

For Thin Babies

Fat is of great account to a baby; that is why babies are fat. If your baby is scrawny, Scott's Emulsion is what he wants. The healthy baby stores as fat what it does not need immediately for bone and muscle. Fat babies are happy; they do not cry; they are rich; their fat is laid up for time of need. They are happy because they are comfortable. The fat surrounds their little nerves and cushions them. When they are scrawny those nerves are hurt at every ungentle touch. They delight in Scott's Emulsion. It is as sweet as wholesome to them.

Lord Rothschild.

Lord Rothschild comes somewhat prominently before the people of Canada at the moment because of his undertaking to emigrate two hundred families from among the poor of London. Many of the emigrants have already arrived, and others are on their way. Rev. Dr. J. S. Robbins, Royal Garrison Artillery chaplain at Shoeburyness, England, co-operated with the Ontario Government in distributing the families over Ontario. Lord Rothschild, who pays the whole expense of the undertaking, is the leader of the English Jews, and the peerage received by him as a recognition for financial services rendered to the country was the first ever conferred on a Jew. His gifts to charity and for public purposes, both within and without the Jewish fold, have been very extensive.

In private life Lord Rothschild is said to be the quietest and most unassuming of men. He still works hard, going into the city daily, when he is in town, or travelling up from Tring. At the latter place the station officials are ready to treat him like a prince, but he much prefers to slip quietly into the train, with his little black bag, without any fuss. The casual stranger would not dream that he was a great financier, and there is a story that a new porter who did not know him created him once with scant ceremony, under the impression, derived from the bag, that he was a lawyer's clerk. He believes firmly in the high destiny of his race, and takes a deep interest in the movement for the return to Palestine.

On one occasion a "Gentile" who was dining with the Rothschilds had the bad taste to apply the term "a regular Jew" to some person in opprobrium. "In this house," said Lady Rothschild very distinctly down the table, "the word 'Jew' is a title of honor." His favorite hobby is the Jews' Free School in Whitechapel, to which he contributes largely. When the Rothschilds entertain, the elite of London society comes to the feast, and the display of wealth is lavish. The late Queen had a very high opinion of the couple, and they testified their sorrow and respect at her death by draping the front of their huge London house literally from top to bottom with purple and black for the funerals.

This house was built by Lord Rothschild's father on a piece of ground next to Apsley House, the splendid residence of the Duke of Wellington, near Hyde Park corners, the ground alone for the Rothschild mansion costing a fortune. A larger fortune was spent on the building and furnishing, and the house is full of art treasures. It has a huge marble hall, with a magnificent double staircase, protected by metal banisters, which ascends to a wide gallery that goes round the hall. A small portion of the cornice of the hall remains unfinished, and will always be so, in accordance with a Jewish custom. The walls and staircase are of dazzling white, relieved by piers and pediments of glowing crimson. The finest of the reception-rooms looks out on the garden, which has a private entrance to Hamilton Garden.

The rooms go all round the house en suite, and so solidly are the walls built that the music in the ballroom can hardly be heard in the rooms on the further side of the hall.

Lord Rothschild's country house at Tring is a handsome old and spacious building, in the Italian style of time-darkened brick and white stone. It was erected by Charles II. for Nell Gwyn, and was bought by its present owner nearly thirty years ago, shortly after he succeeded to the baronetcy. It has a long front looking out on a fine level lawn. Within is a perfect treasure-house of curiosities brought from all the homes of art. The park is probably unique, for it contains herds of kangaroos, cassowaries, rheas, ostriches, foreign deer, and other strangers, including an occasional gigantic tortoise. There are very extensive meres and preserves for English and foreign wild fowl.

This introduction of strange birds and beasts is the work of Mr. Walter Rothschild, Lord Rothschild's heir, who also built, endowed and stocked the natural history museum which stands at the park gates. The latter is especially rich in strange birds, which are Mr. Rothschild's special hobby, and about which he knows more than most men. He is a member of Parliament for Mid-Bucks, and his best speech in the House of Commons showed his naturalist instinct, being devoted to the subject of undersized fish.

