How Eczema

Is Recognized.

HOW IT IS PROMPTLY RELIEVED AND THOROUGHLY CURED BY

Dr. Chase's Ointment.

There are many kinds of eczema, but all have such symptoms as redness of the skin, with a yellow tinge, heat and inflammation, swelling, discharge of watery matter and the formation of a crust.

The most constant and troublesome feature is the itching and burning which varies from that which is simply annoying to that which is positively unendurable.

Then there is the tendency for eczema to become chronic and spread to other parts of the body.

Persistent treatment is always necessary, but you can depend on it that Dr. Chase's Ointment will cure you. Relief will come after the first few applications, and the healing process will be gradual and natural.

It is due to its remarkable record in the cure of eczema that Dr. Chase's Ointment has become known the world over. For every form of itching skin disease or skin irritation it is of incalculable worth.

Mrs. ELLEN M. SAUNDERS, South Farmington, N. S., writes:—"After having given Dr. Chase's Ointment a thorough trial I am pleased to be able to pronounce it the most healing preparation ever offered to sufferers from skin disease. For years I was afflicted with erysipelas and can truly say that Dr. Chase's Ointment cured me after all other remedies failed."

Mrs. JOHN J. DELORY, Linwood, Antigonish Co., N. S., writes:—"I want to say that Dr. Chase's Ointment has proven a great blessing to me. I had salt rheum on one hand and could not get it healed up. The itching was most distressing at times. Two boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment has cured me completely and I gladly recommend it to every one."

Mothers use Dr. Chase's Ointment for the chafing and skin troubles of their babies in preference to unsanitary pore clogging powders; 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates & Company, Toronto.

Books That Helped Labor M. P.'S.

"How comes it that the Labor members of Parliament, who have had none of the social and educational advantages of the middle and upper classes, should nevertheless be capable of holding their own in fair field with the finest product of our universities?"

Mr. W. T. Stead answers the question in The Review of Reviews for June by a symposium on the books that have helped the Labor M. P.'s.

Mr. John Burns tells us that he began his library by buying Voltaire's "Charles the Twelfth" for a penny in the New-Cut, and from it he learnt the secret of physical endurance and indifference to cold. John Stuart Mill made him a Socialist by his failure to refute the arguments of the Socialists. Ruskin and Carlyle completed what Owen had begun, Adam Smith's "Wealth of Nations" he found buried in sand under the foundations of an old engine shop at Akassa on the west coast of Africa. To buy Mallock's "Is Life Worth Living?" he did without a pair of boots.

Mr. Keir Hardie says:—"I think my mother's songs made the strongest impression upon me, combined with the tales and romances of my grandmother, whose father had been out in the rising of 1745. She was a typical woman of that period, believing in ghosts, witches and warlocks, and also full of the traditional, historical lore of our country. The first book I remember reading was Wilson's "Tales of the Borders."

John Ward, the Navy M. P., says:—"When I was taught to read, the Bible was my chief source of inspiration. The first book that struck my imagination was Scott's "Ivanhoe," which I read when about twelve years of age. About this time I devoured—not read, that's too tame an expression—"Robinson Crusoe," and that book gave me all my spirit of adventure."

Nearly all the Labor members have replied to Mr. Stead's query as to what books they found most useful in their early days. They frequently assign special qualities to special books, but the following lists without these explanations are representative:—

Mr. T. Burt: Channing's Essays on Napoleon, Fenelon, and Milton; Todd's Students' Manual, autobiographies of Frederick Douglas and Benjamin Franklin.

Mr. John Burns: Voltaire's Charles XII., Adam Smith, J. S. Mill, Owen, Carlyle, Ruskin, Mallock's "Is Life Worth Living?"

Mr. John Ward: Bible, "Pilgrim's Progress," "Ivanhoe," "Robinson Crusoe."

Mr. F. W. Jowett: "Ivanhoe," "Past and Present," "Unto This Last," "Vanity Fair," "Les Miserables," "Wuthering Heights."

Mr. G. Nicholls: Bible, "Pilgrim's Progress," Fox's "Book of Martyrs," "Christian Age," etc.

Mr. Walsh: Shakespeare, "Pilgrim's Progress," Buckle's "History of Civilization," "Ingoldsby Legends," Dumas, Mark Twain, Carlyle, Cervantes, J. S. Mill, Hugo, Dickens.

The True Cause of the Massacre.

Gen. Trepoff's preposterous assertion that the Jews are responsible for the Russian massacres by provoking the Christians and "skillfully posing as martyrs," may reflect the policy of the re-actionaries, but it will naturally convince no one. Who ever heard of men willing to bring on massacres in which they are certain to be killed, their women dishonored, and their children butchered? Moreover, the Munich Jugend has just reprinted from a Russian Government organ an item which shows that Trepoff's theory is not original with him. It is entitled "A Conversation Overheard at Bialystok," and runs as follows:

First Jew—"I must say I am no longer happy in Russia; for three weeks there has been no massacre of Jews, and where is there such happiness to be found as being massacred?"

Second Jew—"How would it answer if we should kill the priest?"

First Jew—"That would not do. We must infuriate the Christians to the point of losing their senses. Think of the disappointment if after killing him we should not be massacred!"

Third Jew—"What if we should burn the church?"

Second Jew—"Even that would not be certain to cause our death."

First Jew—"But if we should throw a bomb into a procession?"

The Others—God bless you for this thought! What joy! I already feel my eyes being torn from my head. I see a bloodshed never before equalled. Heaven be praised that we can at last induce these miserable Christians to slaughter us."

The Russian newspaper, always hitherto a supporter of the Government, adds: "And so it came about. Our report of this conversation is more reliable since it was written by the agent of the government who himself threw the bomb into the procession."

A Southern woman tells about dining in Boston once, when next her sat a homely little old gentleman, who wanted to know how she passed the time in the country with her old father. "Well, we read," "What do you read?" "Chiefly 'The Autocrat of the Breakfast Table.'" "Don't you get tired of it?" "Oh no. When we get to the end, we simply turn back to the beginning." The old gentleman chuckled, and made a remark implying that the 'Autocrat' was no great thing among books, and the lady was rather surprised at his disparaging air. After dinner she demanded of her hostess the name of the unappreciative old gentleman and was told that it was Dr. Holmes.—Boston Transcript.

Took the Hint.

'Now,' said the fussy old gentleman, putting one of the biggest plums in his mouth and picking up another, 'what is the sense of having that notice read, "French plums for sale"? Don't you see that "French plums" would be enough? Don't you suppose that everybody knows they are for sale?'

'I dunno,' answered the grocer; 'some folks seem to think I'm giving them away.' And the old gentleman put back in the box the second plum he was taking.
