THE REV. W. B. WIGGINS.

joy, the rule of their conduct, their guide in difficulties, support in trials and their consolation in death.

III. For what does he commend them to God and the word of his grace. For their edification. "To build you up." God is to do it. Christ the foundation, saints the living stones, united to each other by love and each to God by faith. Here is true unity, also progress, the saints to grow in grace but not into grace.

2. For their glorification. "An inheritance," incorruptible, reserved in heaven. The possession of the Holy Spirit is the "seal" and "earnest" of it. It's social in its character. The saints here and beyond all one family. It's ample, a vast inheritance. Jesus told his disciples that in his Father's house were many mansions. It's perpetual, "never fades away," eternally permanent. Earth's treasures fleeting, heaven's treasures sure. We shall reign with Him for ever and ever.

IV. Who inherits it? The "sanctified." We must be holy to enter heaven as "without holiness no man shall see the Lord." There is one place where holiness will be popular, as there will be none but holiness people in heaven and we must be holy here, no chance nor change beyond this life. It is here that the blood of Christ is to cleanse us from all sin. Keep your banner at the mast head. Be faithful to God. Obtain and retain the Holy Spirit as your sanctifier and keeper and all will be well.

The foregoing is but a mere sketch of the address.

At the close of the sermon Dr. J. E. Jewett, treasurer of the mission society of the church gave an account of the money raised by the church during the past year for missionary work which amounted to the large sum of about $330. Mrs. J. E. Jewett, secretary of the mission society, read a condensed report of the society's work during the year and spoke of the deeper interest shown in missions.

The Pastor Mr. Wiggins then gave some account of his ministry and especially in town, during the ten years of labor here. He had added 112 to the church, and out of these 8 had died and 7 had received letters of dismissal to other Reformed Baptist churches. He might have done more, he was glad to have had a place among them as a co-worker and now would say Good-bye.

A Great Schoolmaster.

When Doctor Temple, afterward Archbishop of Canterbury, was head master at Rugby, writes one of his students in the memoirs of the archbishop, he relied but little upon punishment. It became the custom for the under teachers to sit with the dull and lazy boys, who had failed in their lessons, to hear them over again. Doctor Temple would try every other device before resorting to punishment.

Perhaps the most valuable lesson that the younger masters learned from him was to imitate that quality which more than any thing else endeared him to the school—the love of justice. It was not only that the tradition, which dated from the time of Doctor Arnold, was insisted on that a boy's word should be taken, but even when there was what to a young master seemed overwhelming proof of some wrong-doing, as, for example, documentary evidence of dishonesty, he would stay his colleague's hand if the boy implicated declared his innocence.

It was better, he would say, that many a wrong deed should slip through unpunished than that a single act of injustice should be done.

He insisted, too, on the fullest allowance for the possible stupidity which might have led to the result; no boy was to be punished because he had misunderstood.

It is small wonder that one of his boys, who had been exhorted at home not to be led astray from the true faith, wrote home:

"Dear Mother. Temple's all right; but if he turns Mohammedan, all the school will turn, too."

A School picnic will be held at River de Chute in the school grove, on June 29. All are invited.

First Landlady—"I manage to keep my boarders longer that you do."
 Second Landlady—"Oh, I don't know. You keep them so thin that they look longer than they really are."

KEEP CHILDREN WELL.

Stomach and bowel troubles kill thousands of little ones during the hot weather. Diarrhoea, dysentery and cholera infantum sometimes come without warning and if prompt aid is not at hand the child may be beyond aid in a few hours. If you want to keep your children hearty, rosy and full of life during the hot weather give them an occasional dose of Baby's Own Tablets. This medicine prevents illness and cures it when it comes unexpectedly. And the mother has the guarantee of a government analyst that this medicine is absolutely safe. Mrs. W. J. Munroe, Sinaluta, Sask., says—"For more than three years Baby's Own Tablets is the only medicine I have given my children, and I think the Tablets invaluable for stomach and bowel troubles." Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. Keep the Tablets in the house.
