

WOODSTOCK, N. B., SEPT. 20, 1905.

News of Hartland and Vicinity

FRED. H. STEVENS, Reporter, and Manager Hartland Branch Office.

NOTICE:—The Dispatch has opened a branch office at Hartland, with Fred H. Stevens, former Editor of the Advertiser, in charge. He will conduct this department in such manner as to satisfy all the people demand in a local paper. At the Hartland branch subscriptions, orders for advertising and for printing will have the same attention as at the office of publication.

To the Hartland People.

In undertaking the management of THE DISPATCH branch office we must ask the co-operation of the village people in order to have the department render the fullest possible service. Surely it must now be plain to the people that a newspaper cannot be successfully conducted in Hartland. Let them patronize it as liberally as they will, the income will not come up to the expense of publication, and the reason is plain to one who knows the business—the town is not large enough.

The idea of securing a Hartland page in one of the Woodstock papers is not new for the scheme was carefully planned over a year ago. In the meantime, however, Mr. McLaughlin took hold of the Advertiser and we did not deem it wise to supply a substitute so long as the people were getting the real thing. Now that the Advertiser is no more we step forward with our offering and trust to get again the kind and generous patronage that was ours in the years gone by.

In order to maintain this new venture a liberal patronage is imperative. And if THE DISPATCH gives the news of town, county, and village more fully than the local paper ever did and more fully than any other county paper does, why may we not expect a hearty support?

THE DISPATCH has for years held a high place as a town and county paper. That fact and this new department should appeal strongly to the people. The subscription is $1.00 per year paid in advance.

The circulation of THE DISPATCH is about four times that of the former local paper and is therefore a splendid advertising medium. The wise merchant will quickly perceive the advisability of engaging space at once.

The job department is noted for its fine work. The latest type-styles are always employed and the foreman is a true artist-printer. Samples of work and prices may be seen at the branch office and orders left here will be as promptly filled as though left at the Woodstock office. THE REPORTER.

The Market.

There is still little doing in the produce business. Numerous hay presses are in operation throughout the county but comparatively little will be hauled to market until snow comes. The price is about $7.50. Oats are coming in slowly; price 35 to 40 cents per bushel. Butter has still an upward tendency and brings 18 cents in rolls, prints or tubs. Eggs hold at 18 cents. Buckwheat meal is firm at $2.00 and the grain brings 40 cents. Chickens just at present bring 12 cents a pound. Apples, handpicked, in excellent condition, will bring $1.00. Good hard winter apples will bring a good price later on. Potatoes are as yet only in local demand and the price fluctuates around 75 cents. Beans are lower in price and the supply ample. Cheese 11 to 12 cents. Squash 10 cents each.

The retail cash price for the staple groceries are:—Sugar, 17 pounds for $1.00; Five Roses flour, Hungarian, do, $6.35; corn meal, $3.75; oatmeal, $5.75.

LOCALS.

The new time table of the C. P. R. will go into effect October 8th.

Charles Hurst has moved his family to his own house up on the hill.

Miss Jennie Nevers is greatly improving the exterior of her residence.

J. K. Flemming's saw mill is shut down until the river comes up sufficiently to bring rafts to it.

The air-brake instruction car of the International Correspondence School passed over this line on Saturday.

The Union Telephone Company is contemplating the extension of its line from Andover to Fort Fairfield.

The band boys are preparing for their promenade concert and supper to be given shortly. Dates announced later.

Those who contemplate subscribing for THE DISPATCH will please note that the subscription price is $1.00 per year, to be paid in advance.

Now that the long close season is off many are trying their luck after partridge. They are said to be scarcer than at any time during the past three years.

Miss McNeil, of New York, who has been teaching pianoforte here during the past two summers, will, with the aid of her pupils give a concert in the Forester's hall this evening.

Potato diggers in Aroostook County are getting $2.00 a day. The price of potatoes is still about 90c. while the starch factories only offer 30c. for the small ones. More than double the quantity of potatoes have been shipped from Aroostook this season than at the same time last year.

