This Hollow, Empty World.

"Where are the children?" he repeated rather gloomily as the two callers seated themselves. "I'm not sure. Last month their appendices were extracted and last week their tonsils were removed. I think that what's left of them may be playing in the back yard."

"This new order of things is beginning to grate on me," he continued. "About everything is snipped off or dug out nowadays, and I'm inclined to think we're living on a pretty thin crust. There's no filling, no solid foundation anywhere."

"If they live three or four blocks from a sidewalk you look straight down into a kitchen or a sub-basement, and when they stick a pick into the surface of the street it rings hollow, and you can see that it's been bored and tunnelled to make room for all the pipes and wires and burglar alarms in creation. What keeps us from caving in and dropping through to China beats me."

"Then there's the higher criticism that's dissected the Bible until what used to be regarded as the substance has disappeared and we have to accept the shadow. We're cooking without fire, or we can, according to the advertisements, and eating without food that's worth mentioning, and between surgical instruments, drills and discoveries it's getting to be an empty shell of a world. Lately I've a habit of prying open the covers of my watch to satisfy myself that the works are inside; and as for sitting on the lid for fear that something may escape—that's a joke."

Painful, Fatal Kidney Disease CALLS FOR IMMEDIATE AND ACTIVE TREATMENT WITH DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.

Kidney disease—marked by backache, pains in the limbs, scanty, dark colored urine, puffiness about the eyes, dropsical swelling and gradual loss of flesh—is always to be dreaded both on account of the suffering it entails and because of its fatality.

The kidneys and liver share alike the responsibility of filtering poisons from the blood, and it is therefore necessary to regulate both these organs in order to effect a cure of kidney disease.

This fact accounts for the extraordinary success of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which is the only treatment obtainable having a direct and combined action on the liver and kidneys.

For years evidence has been piling up which goes to prove that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have positively cured obstinate and complicated cases of kidney disease which defied physicians and ordinary kidney medicines.

Nor is it to be wondered at when it is remembered that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are the result of the long and varied experience of the great American physician and author—Dr. A. W. Chase.

Mr. Wm. McCrae, Belledune River, N.B., writes:—"I was a sufferer from sore, lame back for over eight years and had tried most everything. When I received Dr. Chase's Almanac I was almost in despair but I read there about Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and began using them. They have proven of such value to me that I feel in duty bound to recommend them to others as the best treatment obtainable for backache and kidney disease."

Kidney disease is not to be neglected. It is far too serious to be allowed to develop. You can profit by the experience of thousands of your fellow-citizens and obtain prompt relief, as well as thorough and lasting cure, by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Grooves in an Indian Arrow.

In making the Indian arrow, three small undulating grooves are cut on the shaft, running down to the head from the lower end of the feathers. This has attracted the attention of some of the ethnologists, who gave the matter considerable study and wisely concluded that the little lines were made for the blood to run through, or that they represented lightning. An old Omaha, who had the reputation of being very skillful in cutting the grooves in arrow shafts, was called by the chief to do that work for him on some arrows he was making. The chief himself was a fine arrow-maker, but he recognized the skill of the old man in this particular line. While the work was in progress, the chief's son, who had reached the inquisitive age, and was looking on with wide-eyed interest, suddenly asked: "Venerable man, why are you making those crooked lines?" The chief gave a hearty laugh and said: "Father, tell him, for he will be making arrows himself some day, and he should know." "Every sapling," answered the old man, "out of which the arrow is made has some defect, however faultless it may appear. The good arrow-maker takes a great deal of pains to smooth out and straighten the imperfections by oiling and heating. But the wood, in time, will spring back because of its inherent defects, unless these grooves are cut in the shaft soon after seasoning and straightening."—Southern Workman.

Tensile Strength of Common Paper.