Lord Rothschild's younger brothers, Alfred and Leopold, are both wealthy and accomplished members of society and prominent in the financial world. The English Peer himself is, however, the head of the various branches of the family, of which there are several on the continent. They work always in unity, and are able to exert an enormous influence in the affairs of the world. Their united power is said to have coerced Russia when the Jew-baiting in that country was at its height, and the great financial panic that set in in the United States after President Cleveland's bellicose Venezuela message ten years ago was freely attributed to the deliberate withdrawal from the United States by the Rothschilds of an enormous sum of gold. Thus world financiers have to-day the power practically of causing or preventing war, and so far as the powerful combination of the Rothschilds is concerned we may count ourselves fortunate that their interests are bound up so closely with those of the empire.

Alcohol Motors.

Alcohol is increasing in popularity as a motive power in Europe, particularly in Germany, where it is being widely used on the farms, says February Country Life in America. It is convenient, safe and clean. It is reported that raw alcohol can be produced in Germany from potatoes thirteen cents a gallon by processes so simple that the farmer can do it himself. Alcohol motors have been perfected, and machinery for distilling improved, and the German Government has encouraged the industry by removing the taxes from such alcohol as is used for technical purposes.

POOR PACKAGE DYES MAKE Women Miserable and Cross.

Diamond Dyes

Have Made Millions of Wives, Mothers and Daughters Happy and Contented.

Women who buy and use any of the adulterated, weak and worthless package dyes put up in imitation of the reliable and never-failing DIAMOND DYES, must expect to meet with sad trials and disappointments in the home.

Crude package dyes with only fancy names to recommend them, and sold by some dealers for the sake of large profits, are the direct cause of much of the feminine bad temper and irritableness manifested in many homes.

It our women and girls would avoid trouble, loss of goods and hard cash, they must insist upon getting the DIAMOND DYES whenever home dyeing work is to be done. One ten cent package of the time-tried DIAMOND DYES will always color more goods than will two packages of other dyes, and give brighter, fuller, more brilliant and more lasting shades. Once used, DIAMOND DYES become the chosen dyes for all well-regulated homes.

Send your name and address to Wells & Richardson Co., Limited, Montreal, P. Q., and you will receive free of cost new Dye Book, Card of Dyed Cloth Samples and Booklet in verse, entitled "The Longjohns' Trip to the Klondike."

It Was a Triumph for Peace.

The wife of one of the new members of the British Parliament, in a letter to the Springfield Republican, declares that every candidate who was known as a Pro-Boer in war times, with the single exception of Mr. Courtney, has been elected. "The nation is sane once more after its fever of crime and folly," she says. Lord Roberts continues to pound the war drum, but no one pays attention. The people want peace, and are determined to have it.

Mediaeval Politics.

Finley Acker, one of the leaders of reform in Philadelphia, said the other day:

"From time immemorial there has been room for reformation in town councils. In a mediaeval German tale it says that the parish council of a small village met one evening to discuss certain improvements in the water supply. In this debate, the town's one watchman entered the room quietly, placed in a corner his lantern and spear and sat down to listen to the argument. Suddenly a councilman turned on him fiercely.

"'Fritz,' he cried, 'what are you doing here? Who is to watch that nothing is stolen in the village?'

"'Fritz, with an easy smile, answered: 'Who is there to steal? We are all here!'

Divorces in California.

Official statistics of divorce in California for the last six months of 1905 show that 1,206 divorces were granted, says the New York Tribune-Farmer. San Francisco furnished 475 cases, Los Angeles 220, and Alameda 95. In 901 cases wives were plaintiffs, and 816 children were affected by the litigation. Seven hundred and sixty-seven couples were childless. Of children thus affected, only 125 were over ten years old. The main cause of divorce was desertion, 550 cases coming under this head, 340 for extreme cruelty, and 205 for neglect to provide.
