

IF YOU BUY HERE
YOU'RE SAFE!

Buy one of our Suits—put it on and pull it off 200 times—rub it against chairs—drag it over all sorts of things—soak it with rain—go to circuses, horse races and ball games in it—brush out the dust two or three hundred times with a whisk broom—then see what it looks like. It takes just such a severe test as this to prove the worth of our clothing.

In colors and effects that bear fashion's approval stamp, in styles that say 1906, with tailor shaped collars, lapels, fronts and shoulders, that make a man glad to survey himself in a glass.

Julius T. Garden.

Mr. Julius T. Garden died early Wednesday morning after an illness of Bright's disease extending over some months. He had consulted and been treated by physicians in Woodstock, Boston and New York and had returned only a few weeks from New York where he had undergone the electrical treatment, when the end came.

Mr. Garden was one of the founders of the firm of Garden Bros., one of the best known and most respectable business concerns in the province, chemists and wholesale and retail druggists. He was a member of the church of England and had held the highest offices in the parish open to laymen. He had been twice President of the Board of Trade and was a few years ago a member of the town council.

He was a most excellent business man eminently sane in all his thoughts and ideas and it was a question only of time until he would have been mayor of Woodstock. He was an ardent conservative in politics, but never so rabid as to make himself offensive to his fellow citizens who held views different from his own. He was always one of the foremost citizens of Woodstock, anxious for the welfare of his native town and able in many ways to advance its interests. He was a member of the Masonic order. He was at one time a Lieutenant in the 10th Field Battery and was a member of the first Woodstock Cricket Club.

He was a loving and devoted husband and father and a friend whom many men will miss with a keen sense of loss.

He leaves a widow who was Miss Agnes Newcombe of Andover, and two children, Miss Jean Garden and Harold Garden. He is survived by four brothers, James of Vancouver, Herbert of Montreal, Arthur F. and Henry of Woodstock and one sister, Mrs. R. W. Balloch of Centreville.

The funeral was held on Friday afternoon. The services were conducted by the Ven Archdeacon Neales and the Rev. H. Goring Alder. The pall bearers were J. T. Allen Dibblee, J. N. W. Winslow, C. L. S. Raymond and T. C. L. Ketchum. The floral offerings were many and beautiful.

The sincerest sympathy of the entire community is extended to the bereaved family in their loss.

THE SOLDIERS ARE HOME AGAIN.

The Tenth Field Battery Have a Full New Equipment.

The Tenth Field Battery, the Engineers and the 67th Regt. returned to Woodstock on Saturday from Camp Sussex after a very successful and pleasant 12 days instruction and exercise.

Major Good, commander of the Battery, is the first to use the new armoury, though it is by no means finished yet. He placed his four guns and four ammunition waggons in the Engineers' Waggon room, his harness on the floor of the harness room and the men's clothing on the floor of the recreation room up stairs. There will soon be racks for all the harness and clothing so they can be properly taken care of.

The Battery is equipped with four new breech loading 12 pounders and four new waggons that were made at Woolwich and were taken over by Major Good at Sussex this year. The guns which are equipped with the most modern telescopic sights, are of the same pattern as those used by the Carleton County contingent in South Africa, and so the major and his men were quite at home with them.

On the Range July 7th.

The Races.

The gentle rain on Monday night was just sufficient to lay the dust and give a perfect track for the circuit races that began yesterday afternoon. There are about 20 outside horses here taking part in the races. The attendance is fair. The classes to be pulled off this afternoon are the 2 35 and the Free-For-All.

The Summer School for Sunday School Workers.

The Summer School for Sunday School Workers which opened in St. Paul's church, Woodstock, on Sunday, July 1st and closed on Friday, July 6th, was in the mind of all who attended, a complete success. The programme was comprehensive and practical. Each and every part of the work done was of a very high order. Nothing was mediocre. The programme was carried out exactly as announced throughout the entire week, even to the minutest detail. The interest was well sustained to the end, in fact it grew as the work went on and it reached its climax only with the close. To any one in attendance it plainly was what it was announced to be, a school. It was not a display of oratory, though that indeed was not lacking. It was not a business convention; there was no business of any kind transacted. It was not a conference where popular lecturers came to deliver addresses upon Sunday school work. It resembled more a Normal school, where the speakers were first of all the teachers and where the hearers were first of all learners. The blackboard was used freely especially during the day sessions. It was the College Extension idea consistently and masterfully worked out.

The leading teachers of the school were Rev. Principal Falconer of the Presbyterian College, Halifax, N. S., and Mr. W. T. Kennedy, M. A., Principal of Halifax Academy. Dr. Falconer opened the school by preaching morning and evening in St. Paul's church, Woodstock, and in the afternoon at Richmond Corner, on Sunday July 1st. These discourses were attended by large audiences and are very highly spoken of.

