

THE above picture of the man and fish is the trademark of Scott's Emulsion, and is the synonym for strength and purity. It is sold in almost all the civilized countries of the globe.

the cod fish became extinct it would be a world-wide calamity, because the oil that comes from its liver surpasses all other fats in nourishing and life-giving properties. Thirty years ago the proprietors of Scott's Emulsion found a way of preparing cod liver oil so that everyone can take it and get the full value of the oil without the objectionable taste. Scott's Emulsion is the best thing in the world for weak, backward children, thin, delicate people, and all conditions of wasting and lost strength.

The question of how to make our county more prosperous can never grow old or stale.

I firmly believe that the best interests of both the farmer and the merchant are identical, each with the other, and not in any manner opposed to each other. You cannot injure either one without injuring the other. To make my meaning plain we will suppose that you have a load of potatoes that you wish to draw to market; if you take a good team, one horse representing the merchant and the other representing the farmer, hitch them to your load of potatoes representing the profits of both merchant and farmer, and if they are both good true horses and pull together, you will very soon get your load of potatoes or profit to market. If on the other hand you attach one horse to the front and the other to the rear of your load, you may work as hard as you will; but you will never market your load.

Every dollar that is diverted from its legitimate channel of trade in Carleton County, whether by merchant or farmer, injures the merchant first; but it just as surely injures the farmer. The dollar with its profit and earning capacity is gone from the town of Woodstock or some other town forever, and never comes back. When enough of these dollars are diverted that business ceases to be profitable. Merchants, the most of whom rent their stores and houses, must necessarily seek other localities or occupations. This means empty stores and dwellings and depreciated real estate. When real estate in a village ceases to have a market value just as surely will every farm and every piece of property surrounding that village or tributary to it be depreciated in sympathy with it. Or take it the other way, if Woodstock or Centreville or Florenceville or Hartland could by any means grow to be a little city of 10,000 population, is there a farm within miles but what would immediately be worth more money? We think not.

Every dollar kept in the local town is invested here over and over again and immediately begins to pay taxes and support home industries in one form or another.

Prosperous merchants means better stocks, better home markets, better schools, better churches, better public benefits of every sort; and better business means not only lower prices for the merchants' goods, it means also better prices for everything the farmer has to sell. It means also that every property owner, not only in the village, but outside, is worth more money and can get more money for his real estate.

Mail Order houses in the large cities have, very shrewdly, for years taken advantage of the suspicious side of human nature and tried by every means in their power to create the impression that your home dealer is a robber and a villain—and they have prospered amazingly at it. From small beginnings they have made money by leaps and bounds until they rival Frenzied Financiers as a menace to the industrial prosperity of the country at large and especially of the small towns and villages.

It is an alleged fact among people who have carefully investigated the matter that mail order houses cannot do business without an average profit on their sales of 50 per cent. The little merchant can do business on a smaller profit. For a mail order house to charge a profit of 50 per cent. on standard goods would mean that they must go out of business. They know that their patrons want goods cheap so they give them cheap goods. But they are very bright people, these mail order men. To make you think they are underselling your home merchant, they will take a well-known standard article and make a leader of it, devoting a whole page to it. They tell you how your home merchant is robbing you. They know that you won't buy that article because you think the entire line is equally cheap, and you want something a little better and they make it up on every other article in that line, and you have paid a good profit on a poor article and your money has gone into the pocket of a man who won't help pay your taxes nor support your schools and churches nor buy what you have to sell, and real estate in that mail order man's city is growing more valuable every year while you can't get as much for your farm as you could five years ago, but your interest never sleeps and your taxes grow harder each year, and every fourth farm is deserted and the buildings going down, and every fourth store is empty, and the owner would sell it cheap, but nobody wants to buy. Hired help is scarce and high. Why?

