An International Twosome.

The great international golf match between Major Fozzie of England and Provost MacDuff of Scotland commenced here this morning. The players in question represented the maximum handicaps of their respective countries. The weather was wet, and a large company assembled to witness the match.

At the first hole (385 yards) the Major led off with a low, bumping shot to within 350 yards of the pin. The Provost drove to the edge of the tree. Twenty minutes afterwards the hole was halved in fourteen.

The Provost took the lead at the third, the Major having just missed a put of an inch. At the next—the short hole—the Major sliced his seventh into the quarry and, taking ten to get out, became two down; his opponent having holed out a rather lucky fifteen.

With his drive at the sixth, the Major struck a spectator who had stupidly been standing almost at right angles to the tee.

On the eighth green the Provost skied his put, and lost the hole. A mechanical eleven followed, and the Scotchman turned one up.

At the tenth, playing a determined game, the Major smashed his brassie. At the eleventh, the Provost drove a divot 150 yards.

Approaching from the edge of the thirteenth green, the Scottish representative made the second longest shot of the match. At the eleventh, the Major tee'd a dozen haskells before clearing the burn; the Provost, who went round by the "brig," winning in nineteen.

The long hole was halved in a strenuous twenty-five.

Late in the day, the Major drove into the

On The Subject of Home Dyeing.

Home dyeing is a fascinating and money-saving work when Diamond Dyes are used. Home coloring has an attraction for ladies in all ranks of society, and the wonderful results achieved by the Diamond Dyes for women, have made them the popular home dyes in all parts of the world.

One ten cent package of the Diamond Dyes will do the same work that a steam-dyeing establishment charges one dollar for.

All faded and dingy looking dresses, skirts, suits, blouses, jackets, ribbons, stockings, coats, vests and trousers, can be re-colored in the home and made to look as good as new, at a cost of from ten to twenty cents, when the never-fading Diamond Dyes are used.

It is well to bear in mind that direct money saving can only be guaranteed when Diamond Dyes are used. Have a care that you do not buy the worthless imitations sold by some dealers. Refuse such deceptive dyes if you would avoid trouble and loss of money and temper. Ask for the DIAMOND DYES; refuse all others that may be offered to you.

the last bunker on the course, the Provost the following with the like. Here, for the next half-hour, play was of an even nature. Then the Major sent for a new niblick.

Later.

After the landslip, the umpire decided to postpone the match.—Punch.

The Store Spier.

"For the life of me," said the girl at the ribbon counter to the girl across the way at the chiffons, "I can't make out whether she's a shoplifter, a purchasing agent or a store detective," indicating a woman who had just walked away.

"You're away off," said the friendly aisle manager. "She's not any one of those things. 'She's a store spier. We employ them in this establishment, ourselves to spy on other stores, only just don't happen to know it. They go out in various disguises. Sometimes they are the most fashionably dressed women among the shoppers; sometimes they are quiet, little, unobtrusive women, who don't look as if they knew a bolt of cotton from a yard of wool, and sometimes the store spy is a clever man buyer. They start out early every morning to see what is going on in the other stores. If Mr. Smith, up the street, is selling shirt-waists at 39 cents, we want to find out how he can do it; if the newest thing in fall suits is going at $17, and we have just put a lot of ours in for $18, off we send the store spy to see how it can be done; how much of it is cotton and how much wool. There is not a position in a department store which takes more nerve and more knowledge of goods. No green hand can go around from the kitchen utensils to the carpets and be capable of judging all the fine shadings without knowing something about the dry goods business, and, besides, the store spy has to carry things in her eye. She has to be able to tell, when she gets back to her own shop, just how much better or worse the other stores are selling for the same price. The jobs worth all the money they pay for it."—[Philadelphia Record.

The Country Editor.

