How The Czar Proposed.

The love story of the czar is told in The Royal Magazine.

At Walton-on-Thames the czar had met the lady whom he wished to make his wife, and he obtained her father's consent to the match, but it still remained for him to make his proposal to the girl herself.

But the sacred words had to be uttered in the old formula which Russian court etiquet prescribed for such occasions.

Seating himself beside the girl, he took her hand in his.

"The emperor, my father," he said, "has commanded me to make you the offer of my hand and heart."

"My grandmother, the queen," she replied, her eyes twinkling with mischief, "has commanded me to accept the offer of your hand."

Then she broke into a merry laugh.
"Your heart," she added, "I take of my own accord."

Catarrh Cannot be Cured with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you must take internal remedies.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is not a quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly upon the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing Catarrh. Send

The opium traffic in Australia has received a severe blow. Some time ago, the different States agreed to forbid the sale and growth of the drug, and now the Commonwealth Government has prohibited the importation of opium except for medicinal purposes.
The Chinese are the chief customers for the drug in that part of the world, and in one or two of the large cities there used to be found "opium dens," which were as vile resorts as could be found anywhere. The consumption of opium was considerable. The drug is grown locally, but, in addition to what is thus produced, there was imported last year no less a quantity than twenty-eight tons. Australians have long been fully awake to the havoc the drug was causing, and this change in the law, following so soon upon the ordinance enacted in the Transvaal, is somewhat of a triumph for the Anti-Opium Society. Australia's action will result in some loss of revenue, Queensland alone having derived at $50,000 a year from the traffic. But the gain is worth the sacrifice. Of course, an increase in the medical demand may be expected.

Mr. Taft, the United States Secretary of War, has sent Senator Gallinger, chairman of the Merchant Marine Commission in charge of the shipping bill now pending before the Senate, a remarkable report, showing the inefficiency of the United States army transport service in time of war. The report declares that a fleet necessary to transport even the present limited military resources on an overseas expedition could not be furnished out of the present resources of the merchant marine of the United States. In order to bring about efficiency it would be necessary to increase the sea-going merchant marine to approximately two and a half times its present tonnage. The Santiago expedition of 1898 is freely criticized, and it is averred that its success was due to the good fortune of continued fair weather.

M. Camille Flammarion has been making some experiments at the station for climatologic agriculture of Juvisy, in the suburbs of Paris, to see whether the moon exerts any influence upon the growth of plants according to the popular opinion. He made different sets of plantings at dates which corresponded to the different phases of the moon, using peas, beets, carrots, potatoes, beans, and many other vegetables of the ordinary kinds. After some experimenting he found that the results which were observed on the growth of the plants were extremely variable and no fixed rule seemed to govern them.
The plants appeared at periods which had no connection with the moon's phases, so that it was impossible to draw any definite conclusions from the first series of experiment. M. Flammarion is to continue his observations on this subject and sooner or later will no doubt have results which will decide this much-disputed point.—Scientific American.

WOODSTOCK, N. B., FEB. 7, 1906.

A HINDOO FABLE.

It was six men of Indostan,
To learning much inclined,
Who went to see the elephant, (Though all of them were blind,
That each by observation Might satisfy his mind.

The first approached the elephant,
And happening to fall
Against his broad and sturdy side,
At once began to bawl:
"God Bless me!—but the elephant
Is very like a wall.

The second, feeling of the tusk, Cried, "Ho!—what have we here
So very round and smooth and sharp!
To me 'tis very queer;
The wonder of an elephant
Is very like a spear!"

The third approached the animal,
And happening to take The squirming trunk within his hands, Thus up and boldly spoke:
"I see," quoth he, "the elephant
Is very like a snake!"

The fourth reached out his eager hand,
And felt about the knee;
"What must this wondrous beast be like Is mighty plain," quoth he;
"Tis clear enough the elephant
Is very like a tree

The fifth, who chanced to touch the ear,
Said "E'en the blindest man Can tell what this resembles most—Deny the fact who can,
This marvel of an elephant
Is very like a fan!"

The sixth no sooner had begun
About the beast to grope,
Then seizing on the swinging tail
That fell within his scope,
"I see," quoth he, "the elephant
Is very like a rope!"

And so these men of Indostan Disputed loud and long,
Each in his own opinion
Exceeding stiff and strong,
Though each was partly in the right,
And all were in the wrong.

MORAL.

So, oft in theologic wars,
The disputants, I ween,
Rail on in utter ignorance
Of what the others mean,
And prate about an elephant
Not one of them has seen!
