

Canada and How to "Americanize" It.

Washington, D. C., Post.

Something has been said about "Americanizing" Canada, and it is suggested that the many thousands of our people who have voluntarily expatriated themselves, located on the domain of our northern neighbor and become subjects of the King of England, will do the business. That may be; but is there not some danger that they will be "Canadianized"? That Canada will some day be a part of the great republic is certain. Mutual interest will draw the two people together, but not until long after our country practices a different sort of statesmanship from that we now employ in our intercourse with the Dominion.

Instead of inviting Canada, we repel her. We built our wall against her, and she has built her wall against us. A genuine and reasonable trade reciprocity between the two countries would bring political union within a score or so of years. But there are powerful interests in the United States which do not intend that we shall have trade reciprocity with Canada or anybody else. We have free trade in labor, and thousands of Canadians swarm over the line and get jobs in our country whilst rejecting our citizenship; but a saw leg is not allowed to cross the border.

Perhaps there have been more abundant quantities of patriotic eloquence derived from discussing of our "fisheries" than from any other single source. We take great pride in them. Every good American feels that it is a patriotic duty to cultivate a taste for mackerel, and thus make a pleasure of the tribute he pays to Gloucester. But it transpires—unless there has been some tall slander thrown about—that our fishing smacks are manned by sailors from Canada, and all this patriotism we have been practising in the name of "the nursery of the American navy" is bosh. We have been led to believe that on every smack was sore two or three youngsters who only required opportunity to be a Preble, a Decatur, a Farragut or a Dewey. These were the gentry whom we were subsidizing every time we ate a mackerel or a sardine; but it seems that we were maintaining a nursery for the British navy instead of our own.

We have walked the floor o' nights a great deal, agonizing over a trade with the peoples of our hemisphere south of the equator; but one year's genuine reciprocity with Canada would bring more returns than we are likely to get out of South America in a decade. Why not try Mr. Blaine's idea in dealing with our neighbors of the north, who speak our language, observe our laws and are of our blood and bone?

Antiseptic and Healing.

THERE ARE SCORES OF WAYS IN WHICH EVERY FAMILY FINDS USE FOR

Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Dr. Chase's Ointment is so pure and clean, so remarkably soothing and healing and leaves the skin so soft, smooth and clear that it becomes a pleasure to use it.

Though best known because of its extraordinary control of the most torturing itching skin diseases, such as eczema, salt rheum, psoriasis and tetter. It should not be forgotten that Dr. Chase's Ointment will not injure the most delicate skin, but is in reality skin beautifier of great value.

Dr. Chase's Ointment is used with splendid results as a cure for:

- Chilblains and frostbites.
- Chapped hands and face.
- Sore and inflamed eyelids.
- Poisoned skin.
- Scald head and baby eczema.
- Sore feet and toes.
- Pimples and blackheads.
- Rough, red skin.
- Hives and insect bites.
- Barber's Itch.
- Scalds and burns.
- Itching peculiar to women.
- Ringworm and pinworms.
- Old sores and bed sores.

Especially where there are small children scarcely a week passes in which Dr. Chase's Ointment would not prove useful.

By noting the cures reported from time to time in this paper you will find that Dr. Chase's Ointment is one of the greatest healing preparations known to science, frequently curing eczema and psoriasis when all other means have failed.

Bunkers and the Cold Rough on Geo. S. Lyon.

George S. Lyon, Olympic golf champion, returned on Saturday from his excursion abroad, that was in vain, as far as further honors went. Still, he played the game all right, showing them that the colonials can do things. Interviewed, Mr. Lyons said:

"I only suffered defeat in two of my single matches. In the championships I didn't and among the winners; neither did Willie Anderson, of whom so much was expected. I haven't any excuses; the golf was of a higher order than we play, yet I must say that the weather conditions were against an American or Canadian. My, it was cold and windy. One's hands were so cold that grasping the club with the usual grip was out of the question.

"The courses? Oh, they were fine, but there again I was handicapped in that there are so many more bunkers than over here. The cold and the bunkers were a combination that was enough to destroy any chance that I had, and Willie Anderson suffered in the same way. But, understand me thoroughly"—and the Toronto man emphasized his remarks—"I could not win in that company.

"The playing of Braid was a treat to watch, though in my opinion Taylor's driving was far the best. But Braid's putting and approaching were superb, and many a time he recovered from a bad play by his grand short game."

The Summer Millinery.

The arrangement of the coiffure is a most important feature when the new hat is selected, says the Delineator for July. With the Louis XV. hat turned up high at the side, the pompadour must be loose and full, and is even pulled gently onto the bandeau and caught with a jewelled pin. While the little polo hat precludes the high pompadour, the soft, low roll may be worn, and the back hair is usually softly waved and piled high on top of the head. These small hats afford splendid opportunity for the use of ornamental back and side combs.

One of the fancies of the day is the plateau bent into most impossible shapes and trimmed with tulle, ribbon, flowers and feathers. There are hats with fluted upstanding brims, flat hats with double brims, separated by flowers or folds or loops of ribbon, and nameless other shapes, all emanating from plateau of straw or horsehair. Among the Summer novelties is the thin horsehair braid hat embroidered with straw in floral patterns. Some of the prettiest models unite purple shades with American Beauty tones, but these combinations are not for the unskilled.

The association of white with yellow and green in certain shades is a distinctive feature of the Summer millinery, and there is much to make it popular. It is generally becoming and harmonizes with almost any Summer frock. The apricot shades, the lilacs, the hydrangea and blue tones, delicate tea-rose shades and certain hues of brown are all in vogue for the new millinery creations. Pink, too, is modish in the soft, faded tones.

He Used The Stamp.

Maine is a prohibition state, but it is not by any means populated exclusively by teetotalers. In fact the liquor dealers of neighboring commonwealth find considerable encouragement, says the Boston Herald. They send attractively worded circulars to possible customers "down East," and take chances on nearly every name in the directories. One such circular, advertising a brand of whisky, was sent to a Rumford Falls man, and as it had a stamped envelope for reply, he replied. His letter read as follows:

Messrs. Blank. Your communication rec'd this evening, and as you kindly furnish envelope and stamp, I am minded to reply. I have several things that I am in need of, but they are not in your line. I am possessed of good health and a fair reputation; these I am at considerable pains to retain, so I have no use for the class of goods you advertise.

In my trade I am hourly in need of hands and eyes as true and steady as is possible to have, or I would be in constant danger. Therefore your line of groceries is a thing I must avoid. That may seem very queer, and you may think that I am taking considerable liberty to write to you this way, especially at your expense, but I consider you were taking liberties hardly less than an insult in sending such literature and putting every possible temptation to anyone whose habits and circumstances you know nothing of.

I would not have spent two cents in reply, but as I said before, I think I ought to, since you seemed to wish it. And now I will send you a few words of information concerning myself.

I am neither Frenchman, dago, Polander nor New Yorker. I am neither drunkard, bartender nor pocket-picker. There are too many of all these classes in this town. I won't mention the effect that comes on many gents from using goods like yours, for you know very well without any one refreshing your memory. As for myself, I am a common, every-day, State of Maine Yankee, engineer by trade and total abstainer by choice.

Hoping that I have not taken too much liberty with your red envelope and two-cent stamp, I am yours, with the greatest respect.

Piles

To prove to you that Dr. Chase's Ointment is a certain and absolute cure for each and every form of itching, bleeding and protruding piles, the manufacturers have guaranteed it. See testimonials in the daily press and ask your neighbors what they think of it. You can use it and get your money back if not cured. 60c a box, at all dealers or EDMANSTON, BATES & CO., TORONTO.
