

Honey as Food.

Honey, which is described as "one of nature's best foods," is the subject of a report by the Ontario department of agriculture.

Excessive use of sugar brings in its train a long list of ills. When sugar is taken into the stomach it cannot be assimilated until first changed by digestion into grape sugar.

Moreover, the same report says that "in many cases it will be a real economy to lessen the butter bill by letting honey in part take its place.

Kidney Disease On the Increase

BUT PREVENTION AND CURE ARE READILY OBTAINED BY THE USE OF

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.

Recent reports of the New York Board of Health prove that the mortality from kidney disease is greatly on the increase.

Bright's disease as well as the other dreadfully painful forms of kidney disease can usually be prevented and cured by giving some attention to the diet and to the activity of the liver and kidneys.

Excesses in eating and the use of alcoholic drinks must be avoided, and the filtering organs can best be kept in good working order by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

The derangements which lead to Bright's disease usually have their beginning in a torpid liver and there is suffering from headaches, biliousness and indigestion before the kidneys fail and such symptoms appear as backache, scanty, highly colored urine, painful, scalding urination, deposits, etc.

MR. WM. McCRAE, Belledune River, N. B., writes:—"I was a sufferer from sore, lame back for over eight years and had tried most everything. When I received Dr. Chase's Almanac I was almost in despair but I read there about Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and began using them. They have proven of such value to me that I feel in duty bound to recommend them to others as the best treatment obtainable for backache and kidney disease."

MR. LUC DUGAS, Theriault, Gloucester County, N. B., writes:—"I am sixty-eight years of age and used to suffer a great deal with very severe pains in the back from deranged kidneys. Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have cured me and I have given a good many to friends who have also been much benefited by their use."

Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills succeed where ordinary kidney medicines fail, because of their direct and combined action on the liver and kidneys. This has been proven in thousands of cases of serious and complicated diseases of the kidneys. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Company, Toronto.

Religion No Excuse.

A certain theatrical manager of Chicago tells of an Irish policeman in that city possessing Dogberry-like traits.

On one occasion, at midnight, the custodian of the law overhauled a sleep-walker who was promenading a principal thoroughfare clad only in his night robes.

"Surely you are not going to lock me up?" "Surest thing you know!" airily responded the bluecoat.

Why, man, I can't be held responsible for the predicament you find me in! I am a somnambulist!"

"Sure, it makes no difference what church ye belong to," sharply returned the officer; ye can't parade the streets of Chicago in your nighty!"

All Harry's Fault.

"Anyhow," said the girl in the new spring hat with the trelliswork of roses on it, "it was Harry's own fault. He is always trying to do things that are funny, and expects us to go into ecstasies of mirth over them.

"I decided to have a Dutch luncheon, and every one was to come dressed as a Hollander. Nearly all of them came early but Harry, and we were all laughing at each other, when I heard some one on the front porch. When I opened the door I nearly died of laughing.

"He hung back, and acted as though he was ashamed of himself—and, really, I didn't blame him, for you know how proud Harry usually is of his appearance. I grabbed him and dragged him in, and shrieked for every one to come and look. They just went crazy over him, told him he was splendid, and asked where he got the costume, while they were turning him round till he must have been dizzy.

"He played the part pretty well, too, actually stammering some Dutch at us, and sending us off into fresh spasms. We all laughed so no one could have told what he was saying if any one had wanted to. Then he backed up against the wall and got mad and threw his arms round and knocked over a lamp. When he didn't stop acting after that, or seem sorry, we all stopped laughing and began to feel a little indignant. It seemed to be carrying the joke too far.

"Goodness knows what would have happened next, for he was breathing hard and glaring at us, when there was a fresh commotion in the hall, and who should walk in but Harry himself, in ordinary clothes, with nothing but a big Dutch cap to disguise him.

"Who are you, anyway? I demanded of the man against the wall.

"I had try to tell you, he said. 'I am the brudder of Lena, and I come to see her.'"