Few people realize the strain to which the paper on which newspapers are printed is subjected, says a writer in The Paper Buyer. "On a press running at a speed of 800 feet per minute the paper passing over bars and rollers is subjected to a pull of from seven to fourteen pounds per running inch. This means that a roll of paper seventy-two inches wide must resist a strain of 720 pounds under a direct pull. In press construction great care is taken, of course, that the pull is direct, the web of paper being supported in such a way that an equal strain is put on every inch of its width. When breaks occur the fault is sometimes that of the press but oftener some defect in the paper is the cause. Presses are less subject to change than paper in fact it is seldom that two lots of paper are exactly alike. The conditions under which paper is manufactured cannot be controlled with certainty. Water, pulp and mixture, general manipulation and other conditions make it almost impossible to guarantee uniform results. To the credit of the paper maker let it be said that in spite of difficulties he is often able to point to records of presses running for weeks at a time without a single break."

No Time For Fools.

When George Westinghouse, as a young inventor, was trying to interest capitalists in his automatic brake, the device which now plays so important a part in the operation of railroad trains, he wrote a letter to Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt, president of the New York Central Railroad Company, carefully explaining the details of the invention. Very promptly his letter came back to him endorsed in big, scrawling letters, in the hand of Commodore Vanderbilt—"I have no time to waste on fools."

Afterwards, when the Pennsylvania Railroad had taken up the automatic brake, and it was proving very successful, Commodore Vanderbilt sent young Mr. Westinghouse a request to call on him. The inventor returned the letter, endorsed on the bottom as follows: "I have no time to waste on fools."—[Success.

Women Who Should Never Marry.

Congregationalist and Christian World.

The woman who proudly declares that she cannot hem a pocket handkerchief, never make up a bed in her life, and adds with a smug that she has "been in society ever since she was fifteen."

The woman who would rather nurse a pug dog than a baby.

The woman who thinks that men are angels.

The woman who would rather die than wear a hat two seasons old.

The woman who thinks that the cook and nurse can keep house.

The woman who buys ornaments for the drawing room and borrows kitchen utensils from her neighbor; and who thinks table decorations are of more importance than good food.

The woman who wants things just because "other women have them."

The Sort of "Happy Family" It is.

At the dinner which George Harvey gave in New York in honor of M. Witte and Baron Rosen, a young Russian officer was seated beside H. H. Rogers.

"I admire your country," said the Russian, "because it is so peaceful. Politicians, financiers, the laboring classes, business men, ministers—all dwell amicably together, one happy family."

Mr. Rogers laughed. "One happy family," he said. "Yes; such a happy family as P. T. Barnum, our greatest showman, used to exhibit."

"This family consisted of a lion, a tiger, a bear, a wolf and a lamb, all penned together in one cage."

"Remarkable," a visitor said one day to Mr. Barnum. "Remarkable, impressive, instructive. And how long have these animals dwelt together in this way?"

"Seven months," Barnum answered, "but the lamb has occasionally to be renewed."

Sound Reasoning.

"Sambo," said the owner of a country place to his gardener, "concerning that tree I wanted you to cut down, my wife thinks it had better be allowed to stand."

"Well, an think it ought ter come down, Massa Brown," was the reply.

"What are your reasons for thinking so, Sambo?"

"We—ll, sir, de first reason am dat de tree done keep de light off de greenhouse; de secon' reason am dat it's gettin' old; and de third reason am dat I cut it down last night."

Fishy.

Mother (reproachfully, to her small son)—"Jamie, where have you been all afternoon?" Jamie (uneasily)—"At Sunday school, mamma." Mother—"Then how is it you are wet and smell so of fish?" Jamie (in desperation)—"Well, you see, I've been studying about Jonah, and the whale, and—well—I guess it came off on my clothes."—[Harper's Weekly.

Common ranges make the coal man smile.

The Pandora Range makes the thrifty housewife smile.

Is your Coal Wasted or Used?

It is comparatively easy to build a range that will make a lot of heat, but it requires the exact science of Pandora range building to produce a range that will use all the heat in the coal without waste.

A common range may burn twice the coal that a Pandora will, and yet do only half the work.

If you use a Pandora range you can be certain that your coal money is not wasted, but used.
