THE need of having a policeman at all times in the central station to answer telephone calls was well illustrated last night. Sergeant Campbell answered no fewer than four. One was from Denahoe's drug store on St. James street. Berton K. Bourne, a Woodstock man, was in the store, afraid to venture out again, as he said four men had chased him and he had fed for his life. The sergeant said he was trembling violently and was altogether in a very bad state. He was taken to central station for the night.—St. John Telegraph.

C. P. R. VS. CONNELL.

Railroad Company Applies for an Injunction.

Before Chief Justice Tuck on Saturday afternoon application, was made by F. R. Taylor, on behalf of C. P. R., for an injunction restraining H. A. Connell, of Woodstock from interfering with the C. P. R. in their operations of banking around a pier of the company's bridge across the Meduxnakeg river. There is now pending an equity suit brought by the C. P. R. against Mr. Connell to restrain the defendant from further excavating around the pier in question.

The application made on Saturday is for the purpose of allowing the company to place the pier in the same position as that in which they allege it was previous to any excavating having been done by Mr. Connell. It is contended on the part of the company that such action is necessary to render the pier immune from frost and cold, which, if allowed to effect the pier, would endanger the safety of the bridge.

J. C. Hartley, representing the defendant, claimed that this banking would extend ten feet on each side of the pier which itself is ten feet in length, thus creating an obstruction thirty feet long in Mr. Connell's mill pond, thus injuring his milling business. He also contended that the company should before they could obtain an injunction prove their title to the surrounding property and this he held they had not done.

H. H. McLean, K. C., argued briefly in support of the application. The chief justice announced that he would consider and decide early.—St. John Telegraph.

Horse Notes.

It is easier to wash and keep the legs clean than to cure the scratches after a while.

Generally it is easier to teach a horse to drive than to teach a man how to drive a horse.

A bad trick in a horse which renders him an unsafe driver is as detrimental as if he is really vicious.

Moderate exercise of the colt should be begun quite early, but full service of no kind should be required until the fourth year.

Before buying a horse test his walking capacity and in order to do this hitch him to the kind of a rig you intend to use him in.
