

CURED HER BOY OF PNEUMONIA

Newmarket Mother is loud in her Praises of the Great Consumption Preventative

"My son Laurence was taken down with Pneumonia," says Mrs. A. O. Fisher, of Newmarket, Ont. "Two doctors attended him. He lay for three months almost like a dead child. His lungs became so swollen, his heart was pressed over to the right side. Altogether I think we paid $140 to the doctors, and all the time he was getting worse. Then we commenced the Dr. Slocum treatment. The effect was wonderful. We saw a difference in two days. Our boy was soon strong and well."

Here is a positive proof that Psychine will cure Pneumonia. But why wait till Pneumonia comes. It always starts with a Cold. Cure the Cold and the Cold will never develop into Pneumonia, nor the Pneumonia into Consumption. The one sure way to clear out Cold, root and branch, and to build up the body so that the Cold won't come back is to use

One Cause of Desertion.

The Northwestern Christian Advocate courageously charges the administration of the United States army and navy with gross discrimination in favor of officers as against privates. One of the latter was five years ago convicted of insubordination in refusing to do extra duty on shipboard at the command of an officer. For this he was sentenced to a year's confinement, with extra police duties, and loss of pay amounting to three hundred and seventy-six dollars. The severity of this penalty is put in sharp contrast with the leniency shown to naval cadets, who, with the connivance of their superiors in the academy, show the utmost contempt for the law prohibiting "hazing" with its outrageous brutalities. A cook at one of the army posts was convicted of embezzling soap to the value of eight cents, and was sentenced to confinement at hard labor for six months, with forfeiture of his pay at the rate of ten dollars a month during the same period. Quite recently an officer pleaded guilty to the charge of embezzling supplies to the amount of four hundred and seventeen dollars, and for this he was sentenced to be "reprimanded in orders." Even this trifling penalty was mitigated by regarding the publication of the plea of guilt and of the sentence of the court as an adequate substitute for the reprimand. It is not surprising that the army and navy are honeycombed by desertion.

Women Angrily Aroused ALL OVER THE DOMINION

Information from various sources in Canada points to the fact that many women have been deceived and induced to use the weak adulterated package dyes put up by unskilled and unscrupulous manufacturers to imitate the popular DIAMOND DYES.

Our Canadian women, thoroughly aroused, after loss of time, money and valuable materials through the use of muddy, blotchy and weak dyes, have directly laid the blame for their losses on the retail merchants who sold them the deceptive dyes.

This action of indignant women has caused many of our retail and wholesale dealers to pack up and return to the manufacturers responsible, their worthless and dangerous dyes.

MORAL:—When ladies decide to do home dyeing work, it pays to use the celebrated and popular DIAMOND DYES, which have been the same friends of the ladies for over 25 years. When buying, see that each package handed to you bears the words DIAMOND PACKAGE DYES. Users of DIAMOND DYES soon become experts in the fascinating work of home coloring, and find that a ten cent package will renew the life of any faded and dingy suit, dress, skirt, blouse, jacket, cape or husband's or son's coat, vest or trousers. Allow no dealer to offer you the something he calls "JUST AS GOOD." No other dyes equal the DIAMOND DYES.

Send your name and address to Wells & Richardson Co., Limited, Montreal, P. Q., and you will receive free of cost new Dye Book, Card of Dyed Cloth Samples and Booklet in verse, entitled "The Longjohn's Trip to the Klondike."

John Burns at Home.

The new president of the local government board has lived for some years in the lower half of an unpretentious house on Lavender Hill, Battersea, and his family consists of his wife and boy. So much we gather from a finely-illustrated article, with special portraits, from the pen of Robert Donald in the March number of The Pall Mall Magazine.

Mr. Burns is his own footman, and in that capacity is kept busy when at home. During my visit (says Mr. Donald) he was continually answering the bell. All sorts and conditions of people seek his advice. First there was a call from a woman who had walked from Hackney to know if she could get help from the unemployed fund. Then a local politician looked in, and was no sooner disposed of than a ring announced another visitor, who turned out to be a sturdy tramp with a suggestion to show how the president of the local government board could begin a division of his salary. A municipal officer came next, seeking advice, followed by a woman who wanted to get her daughter out of a county council asylum. And so on, a never-ending procession of visitors, to all of whom Mr. Burns opened the door. He has led a simple life, and, since he began his public career, a very open one. He has always been a teetotaler and a nonsmoker. He has never been seen with an umbrella or an overcoat. He has a powerful physique, and has always enjoyed good health, though he has lived all his life in London, except for the one year he spent in the swamps of West Africa. His reefer jacket and bowler hat are still serving him as a right honorable member of the privy council and president of local government board.

The first collective congratulation he received when appointed president was one from the directors, staff and workmen at Price's factory, where he worked as a lad of ten years of age. He worked in many capacities to help his mother in his young days. His occupations varied from that of "buttons" to "pot-boy" on Sundays. Burns, who had a mechanical turn, elected to be an engineer, and served his apprenticeship in works at Vauxhall and at Milbank. He continued to live with his mother at Battersea, and to make up for the absence of a school education by diligent reading at night. He had a good voice, and was some time a chorister in the parish church. While cultivating his mind, he did not neglect the body. His genius for leadership was early shown, as he was captain of the local cricket club before he was 18.

