A Grand Success.

Riverside Camp Meeting closed Sunday evening, fully two thousand people were present. There were no trains run Sunday, consequently a large number of horses and carriages filled all the available space about the grounds. The large tabernacle seating twelve hundred people was filled at all the services. Despite the postponement and the small-pox scare the meeting proved a grand success spiritually and financially. About 20 ministers took part in the services during the meetings.

Arabi Pasha.

(Pall Mail Gazette.)

In a little house up a by street of the Mohammedan quarter, old, friendless, broken, lives the man who might have ruled Egypt.

If you ask twenty people in Cairo today "Where is Arabi Pasha?" fifteen will tell you that he is dead, while the other five do not know. In fact, after the bombardment of Alexandria he was sent to exile for life in Ceylon, but was allowed some four years ago to return to his native city.

It was only after a week's hard ferreting that I discovered, through a native journalist, the whereabouts of the great man.

Even now, in his seventieth year, he is a big man; in his prime he must have been immense. White hair and beard, a broad, thoughtful forehead, surmounted by the Turkish tarboosh; kindly eyes, dulled a little by age, but lighting up wonderfully when he talks about things which interest him; a straight, powerful nose; a large mouth, which must once have been hard and cruel, now softened by adversity. Though the day is warm, he wears an over coat and he walks heavily on a massive ebony stick.

Foam and Schooner.

(From the Chicago News.)

The moon reflected on the breakers as they dashed against the dark rocks. "Oh, the foam!" cried the poetical girl, with rapture in her voice. "The oceans of foam! Where did you ever see so much foam before?"

The young man chuckled reminiscently. "In Milwaukee!" he whispered, gleefully. And the poetical girl refused to speak to him for an hour.

Prescription Judgment.

One peculiar and mistaken idea exists in regard to the filling of Prescriptions. Many people think Prescriptions must be taken to the store upon whose blank they are written. This is an error. You have a right to exercise your own judgment as to the druggist to fill it, as you had to choose the physician who wrote it. Any physician in this locality will be glad, we are sure, to have us fill the prescriptions he writes.