Voters List.

Persons wishing to have their names added to the revised voters' list can do so now. Lists will be found at George Smith's, south side of bridge, A. G. Bailey's shoe store and Lindsay Bros. The final revision will be held on Tuesday, October 24th next.

A. G. BAILEY,
JOSEPH FEWER,
ROBERT LINDSAY.

There was an open air temperance meeting on Saturday evening, addressed by some of the most enthusiastic workers of the village. The band gave its aid to make the occasion attractive.

The severe frost of last Thursday left its mark on the face of nature. But the crafty Carleton County farmer had his perishable crop safely stored so that little, if any, damage resulted.

Sayre's mill was only able to run two days on the recent raise of water. The last rain did not benefit the lumbermen in the least. Sayre has still about six weeks sawing to do and the lumber is a mile and more up the stream.

There is little interest shown in the coming municipal election as compared with two years ago. It is expected that most of the old councillors will be elected by acclamation, which should show their service has been appreciated.

The Hartland Drug Company has hung out a fine illuminated sign which is an attractive piece of handiwork. The new drug store seems to be doing a thriving trade already. The interior of the store presents an especially attractive appearance.

W. R. McMurray, the enterprising merchant at Peel carries on an extensive meat-packing business. All summer he has slaughtered an average of ten beef cattle a week. Some of the carcasses are shipped fresh but the most of the beef is corned and shipped to Cabano and Plaster Rock.

We have in our local history the year of the Miramichi fire, the year the soldiers went through, the year the Prince of Wales was here, the year of the St. John fire, and—yes—"The year of the big turnip," but of very recent date no "years" of sufficient importance to make themselves noted have passed. Unless, in view of the fact that the lid has been put on all the rum shops in Carleton County and the State of Maine, and that the summer has been one of the driest ever known, the year 1905 should pass into history as the year of the big drought.

DIED.—On September 15th, after a long and tedious illness, the Hartland Advertiser, aged 14 years and 6 months. Early in 1904 it was stricken with a paralytic stroke, but later recovered sufficiently to enable it to be about every week until its death. Never very rugged or strong, the wonder is it survived as long as it did. Many will regret more or less to learn of the Advertiser's demise but there are none to drop a tear—save one blood-relative, THE DISPATCH reporter. Its foster parent gave it every care and attention but nought can stay the hand of death when once it strikes in on a country newspaper.

On Saturday afternoon Deputy-Sheriff Foster sold at auction a number of carriages and a quantity of wire fencing which George W. Boyer had distrained upon for rent he claims due from the Page W. Rideout Company. The sale was made interesting to the onlookers through the fact that Marvin L. Hayward, Esq., acting for the McLaughlin Carriage Company, who owned the waggons, attempted to stop the sale on the ground that no rent was due. His efforts were of no avail and the waggons went to the highest bidders. They brought a fair price with the exception of one fine $100.00 buggy that was knocked down at $35.00. Those who know the details of the case say legal difficulties will result from the sale. Mr. Rideout is at present out of the country.

Sudden Death.

Mrs. Jane M. Brown widow of the late Earl Brown of Upper Woodstock died quite suddenly at her home in Upper Woodstock, Friday morning aged 82. Her maiden name was Hartley a sister of the late Rev. G. T. Hartley of this town. She was the last member of quite a large family whose home was in Southampton, York County. Mrs. Brown became a follower of the Lord when she was only eleven years of age, under the ministry of Elder Gore, who was laboring at that time in Southampton, and ever since lived an exemplary christian life.

She had been failing in health for some time past through age and infirmities until she fell asleep in Jesus, at the ripe age of 82. Her husband died some seven or eight years ago. She is survived by one son Hubert of Boston and a daughter Mrs. Fletcher of New York, several grandchildren and a large number of relatives. The funeral services took place Monday afternoon 18th inst., and was attended by her daughter Mrs. Fletcher, her daughter-in-law Mrs. Hebert Brown, with whom she lived, a number of grandchildren and relatives besides a large number of neighbours and friends.