After a good deal of study and work we have at last figured out, says an Alabama rural journal, why so many country editors get rich. Here is the secret of success:

A child is born in the neighborhood; the attending physician gets 10; the editor gives the loud-lunged youngster and the "happy parents" a send-off and gets $10. It is christened; the minister gets $10, and the editor gets $00. It grows up and marries; the editor publishes another long-winded, flowery article and tells a dozen lies about the "beautiful and accomplished bride," the minister gets $10 and a piece of cake, and the editor gets $000. In the course of time it dies and the doctor gets from $25 to $100, the minister perhaps gets another $15, the undertaker gets from $50 to $100, the editor publishes a notice of the death an obituary two columns long, lodge and society resolutions, a lot of poetry and a free card of thanks, and gets $0000.

No Audubon Society Needed.

A pleasant little story is told by the Geneva correspondent of the Daily Chronicle about the swallows which have been caught in Switzerland by the cold snap on their way to Italy, and probably en route for Africa. Thousands of the migrants have fallen exhausted and paralyzed by the cold at Lucerne and Zurich, and the kindly folk have been collecting and caring for the little waifs and sending them on by train, when they had recovered, to Chiasso, where they been set free to continue their flight. We congratulate the good Samaritans who have such practical assistance to the little creatures.—[Westminster Gazette.

The Outlook For Improved Live Stock.

It would appear from the high prices realized at recent sales of pure bred live stock that the farmers and breeders throughout the country are fully alive to the importance of improving the standard of their herds of both the Beef and the Dairy breeds. The contention that there is always a demand for good animals at handsome prices is fully borne out. A good animal costs no more to feed than an inferior one and more and more is the farmer becoming convinced of the fact that although the initial cost of the introduction of a pure-bred sire into a herd may be large that the improvement resulting justifies the price paid in the corresponding increase in the herd value. Not only are breeders of established herds introducing new blood but foundations for new herds are being laid by men not hitherto considered breeders of pure bred stock. At two recent sales of Shorthorns 100 head brought $35,123 00 an average of $351.23 each. At the Platt sale at Hamilton 64 cattle were sold for $27,303 00 an average of $426.61. This lot included a dozen or more calves under six months of age. The highest price paid for a sire was $2,100 and for a dam $1,600, amounts paid ranged from these down to $110. At the Attrill sale at London 36 head realized $7,780 an average price of $216. The highest price at this sale was $650. At the Hunter sale of Ayrshires at Maxville 47 animals realized $9,255 an average price of about 200. One bull brought $700 and one cow $675. In this lot was included a number of calves under two months of age. These prices are probably the highest ever received for animals of the Ayrshires breed. That the teachings of the Farmers Institutes, the Live Stock Associations and the work of the Dominion and Provincial Departments of Agriculture is bearing results is apparent from the above facts.

His Last Harangue.

A group of Cyrusville's citizens had gathered as usual round the stove in the corner store, and, as often happened, James Corning was holding forth on the trials of his kind.

"What do women-folks know of care and trouble?" he demanded of his audience. "Sheltered in their homes with just a few little household duties to make the time pass, and when night comes the privilege of sitting down to the evening lamp, while the man of the house puts on his hat and goes out into the darkness and often into the storm, and walks, maybe half a mile, to fetch home the paper, so's his family can have the news next day. No need for them to think of earning money—no—"

Mr. Corning's mouth dropped wide open as a stern-visaged woman stepped in at the door and up to him.

"I've heard you'd been giving these little talks," she said, clearly, "and I've come down to wait for the mail, so's you can go home and take my place sitting by the evening lamp. You'll find a basket of your socks there with holes in 'em large as hen's eggs, and your overalls and Sammy's trousers.

"If you get those done," she added, relentlessly, as her husband tried to look at ease and as if it were all a good joke, "when you get 'em done, you can finish up splitting the kindlings I've been at the last two evenings. I'm willing to come out into the darkness till you get the whole thing finished up. Now you step right along."

"Where one fellow reads a man's character in his face, a hundred read it in his clothes."

How do the hundreds read yours—well dressed, therefore careful, has good taste, and is prosperous? Or badly dressed—therefore careless and "not doing well"?
