For 33 Years

Shiloh's Consumption Cure, the Lung Tonic, has been before the public, and this, together with the fact that its sales have steadily increased year by year, is the best proof of the merit of

as a cure for Coughs, Colds, and all diseases of the lungs and air passages. Those who have used Shiloh would not be without it. Those who have never used it should know that every bottle is sold with a positive guarantee that, if it doesn't cure you, the dealer will refund what you paid for it. Shiloh thousands of the most obstinate cases of Coughs, Colds and Lung troubles. Let it cure you.

Has Cured

"Last winter I coughed for three months and thought I was going into Consumption. I took all sorts of medicines, but nothing did me any good until I used Shiloh's Consumption Cure. Four bottles cured me. This winter I had a very bad cold, was not able to speak, my lungs were sore on the side and back. Six bottles of Shiloh made me well again. I have given it to several people and every one of them have been cured."—Dr. Joseph, St. Hyacinthe, Que.

He Punched Him.

A certain bishop was at a lecture in Manchester one evening, when he saw, two seats ahead of him, a man whom he took to be an acquaintance.

Seeing no other way to attract his attention, the bishop asked a stranger sitting next to him to punch the other man with his umbrella. This was done, and as the disturbed man began to turn his head, the bishop discovered that he was not the person he supposed.

The bishop immediately lost all interest in him, and fastened his gaze attentively on the lecturer, leaving the man with the umbrella to settle with the man he had disturbed—an embarrassing and difficult task.

At last the man with the umbrella turned rather indignantly to the bishop. "Didn't you tell me to punch that person with my umbrella?"

"Yes."
"And what did you want?"
"I wanted to see whether you would punch him or not," was the reply.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Hall's Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

The Deceitful Accomplice.

George W. Whitehead, appraiser of merchandise at the port of New York, was talking about smuggling.

"No great amount of smuggling is done," he said. "To smuggle extensively, it is necessary to have accomplices. These accomplices cheat you, or you cheat them, and then they betray you. Altogether, in the end, you lose rather than gain."

Mr. Whitehead smiled.
"Not so long ago," he said, "a certain skipper hailed a fisherman off the coast and asked him if he would smuggle ashore for him a cask of brandy."

"The fisherman agreed, and two casks of brandy were lowered into his boat."

"One," said the skipper, "is for your trouble and risk, my man."

"Well, a week or so later the skipper called with a team at the Jersey fisherman's house for his cask of brandy. It was night. He got the cask and started on the dark and lonely way back home."

"But the custom house people have sharp eyes and ears. They lay in wait for the skipper. They caught him a mile outside of the fisherman's village, and there was the cask of brandy in the wagon."

"He said nothing. There was nothing to say. The cask was opened."

"We'll sample this fine liquor," said a customs officer.

"And he put his mouth to the bung, and then drew back, amazed. The skipper was amazed, too. The cask contained nothing but water."

Women Lack Poise.

We women, you and I and all of us, need to cultivate repose. We fuss and fidget altogether too much, writes Katherine James.

All we have to do is to watch one another to know that it's true. You don't?

Pardon me, but you do. There! You have fixed your hat three times and picked at your veil while I've been talking, and now you are fluffing up your pompadour and arranging your back-comb.

Oh, I've nothing to say. I've been brush-ing, dust specks off my coat, twisting a bit of thread on my glove and picking at my collar. The woman on the opposite side of the car has bitten her lips and snapped the fastening of her snapping bag constantly for five blocks. Now, why do we do it? Nerves? Yes, to some extent, but nerves which can be controlled.

We really have no right to leave the house until our toilet is so complete that we can make the trip downstairs without a constant arrangement of our costume or our hair dressing.

Paradoxically, we women think too much about ourselves and we don't think enough. We lack concentration. When we are talking we are fussing about some trivial matter.

When we are sitting silent we are still fussing. Unconsciously we are using up our vital force and adding to our age.

Did you ever notice how fresh and placid and content the true philosopher appears?

There is a lesson for us. Learn to forget the ego. Forget to be self-conscious. Have ourselves so well in hand and be so sure of ourselves that we do not need constant attention.

That is what we should do.

Some one said the other day that a reposeful woman lacked animation. Whoever made the remark had not correctly defined the words. Fidgeting and fussing do not make for true animation or vivacity. Neither does repose suggest stupidity.

The truly reposeful woman does a lot of good as she goes through the world. Her influence is subtle, but it makes itself felt. She radiates quite unconsciously peace and contentment.

Every human being has an individual atmosphere which surrounds her and has an effect on others.

It is our duty to make that invisible, indefinable atmosphere one which will soothe rather than irritate and attract rather than repel. The great trouble with most of us is that we do not know ourselves. Self-study is a good thing. There is no use in deceiving ourselves all through life. We might just as well know what sort of people we really are. Then if we find we are not at all like what we thought we were or like what we should like to be, we can go to work and make any repairs which seem good in our general character. It is only justice to ourselves for us to come to an understanding with ourselves,—which is only one way of saying, "Gain poise."

Poise. It's a great word for a great quality. It is utterly indispensable to the highest and best development of the individual. With proper poise we can face the world, strong and content. We can increase our abilities tenfold. We can accomplish more than we ever dreamed of before we gained our correct balance.

And one of the most comforting lessons we shall learn is the uselessness and foolishness of this constant fussing.

SAYINGS OF JOHN WESLEY.

The Northwestern Christian Advocate has brought together these aphorisms; I have no time to be in a hurry. God begins His work in children. The best of all is, God is with us. I look upon the world as my parish. I dare no more fret, than curse or swear.

I save all I can, and give all I can: that is all I have.

Loyalty (to rulers) is with me an essential branch of religion.—Sel.

PSYCHINE

Taken promptly and faithfully according to directions will not only invariably prevent Consumption but will never fail to cure any of these lesser diseases which are always the forerunners of Consumption.

CONSECON, May 30th, 1904.

It affords me pleasure to speak of the merits of Psychine, which I found to be a marvelous tonic and tissue builder. I was taken down with a bad cold, which settled on my lungs. In fact, I believe I was never free from colds for months previous, and tried many of the common cure-alls and cheap nostrums you see advertised, but obtained no relief. I had then learned that such remedies are merely palliative and not curative preparations. Friends advised Psychine, and after taking several bottles I became sound and strong again. Scores of my friends have been saved much suffering with Psychine, and I voluntarily give permission for the publication of this statement.
