A pretty little wedding took place at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Wm. Lindsay, Bloomfield, Wednesday, May 2nd, when Miss Mary A. London, youngest daughter of the late Hugh T. London, Esq., was united in marriage to Mr. Everett Ridley, only son of the late Rev. I. G. Ridley, Ludlow Me. The couple looked charming standing under an arch of evergreen entwined with red, white and blue. Rev. Joseph A. Cahill performed the ceremony. Only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties were present. The bride was becomingly attired in a costume of white poplin de chene, wearing a veil adorned with white flowers. After partaking of a sumptuous repast, the happy couple drove to their future home in Jacksonville, followed by the best wishes of their many friends. The numerous and costly presents received testify to the high esteem in which they were held.

A number of the friends of G. W. White assembled at his home on Saturday evening to join with him in celebrating his eightieth birthday. After a bountiful repast had been partaken of a large number of the older persons present repaired to the parlours where speech making was the order of the evening. Mr. George Long of Long's Settlement who is well advanced in his eighty-seventh year was first called upon and made some very interesting remarks in regard to the early settlement of this part of the county and in closing congratulated Mr. White very heartily on arriving at his eightieth birthday in his present vigorous healthful condition. Mr. White then took the floor and told of his coming here, nearly forty five years ago and gave a somewhat lengthy account of the beneficent bestowal of divine blessing and prosperity from the hand of him whom he recognized as Lord and Master. The speech making was continued for some time after which prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Beatty and the assembly broke up and went to their several homes carrying with them memories of a very pleasant evening.

Evangelist Beatty concluded his services here last evening but the services will go on as the revival interest is greater here now than for many years. There seems to be very little excitement but young men and old men too are calmly and deliberately considering the situation and are yielding to the influences of the spirit of truth.

The Line Stores.

There may be trouble coming to what are called the "line stores," those stores on the boundary line between Canada and the United States. There is an agitation for their abolition. It is impossible to say what has been the cause of this agitation in other places, but one thing we do know, the matter never would have been thought of in the Counties of Carleton and Aroostook had it not been for the fact that in Carleton the Canada Temperance Act is in force and in Aroostook a prohibitory law, and most of the stores on the line separating these two counties have for years been devoted to the sale of spirituous and intoxicating liquors.

The governments of both countries are now looking into the matter of these places of business. They are, through their customs officials, getting complete lists of all the stores touching the line on both sides and information as to the business in which they are engaged. They are also asking the officials to make suggestions as to the advisability of having these stores moved some distance from the line, as to what distance they think would be sufficient, what they think wise to order with regard to the use of the land immediately on each side of the line, and as to whether any compensation ought to be made to the owners if the removal of the buildings is decreed.

The officers on both sides of the line are not unwilling that the line stores should be moved, though the only necessity for this seems to them to arise in the liquor shops. If they are moved, the distance of three rods on each side the line appears to be agreed on. Some officers suggest that the land on each side for this distance should not be cultivated, others fear that if this were so the land would grow up in a heavy brush and a strip of six rods, practically 100 feet, would furnish a too advantageous place for smugglers on both sides to store goods for their mutual advantage.

It has never been the policy of the government of Canada or of the United States to confiscate property, and no man who has a store on the line, and who is behaving himself, need be afraid that his buildings will be torn down over his head.

The Kind of Stomach to Have.

The last delusion, and not the least dangerous, is that our diet needs to be "regulated." A man who continuously and anxiously considers the kind of food he eats—whether it is going to agree with him or not when he eats it—is a dyspeptic, and will always remain so. In the language of a modern writer "nothing survives being thought of," and the digestion is a striking case in point. The vast majority of men are led by their instincts, to a reasonably nutritious and sensible dietary and the more completely we can keep our minds off our digestions and the "chemical" choice of our food, the better it is for us. It is not even well for us to consider too nicely the amount of water or food taken, or whether it is digestible or not.

The really healthy stomach ought to be and is capable of disposing of not only the digestible and the difficult of digestion, but the indigestible. Any other kind of a stomach is not worth having and that is the standard to which we physicians are now training our dyspeptic patients. The stomach which will melt down and utilize anything in reason that is given to it, is the only one fitted to survive. Stomachs can be "pampered" just as easily by relieving them from the necessity of taking difficult foods as by overloading them. Personally, I have met with almost as many dyspepsias due to the former as to the latter. The stomach, like any other instrument, should be kept up to concert pitch. It should not be allowed to shirk its responsibilities or to be humored too much. This, of course, is by no means to discourage intelligent discrimination in the choice of food.

Some perfectly wholesome foods are literal poisons to certain stomachs, and those which after repeated trials steadily disagree had better be avoided.

Our aim should be to keep our food-range as wide as possible. Man's ability to eat and thrive upon everything has gone far to make him the dominant animal, living where others would starve. The sharpest lookout should be kept for any trace of "spoiling" or putrefaction. Nature has provided an instinct and a special sense for this very purpose. If we would only use it and follow it and follow our noses we would escape many a ptomaine-poisoning. But Mrs. Grundy says it's rude to "sniff" at table!—[McClure's.]

NERVOUS CHILDREN.

St. Vitus Dance, Neuralgia and Headaches Common Among School Children.

St. Vitus dance is a disease that is becoming more and more frequent among school children. Young people tire the nerves with study and the nerves cry out. Sometimes the trouble takes the form of neuralgia, headache, nervous exhaustion, weakness of the limbs and muscles, and what we call "being run down." In other cases St. Vitus dance is the result, and the sufferer frequently loses all control of the limbs, which keep up a constant jerking and twitching. There is only one way to cure this trouble—through the blood which feeds and strengthens the nerves. And Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are the only medicine that can make the new rich, red blood that feeds the nerves and strengthens every part of the body. The case of Flossie Doan, of Crowland, Ont., proves the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Mrs. Doan says: "A couple of years ago my daughter Flossie was dangerously afflicted with St. Vitus dance. She became so nervous that after a time we could not let her see even her friends. She could not pick up a dish, lace her shoes, or make any movement to help herself. She had grown thin and very pale, and as she had been treated by several doctors without benefit I feared she would not recover. A friend advised me to give her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after she had used a couple of boxes I could see that they were helping her. We gave her nine boxes in all, and by that time she was perfectly well, and every symptom of trouble had passed away and she is now a strong, well developed girl."

If your growing children are weak or nervous, if they are pale and thin, lack appetite or complain of headaches or backaches give them Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and see how speedily the rich, red blood these pills make will transform them into bright, active, robust boys and girls. You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.
