JAMES G. McELMAN, chairman of the York county board of health, has returned from Middle Southampton, where he went to look into the outbreak of alleged smallpox at that place. He says the conditions existing there were what he considered quite serious. The cases of the disease which he saw are, he says, what appears to him to be a bad type of small pox. Mr. McElman says that he learned that cases of the disease have been prevalent there for several months past. At Campbell Settlement, one of the patients, L. B. Beattie, has a family of thirteen children, all of whom are under quarantine. There are four other houses at Campbell Settlement affected. Mr. McElman took all the necessary precautions and left Dr. Faulkins in charge.—F'ton cor. Telegraph.

A HANDSOME brass altar rail has been placed in Christ church, to the memory of George H., John D., Maria and Caroline Ketchum, Rev. W. Q. Ketchum and his wife Elizabeth, the memorial being the gift of Mrs. W. D. Forster of St. John. The rail proper is supported by four standards of brass, the whole forming a beautiful ornament, adding much to the beauty of the interior of the already beautiful little parish church. The work was executed by the Pritchard & Andrews Co. of Ottawa, and was put in place by G. N. A. Burnham of Upper Woodstock.

The following story comes from Bristol:—John Simpson, son of William Simpson, made an interesting find on Sunday morning on the shore near his father's place. It was a number of old silver coins—English shillings of the reign of George III. They were in good condition and the date 1819 and the inscription can be plainly seen, and though found near the surface of the bank they could not have been long exposed, as they were not rusted but only turned black. As there have been stories of money buried near this spot, considerable interest is taken in the find, and it is thought that a larger deposit may be brought to light.
