising out of the latter's motion that the council order the Clerk to notify the town electrician that he is to replace the pole near the A. M. E. church and to put a light upon it, the same to be done at the electrician's expense.

Coun. Fisher said that the electrician had promised to put it back and he asserted that there was no need of such a motion. He thought that Councillor Leighton was in too much of a hurry.

That gentleman hereupon informed Councillor Fisher that he needed to be awakened up.

Coun. Fisher then informed the board that whether awake or asleep he was "able for Councillor Leighton," and that he would find out that such was the case if it came to the pinch.

A communication was received from some residents of that part of the town near the corner of Main and Grover streets asking the council to take steps to prevent boys from injuring the property situated at the juncture of these streets, which was donated to the town by the petitioners and others. They claimed that large boys were in the habit of playing ball on the property and injuring the sod and also that they disturbed and annoyed the residents nearby.

Chief of Police Kelly gave the board to understand that he had warned the boys and that they had promised to be careful in the future.

The letter was filed. A letter from Sir William Mulock was brought before the council. The letter asked for information regarding the telephone facilities in the town, the charges, etc. This was also filed.

The mayor read the petition of the asking for the use of the council room for their midsummer meeting. The request was granted.

J. C. Milmore's tender for supplying groceries to the poor during the coming year was accepted.

The council then adjourned to meet at the call of the chair.

Jameson-McGowan.

A very pretty but quiet wedding took place Wednesday afternoon at three thirty o'clock at the residence of Mr. Fred McGowan, Saunders street, when their only daughter, Miss Letitia Burpee McGowan, and Mr. Charles Heber Jameson, only son of Mr. J. H. Jameson, of East Florenceville, Carleton County, were united in marriage. The ceremony, which took place in the parlor, which was handsomely decorated for the occasion, was performed by Rev. Dr. Rogers, and was attended by only a small number of the friends and relatives of the couple.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked most charming in her bridal gown of cream silk eoline with pearl and chiffon trimmings. She carried a bridal bouquet of cream roses and was unattended, as was also the groom.

After the ceremony luncheon was served and the happy couple left on the C. P. R. 5.50 express for Woodstock and other places for their honeymoon. The bride's travelling dress was a navy blue tailor made suit of chiffon broadcloth with tan trimmings. She wore a tan flower hat.

The bride was the recipient of many beautiful and costly presents which showed the high esteem in which she held by her many friends. Among the presents was a handsome pearl brooch from the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Jameson's many friends will join in wishing them every happiness in their married life.

A SUFFERER.

Line Stores Raided.

Inspector Colpitts is vigorously pursuing the campaign against the violators of the Scott Act. On Saturday morning he paid a visit to the "line stores" between here and Houlton, and the result that the greatest seizure of liquor was made that has ever been known in this county. He was accompanied by Constables Woolverton, Burpee and Estey. Customs Officials Hanson, Carpenter and Bull also went along, Sheriff Lawlis and Deputy Sheriff Smart of Maine and U. S. Customs Officials Dunn and Peters were present.

Jacob Wise's store was first visited and then McLean's premises were searched. Small quantities of liquor were seized at both these places, and Officer Carpenter made a seizure at the former place as well. The store of which Mr. Frank Thompson is the proprietor was then searched and here a great quantity of liquor was seized. Three double waggon loads were brought into town of which nearly all was obtained at the Thompson place. It was not all whiskey; there was a great deal of wine and gin, some brandy, some alcohol and some champagne. The liquor is stored in Mr. Colpitts' barn pending its destruction by order of the Court. Perhaps the total amount is worth nearly $2000.00.

Frank Thompson was served with summons for two offences against the act. If Inspector Colpitts keeps after these resorts in as vigorous a manner as he pursued Holman McMullin the liquor business at the boundary line will come to an end. If, however, no further steps are taken all the joints will probably be running full blast within a week. It appears that there is a bonded warehouse at the lines. This seems odd when Maine is a prohibition state and the Canada Temperance Act is in force in Carleton County. The people of this county by a great majority expressed themselves as being against the sale of liquor and the keeping of liquor for sale in Carleton County. The government in permitting anyone to have a bonded warehouse at this point is simply acting over the heads and against the will of the people.

Inspector Colpitts has been requested to abandon an enforcement for revenue policy and to conduct a campaign that will mean the extermination of the liquor traffic. He has given promise of granting this request and of answering the accusations of those who insinuated that he was controlled by certain parties. We will see if the people will stand at his back. These resorts have not only been conducted in direct violation of the law, but they have also been a menace to the travelling public. They are unlawful, a danger and a nuisance. The sooner they are done away with the better.

Brittain-Tinker.

Cedar Lawn, Bristol, was the scene of a brilliant assembly on Thursday afternoon, June 8th, when Miss Lorena Gertrude Brittain, youngest daughter of G. A. Brittain, was united in marriage to Charles S. Tinker, the popular C. P. R. agent at Bristol. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. E. W. Simonson. The ceremony was performed on the verandah in the presence of about 230 guests who were congregated on the lawn. As the bridal party advanced Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played by Mrs. Chalmers Brittain on the piano, accompanied by Master Medley Whelpley on the violin. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore white silk with veil of tulle. She was attended by her little niece, Miss Alberta Whelpley, as maid of honor. The bride's going away gown was of blue cloth, tailor made with hat to match. The groom's present to the bride was a gold brooch set with pearls and to the maid of honor a tiny gold locket and chain.

The happy couple took the express for St. John and after the wedding trip will reside in their own pretty little cottage on Main street.

They were the recipients of a large number of beautiful and costly presents, including a generous check from the father of the bride and a Gerhard Heintzman piano from her mother.

Caribou vs Woodstock.

Two good games of base ball may be looked for this afternoon and tomorrow between the Caribou team and a picked team from town. The home team will be made up as follows:

- Woodrow, pitcher.
 - Milmore, catcher.
 - McLean, 1st base.
 - Courtney, 2nd base.
 - Pickles, 3rd base.
 - Donnelly, short stop.
 - G. McLauchlan, right field.
 - R. McLauchlan, centre field.
 - Long, left field.
- It is reported that the police graft in New York is worth $1,000,000 a year.
