Conise.

The Queen of England is very deaf and very sensitive about it. When she was Princess of Wales and acting for the Queen, an American Senator—every one knows him, but not this of him—was presented at court. He was told that the Princess would be present, and that he must remember that she was both deaf and sensitive; that he must not raise his voice in speaking to her, but must make his replies as brief and as plain as possible, and let it go at that. The Princess asked him if he had a pleasant voyage, to which he solemnly nodded. She then asked how long he was on the water. Bracing himself for the ordeal the Senator held up seven fingers, then two fingers, and in a tragic whisper replied: "Seven days, two hours."—Glasgow News.

AGONIZING NEURALGIA

Due to Poor, Weak Blood --- Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will Insure a Cure.

Neuralgia is the surest sign that your whole system is weak and unstrung. Those sharp, stabbing pains are caused by your jangled nerves. But your nerves would not be jangled if your blood was pure and strong. You can't cure neuralgia by liniments or hot applications. They may relieve for a moment—but they can't possibly cure. You can never cure neuralgia until you enrich your blood and brace your starved nerves with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They actually make new blood. They soothe the nerves and strengthen the whole system. They strike right at the cause of agonizing neuralgia. Mr. John McDermott, Bond Head, Ont., says:—"As the result of a wetting, I was seized with pains in all parts of my body. I consulted a doctor, who told me the trouble was neuralgia. He treated me for some time but did not help me. I had often read of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and decided to try them. By the time I had taken three boxes, there was a good improvement in my case, and after I had taken ten boxes, every ache and pain had disappeared, I had gained in weight and felt better in every way. I shall always have a good word to say for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

When the blood is poor, the nerves are starved; then comes neuralgia, insomnia, St. Vitus dance, paralysis or locomotor ataxia. All these troubles are cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, because they actually make the rich, red blood that feeds and soothes the starved nerves and sends health and strength to every part of the body. That is why these pills also cure such troubles as rheumatism, anaemia, chronic erysipelas, indigestion, and the special ailments of growing girls and women. But you must get the genuine with the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People," on the wrapper around each box. If in doubt, write the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and the pills will be sent by mail at 50 cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50. If you are ailing, try them today.

Bacon Hog Production.

If the bacon trade of Canada is to continue to improve it is necessary that hog raisers adhere to the class of animals most suited to the requirements of the British market.

In the production of hogs of the last type Canada cannot compete successfully with the United States. A visit to the Chicago Stock Yards and to western cattle feeding centers afford ample evidence of this. A large proportion of the cattle are fed on shelled or shelled corn. Herded with these are hogs that thrive and fatten on the undigested corn left by the steers. These hogs constituting a by-product of cattle feeding are produced at a cost much lower than pork can be raised in Canada. All United States hogs are not fed in this way but a large proportion of them have at least the advantage of cheap corn, than which, there is no better feed for producing fat hogs of the last type. Let the Canadian farmer go back to the thick, fat type of hog, as some talk of doing because they feel they have a grievance with the packer, and it will not be long before the price of Canadian bacon will have fallen to a level with the United States product which is usually from ten to fifteen shillings per hundred and twelve pounds lower than the quotations for Canadian "Wiltshire" sides.

It seems to be very generally supposed that pork is more cheaply and easily produced from hogs of the thick, short American breeds than from the three English breeds which are favored for bacon production. Why such a belief should be so general is difficult to understand as repeated tests conducted at various experiment stations have shown that hogs of the Yorkshire, Berkshire and Tamworth breeds produce pork as cheaply as those of the Poland China, the Chester White or Duroc Jersey breeds. In the opinion of Prof. Day of the Ontario Agricultural College, who is foremost among authorities on bacon production, the lusty, growthy pig of the bacon type is the most economical pork-maker we have, especially when reared, as bacon hogs should be, largely on such foods as roots, soiling crops and dairy offal.

There is much difference of opinion regarding the cost at which hogs fit for market can be produced, and there is probably as much difference between the cost to one feeder and the cost to another as between these opinions. Under general conditions the production costs in the neighborhood of five dollars per hundred pounds on an average. In summer under favorable conditions the cost may be somewhat lessened but in winter pork can hardly be produced at the figure mentioned. As in all other lines of production the cost will vary according to character of the animals fed and the amount of intelligence exercised by the feeder.

Taking one year with another the Canadian farmer on good land who understands crop growing and hog raising, can undoubtedly raise hogs as cheaply as the figures quoted, and probably for less. He will keep only such sows as produce large lustrous litters of the right type. He will grow such pasture and soiling crops as clover, alfalfa, rape, vetches, mangels, sugar beets and such coarse grains as yield the greatest number of pounds of hog feed per acre. In other words he will manage his operations in such a way that will return him the greatest return in hogs per acre of land, and in so doing will learn to reduce the cost of raising hogs of the best type to a minimum.

He Saw the Joke.

"One day," says an American, "I walked into a bookshop in the Strand and asked for 'Eve's Walks in London.' In America the book is sold in one thick volume. The clerk brought it in two. 'Oh, I said as I looked at them, 'you part your 'Hare' in the middle, do you?' 'I, sir?' he said, with a bewildered look. 'Oh, no, sir!' I saw he didn't see the joke, so I didn't explain, but bought the books and went away. A week later I went to the same shop. As soon as the clerk saw me he rushed from the back of the shop, laughing vociferously. 'Good!' he shouted. 'Capital! Part your 'Hare' in the middle! That's capital, sir, capital!'" —London Tit-Bits.

His Fear!

The child of three summers was very cranky, and while the father was trying to reason with him, the mother threatened to spank.

"That's right," said the father, "he needs a spanking."

"But, why don't you spank him," put in the brother-in-law.

"Well," said the father, "I don't like to spank the little fellow."

"But," insisted the brother-in-law, "it is a mistaken kindness. Did you ever hear the story of the boy who had a squirrel of which he was so fond that he even went to the trouble of cracking the nuts for him? After a while the squirrel's teeth became so soft that even to chew was a hardship."

"Yes, that's right," said the father, "what I'm afraid of is, that if I do the spanking, mother's hands will become too tender to spank with."

Drink destroys the drinker's self respect. Some of the best men in this world have been victims of alcohol. There have been more desperate struggles to reform made by drunkards than were ever made for any other purpose by men holding themselves above their less fortunate brothers. A drunkard struggles and strives, over and over to save himself—to save the self-respect that is slipping away from him.

But eventually self-respect is buried also in the graveyard of drink and principle.—Chicago Examiner.