Beginning on Monday evening Dr. Falconer gave a series of five evening addresses on "The Gospel and the Life of Christ." With a masterly touch he untold the character of Jesus, in simple eloquence he made us hear the Master's words, with fine steps he led into the deep things of God, until his audience felt perhaps as never before that they had been with Jesus. From the Baptism and the Temptation, pregnant as they were with issues that gave direction and content to the Saviour's ministry, he led his hearers through that ministry of teaching, of healing, of life-giving, through the sorrow the suffering of the cross, out into the victory of the risen life in an eternal kingdom. Jesus conception of the kingdom of heaven was far different to that current among the Jews. The temptation in the wilderness centered around the Messiahship. Jesus would deny himself the splendor of a kingdom of the Jews such as they sought for the kingdom of the Father established in the hearts of men, though it led the way of the cross. Those who would be members in His Kingdom must be responsive to a higher righteousness than the Pharisee, the righteousness of love. Not sacrifice, that was easy, but mercy, justice, love did Jesus demand. He did not early reveal His Messiahship. He would not mislead his people until they should better learn His spirit. His disciples must learn that messiahship means death. The Son of man is head of the kingdom of God but it must be ushered in by the travail of His soul. The Jewish hierarchy will have nothing to do with Him save to antagonize Him and finally to crucify Him. He sees His death approaching but it is to Him only the prelude to His reign in the deathless kingdom. He dares to claim the future for Himself. The Jewish nationality and the Jewish national religion must fall in ruins but that will only open the way for the expansion of a religion, not national but world wide in its outlook and conquest. The resurrection means the entrance of Jesus into that higher larger life, to live by His Spirit as an eternal presence with His people.

Mr. Kennedy is a teacher and his five addresses dealt with "The Teacher and his work." To have heard these addresses in their simplicity, their directness, their keen clear reasoning, was to have learned to teach. A summary here is impossible. He was an inspiration to the Sunday school teachers and any who were even interested in that for which the teachers stand. His teaching of the lesson on "The Duty of Forgiveness" was one of the finest features of the whole school.

Rev. Mr. Dickie of St. Stephen in his addresses on "Jesus and His Time" was clear, comprehensive, scholarly. He took his audience to the records and showed by one example and another, Jesus' attitude respectively to tradition, to social life, to the kingdom, and to modern life. Through it all the mastery, the spirituality, the freedom of Jesus were shown. The course was a most helpful one and showed splendid mastery of detail.

Rev. A. H. Foster of St. John traced the history of the early times recorded in the Old Testament from Genesis to Judges. He unearthed the fundamental ideas which underlay the literature and the history of persons and events. The religious interest was dominant in the literature. The Divine leading, the natural selection and rejection, of one person and another, the unfailing ultimate victory for righteousness, these were some of the ideas traced through all.

Rev. J.G.A. Colquhoun of Milltown gave a most practical and helpful address on The Supplemental Lessons. From his own experience and success he spoke of this as leading the way in the fundamental principles of religious education and as calculated to solve many of the problems of the average Sunday School teacher. Mr. S. H. McFarlane, the efficient superintendent of St. Paul's Sunday School, Fredericton, gave a most helpful illustrated talk on the use of the blackboard in the Sunday School while Mr. Robert Reid's address on organization and management could only have been delivered by one who has had successful experience in a large well organized, well managed school.

The attendance at all the sessions was large, the enrolment, though dependent upon a small constituency, was equal to the second best in the province while in interest and spirit prevailing throughout, the school in Woodstock stands in the very front rank of all the schools held in the Maritime Synod. Many from other churches shared in its benefits. To those of the other churches in Woodstock who co-operated with committees in charge, to the hotels and private boarding houses for special reduced rates as well as to the press at Woodstock and elsewhere for the valuable space given to announcements and reports much thanks is due and is here expressed.

County Court.

The Court Court opened at the court house yesterday. His Honor Judge Carleton presided. Following is the grand jury:—John Carpenter, Geo. Tedlie, Roy H. Dow, William Good, Ernest S. Kirkpatrick, William G. Kearney, William Hayden, Fraser Dalling, Frank Shea, Israel Churchill, Joseph Woolverton, Wallace W. Hay, Jeremiah J. Hale, Jos. Watson, William R. Snow, William Olmstead, William H. Everett, Jas. W. Astle, N. F. Thorne, Norman Loane, Howard Clark, Jas. McManus. The judge charged the jury briefly upon the criminal cases which are as follows;

The King vs. George Campbell, assault upon Hiram Schriver, jr. A. B. Connell, K. C., for defence.

The King vs. Chas. R. Shaw, assault upon Neil Douglas McKendrick with a club. F. B. Carvell for defence.

The King vs. Robert, Jonathan and John Shannon, assault upon Joseph Holmes by striking him with rocks. A. B. Connell, K. C., for defence.

Wm. M. Connell in each of the above cases.

On the civil docket are:—Lloyd vs. the Frost & Wood Co. for breach of warranty and deceit. T. J. Carter for plaintiff and W. W. Allen K. C. for the defendant.

L. E. Young vs. John D. Baird for money had and received. The plaintiff appears in person and Mr. Hartley appears for the defendant.

The Town Council.

There were two meetings of the town council last week, on Tuesday and Friday evenings. Coun. Leighton was the only absentee. There is a marked improvement in the department of the council since the Mayor has been able to resume his seat at the head of the table.

Mayor Munro asked the chairmen of committees to be careful and not spend more than their appropriation. Some of them had not much of a margin left.

The Fire Committee was instructed to fill in an old unused water tank on St. Gertrude Street and to ask for tenders for painting Engine Hose No. 2.

The street committee was given permission to earn an honest dollar for the town by doing asphaltting for private citizens.

It was decided to sell the gravel pit, 70x100 ft. on Charles street to William Steeves for $40.

At Friday evening's meeting permission was given the Power Company to erect poles wherever necessary under the direction of the Superintendent of Streets and to use the town poles subject to the approval the street Committee.

Tenders will be asked for laying 300 ft. of water pipe on Queen Street South.

Mr. Barbour has not yet submitted his report to the council.