"Lena is our new maid. I led the man out into the kitchen, where Lena was. Then I hurried back to scold Harry. We all took it out on him, and he got real provoked about it—though I am sure he might have seen he was the one to blame, and ought to have been willing to apologize for it."

Farms to Furnish Fuel, Light and Power.

Secretary Wilson, U. S. Department of Agriculture, calls attention to the fuel problem which the country will soon have to face. Coal is a stored product, and must give out in time. The forests are disappearing. The same is true of mineral oils and natural gas.

There is little limit on the quantity of alcohol that may be produced from cornstarch, potatoes, sweet potatoes and yams, and from sugar beets. "Looking at the question from the geographical point of view," continues Mr. Wilson, "the northern States could depend upon the white potato, the southern States on the yam, and the western States on the sugar beet. The extensive irrigation projects now carried forward by the government will result in watering land that will produce sugar beets more profitably, perhaps, than any other crop. The molasses can readily be turned into alcohol."

Stalks of Indian corn, at the time when the grain is sufficiently ripe to be perfectly sound, contain a large quantity of starch. "If the stalks of corn could be utilized at that time for the manufacture of alcohol," Mr. Wilson adds, "they would produce a quantity which would be almost incredibly large. There would be approximately ten tons of stalks to the acre of corn, yielding 2,400 pounds of fermentable matter, or 170 gallons of commercial alcohol. This is on a basis of 50 bushels of corn to the acre. The average yield of corn is only about half that, but the heavier corn lands of the country that would be used for growing corn for alcohol, average easily 50 bushels to the acre. It is safe to say that the average amount of starch and sugar which goes to waste in the stalks of corn would annually make 100 gallons of commercial alcohol to the acre. When we consider the vast number of acres of corn in this country, approximately 100,000,000, it is seen that the quantity of alcohol that is lost in the stalks is so large as to be almost beyond the grasp of our conception."

"We raise potatoes," he adds, "for human food and for scarcely any other purpose. We plant the potatoes that has the finest flavor, independently of its yield per acre. When we are raising potatoes for alcohol, these considerations need not be regarded. The variety that would yield the greatest number of bushels would be planted. Where potatoes are used for food for cattle, as is the case in many foreign countries, varieties of this kind are planted, and there would be no difficulty whatever in doubling the 255 gallons per acre received from the present average yield of potatoes. So it would be within bounds to say that 500 gallons of alcohol can be had from an acre of potatoes."

An Honest Man

wrote and told us that Ozone had not cured him of stomach trouble. He did not say what kind of Ozone so we wrote and asked him if he was sure he had been taking Solution of Ozone, the kind that contains a coupon entitling the purchaser to one full sized 25 cent package of Celery King free of cost. He replied that he had unknowingly taken some other brand, and was sorry that he had treated us unjustly. Then he commenced to use Ozone (the coupon kind) with Celery King, he is a well man today. You can be cured just as easily if you are careful to ask your druggist for Ozone (the coupon kind) made by THE PUBLIC DRUG CO., BRIDGEBURG, ONT.

Our Chief End.

The older I grow, and now I stand on the brink of eternity, the more comes back to me the sentence in the catechism which I learned when a child, and fuller and deeper its meaning becomes: "What is the chief end of man?" "To glorify God and enjoy Him forever." And surely this is the beginning and end, the Alpha and Omega of that strange, indefinable thing which we call life. —Carlyle.

Some people think that they are philosophers because they can laugh at another man's misery. It takes faith in the depraved as well as in the divine to fashion this old world to the heavenly ideal.

"I had a strange dream the other night," said the major.

"What was it?" said the Young Thing.

"I went to heaven, and, as an old newspaperman, was interested in their journal up there. It was a miserable sheet; not a well written story in it, and I told St. Peter so."

"What did he say?"

"He said, 'It's not our fault. We never get any good reporters up here.'—Hustler's Magazine.