Young men and young women who wish to get along in the world are going to the cities, because they say they can get better wages and lighter work. They get these wages in business houses that you are helping in one way or another to build up. You look with great satisfaction on the few cents you saved on this or that purchase; but it comes hard to see your best help leaving you for a better job doesn't it? You must go out and hire who you can get, and pay big wages, or do your work yourself, or let the old farm grow up to weeds, and you don't like to sell it because you can't get as much for it now as you could a few years ago. Just think it over.

From the Family Doctor comes a suggestion which may appeal to solicitous young mothers who are afraid that babies may be kidnapped or lost. The suggestion is that every mother examine the body of the baby carefully for any ineffaceable mark by which she could identify the child anywhere or at any time; and if the child has no such mark, that it be marked. A few drops of India ink and an operation no more painful than vaccination, says the Family Doctor, will mark the baby so that there will never be any danger of its getting "lost in the wash."

Australia has adopted the system of drying milk. The milk is evaporated between steam rollers and sold as a powder. As nothing but water has been abstracted the addition of water makes wholesome, clean and sterile milk. A leading medical officer is reported have said that the adoption of dried milk at some of the asylums for consumptive patients and in general hospitals have proved a success.

A Millionaire To-Day.

Yasujiro Ishikawa, a Japanese journalist, described in New York a German capitalist of Yokohama.

"It is no wonder," he said, "that this man is a millionaire. His fertility of invention is remarkable, and this fertility is never cramped by principles or by straitlaced notions of morality.

"They say of this man," declared Mr. Ishikawa, "that he reached Johannesburg in his youth quite destitute, save for a needle and a can of condensed milk.

"Immediately on his arrival he announced that the smallpox was approaching and that he was a surgeon, and with his only two possessions he vaccinated all the good Johannesburgers at $5 a head.

What He Should Do!

An army examiner once had a very stupid candidate before him, who apparently was unable to answer the simplest question. At last the examiner lost his temper, and with sarcastic emphasis, quite lost on the youth before him, queried:

"Suppose, sir, that you were a captain in command of a company of infantry; that in your rear was an impassable abyss; that on either side of you towered perpendicular rocks of untraversable height; that before you stood the enemy, one hundred men to each one of your. What, sir, would you do in this emergency?"

"General," said the aspirant to military honors, "I would resign."

"I'm Well

Because of Liquozone," is a Tale Told Everywhere.

In almost every hamlet—every neighborhood—there are living examples of what Liquozone can do. Wherever you are, you need not go far to find some one who has been helped by it.

Talk to some of those cured ones; perhaps your own friends are among them. Ask if they advise you to try Liquozone. Or let us buy you a bottle, and learn its power for yourself. If you need help, please don't wait longer; don't stay sick. Let us show to you—as we have to millions—what Liquozone can do.

What Liquozone Is.

The virtues of Liquozone are derived solely from gases. The formula is sent to each user. The process of making requires large apparatus, and from 8 to 14 days' time. It is directed by chemists of the highest class. The object is to so fix and combine the gases as to carry into the system a powerful tonic-germicide.

Contact with Liquozone kills any form of disease germ, because germs are of vegetable origin. Yet to the body Liquozone is not only harmless, but helpful in the extreme. That is its main distinction. Common germicides are poison when taken internally. That is why medicine has been so helpless in a germ disease. Liquozone is exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying; yet no disease germ can exist in it.

We purchased the American rights to Liquozone after thousands of tests had been made with it. Its power had been proved, again and again, in the most difficult germ diseases. Then we offered to supply the first bottle free in every disease that required it. And over one million dollars have been spent to announce and fulfill this offer.

The result is that 11,000,000 bottles have been used, mostly in the past two years. Today there are countless cured ones, scattered everywhere, to tell what Liquozone has done.

But so many others need it that this offer is published still. In late years, science has traced scores of diseases to germ attacks. Old remedies do not apply to them. We wish to show those sick ones—at our cost—what Liquozone can do.

Where It Applies.

These are the diseases in which Liquozone has been most employed. In these it has earned its widest reputation. In all of these troubles we supply the first bottle free. And in all—no matter how difficult—we offer each user a two months' further test without the risk of a penny.