He was a leading light at Radical clubs, a member of the local parliament, spoke frequently on Clapham Common, and it was not long before he came into conflict with the police for maintaining freedom of speech. He joined a Socialist organization, and was reorganized as one of the lights of the movement. In 1885 he lost his situation for taking part in the national industrial remuneration conference, where he met for the first time some leading political men, whose acquaintance he was destined to make later, including Mr. Balfour, Sir Charles Dilke, Mr. Burt and Frederic Harrison.

In the same year he stood as Socialist candidate for Nottingham, and polled 598 votes. He declared during the election that "frock coats and high hats have had their time. Now is the time for fustian and corduroy to have their innings," which was somewhat premature, as Mr. Burns was before his time.

He took a leading part in the unemployed agitations of 1886 and 1887, and was prosecuted in both years. He defended himself on each occasion with marked ability. He escaped in the first instance, but in 1887 was sentenced along with Mr. Cunningham-Graham to six weeks' imprisonment for rioting in Trafalgar-square. To judge by the number of ex-prisoners who have called on Mr. Burns since to claim acquaintanceship though being brothers in adversity in Bentonsville, and to ask help to make a new start, the prison must have been exceptionally crowded during the period of his incarceration.

Sundry Thoughts.

BY HELEN WOLJESKA.

To strive is more than to succeed. Women should not join men in making laws. Instead they should bring up their children in a way that makes laws unnecessary.

Better good bread than bad cake. A mother should learn to say "no" quietly and "yes" firmly.

People would not undertake to raise chickens—or vegetables—without thoroughly studying the necessary principles. But as for raising children—their "instinct" must suffice.

Do not discipline your child. Develop in it the power of disciplining itself.

Train your child to do the unseen things of life—honor, truth, pride—will be as real to him as those he sees.

Do not rush your children as late as possible to school—and as late as possible from school into the world.

"Society" is hospitality vulgarized.

Dignity can only slip off where it is not masked.

Not the knowledge counts that you eagerly store away—only the training received and the wisdom assimilated.

You need not look down upon the woman who spends some thoughts on her apparel and appearance. The way we dress is but another form of expressing our personality and influencing our surroundings—for better or for worse.

There is one supreme lesson that no mother is too untaught to teach her child (but many a one too learned to teach her child wisely.) It is the lesson of how to be happy. Few people know it.

To scold women scolding (or whipping) and educating means one and the same—while they are directly opposed.

It would be better if you intelligently and truthfully answered your child's questions, instead of teaching him what he has no eagerness and desire to know.—Good Housekeeping.

From the Agricultural Report.

In his annual report to the Government Harry Mitchell, dairy Superintendent, whose district covers the counties of St. John, Kings, Queens, Sunbury, Charlotte, York and Carleton, says among other things:—

In the month of June I visited the factories in the St. John River District. In parts of this section, particularly in Carleton County, I found the high prices paid for hay and grain during the winter had its effect on the milk supply at the factories. A common expression among the farmers was "Dairying don't pay," and, judging from the conditions as I found them in many cases, their experience would warrant them in making that statement. The cows were wintered in barns lighted by a window in each gable end, and fed on a ration consisting of a liberal supply of straw and, and some cases, a little hay that has been damaged and unfit for market, also all the ice water they can drink once a day. It is safe to say, under such conditions, the farmers always keep the cows, instead of the cows keeping the farmers.

In some of the factories a part of the patrons sell their milk at a stated price per hundred weight, others sell it at stated price per pound of butterfat, while the balance have it manufactured by the pound. They cannot agree on a system of operating their factories, as is done in the King County section, of having the milk manufactured by the pound, the product sold by a competent salesman, whose duty it is to keep posted in regard to the markets, and divide the proceeds according to the percentage of butterfat.

I tested a great many samples of milk from the patrons and found a great variation in the percentage of butterfat, and I regret to say some were not due to natural causes. It is unfair that patrons who furnish good, pure milk to the factories, containing 3.8 per cent. and over of butterfat should be obliged to take the same price per hundred pounds for it, as few of his scrupulous neighbours receive for milk which contains only 2 per cent. of butterfat. The sooner the old pooling system is abolished, the better it will be for all concerned.

Faith

You cannot be expected to have faith in Shiloh's Consumption Cure, the Lung Tonic, as a cure for Colds, Coughs and all diseases of the air passages, if you have not tried it. We have faith in it, and to convince you that it will cure you we guarantee it. If it doesn't cure you it costs you nothing. If it does it costs you 25c. That's fair. Try it to-day.

Shiloh

has cured many thousands of the most obstinate cases, and we do not hesitate to say that it will cure any Cold, Cough, Throat or Lung trouble. If we did not believe this we would not guarantee it absolutely as we do. Shiloh has had an unbroken record of success for thirty years. It has stood every possible test without failure. Isn't that proof of its curative properties. Further is found in the many testimonials of those who have tried Shiloh and been cured. Mrs. Archie Taylor, Asaph, Pa., writes:—"I bought a bottle of Shiloh's Consumption Cure and found it very beneficial. I have two children and they had a terrible cough. I gave them everything I could think of, but they got no better until one evening my husband bought a bottle of Shiloh. We gave it to the children when they went to bed, and they slept all night. It cured them completely. I shall always keep it in the house."
