

The Demand For Cheap Help.

Daily more insistent grows the cry for Asiatic help in that white man's country, British Columbia. The salmon cannery memorializing the Dominion Fisheries Commission desire to draw their attention to the serious and baneful effects which the increased Chinese poll tax has had upon that Province. Two years ago the head tax on Chinese emigrants coming into Canada was raised to $500 from $100. Since that time practically no Chinese have come in to take the place of those who have died or returned home. The result has been that farmers, fruit-growers, householders, and every person needing Chinese helpers, but more especially the cannerymen, have found it impossible to procure the necessary hands, and consequently the rate of wages to Chinese laborers has increased threefold.

So much for the employers' side of the case. Miners and union men generally are antagonistic as ever; not only to Chinese but to Hindoos, who present the further difficulty of being British subjects. The country is on the horns of a dilemma. Without outside labor, industry suffers; with it, the principle of protection for native brain and sinew, which would appear to need it as much as manufactures, is struck a blow.—Monetary Times.

Piles Make Life Wretched.

BUT THERE IS QUICK RELIEF FROM ITCHING AND THOROUGH CURE IN

Dr. Chase's Ointment.

It may be truthfully stated that piles produce more excruciating pain, misery and wretchedness of feeling than any known disease. Life becomes a perfect burden during the attacks of itching, burning, stinging pains.

It is a great mistake to imagine that the effects of piles are local, for, as a matter of fact, they sap the vitality of mind and body and slowly but surely lead to the ruination of the health.

This is true of itching and protruding as well as of bleeding piles, which, because of the loss of blood, are more rapid in their disastrous effects.

Dr. Chase's Ointment brings almost instant relief from the itching, burning, stinging sensations of piles and is a positive and thorough cure for every form of this wretched, torturing and oftentimes stubborn disease. This has been proven in so many thousands of cases that there is no longer any room for doubt that Dr. Chase's Ointment is the most satisfactory treatment for piles that was ever discovered.

MR. JAMES HURLEY, Pockshaw, Gloucester County, N. B., writes:—"I cannot find words of praise to express my opinion of Dr. Chase's Ointment. For thirty years I was troubled with itching piles and tried all sorts of remedies none of which gave me more than temporary relief. What other treatments have failed to do Dr. Chase's Ointment has done. It has positively cured me of itching piles."

MR. J. McDONALD, McLean, Kent Co., N. B., writes:—"Less than two boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment cured me of itching piles. Anyone who has suffered from this wretched disease can imagine what this means. I am indeed grateful for this great remedy."

Frequently when doctors have failed to cure piles and the surgeon's knife has proven futile Dr. Chase's Ointment has effected thorough cure; 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanon, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Reforming the Baby.

A German nurse-girl declares that one of her charges, although it was a baby only eighteen months old, had some settled bad habits. In "Undistinguished Americans" the girl, who says that she has had great influence over children, describes her efforts to reform the young culprit.

"It won't go in the carriage," said the maid to me when I first took charge.

"It will with me," said I.

"It sleeps all day and cries all night," said the maid.

"It's been spoiled by having it's own way, that's the trouble," said I.

"So I put it in the carriage and took it out to Central Park, in a shady place down by the lake. The baby threw everything out of its carriage, even its coverlets and pillows, and tried to fall out itself, but it was tied in. It cried until it exhausted itself inventing new ways of screaming. It wanted me to carry it all the way home in my arms, which I was determined not to do.

"The first day that I had it in charge the baby did not get any sleep, and therefore it was good and tired when its proper bedtime came. The maid told me that it would not go to sleep without being rocked. I put it to bed and it did not wait for any rocking. It was so tired that it went right off to sleep.

"The mistress came in and said that I was a clever, good girl, and she was sure that I would get along finely with the baby; that all it needed was some one who 'understood and sympathized with it.'

"Next day I carried the baby out to the park again. It was in a dreadful temper, and when it was being dressed it beat the maid. It used to slap its mother and the maid in the face, but it never treated me in that manner. I would not allow it. I would hold up my finger and say, 'Ba-a-aby!' and it understood and would stop. It saw something in my eye that made it keep quiet.

"I should have made a good baby of it had it not been for the mother and the maid. When I wasn't on hand they spoiled it by giving it its own way. This made discipline impossible, and in the end the baby was too much for me. I was compelled to carry it about, to get up and walk with it in the night; and at last my health broke down and I actually had to go to the hospital."

Discrediting Witnesses.

"I don't see how we are going to get around that woman's testimony," said the first shyster lawyer.

"What's the matter?" asked his partner.

"I have reason to know that she'll tell a straightforward story that we'll find it hard to disprove."

"Then we'll have to attack her character," said the partner. "That always takes with a jury."

"But her character is excellent."

"Can't you discover anything shady in her past life?"

"Not a thing."

"Oh, well, perhaps it's better so. It excites and rattles a good woman more than it does a bad one, and that's what we want."

"But the judge!" protested the first shyster.

"Oh, hang the judge. We'll make no direct attacks—just do it by inference, you know, and they always permit that."

"But she can disprove any statement we make."

The partner looked disgusted.

"Statement!" "Statement!" he exclaimed.

"Who's going to make a statement? I guess you never practiced in the police courts, did you? There's no use giving her a chance to disprove anything. I'll cross-examine her and ask her if she didn't secure a divorce from a former husband in 1884. That'll make her mad and she'll begin an indignant denial."

"Then I'll tell her to answer 'Yes' or 'No,' and it will rattle her worse than ever. She'll finally answer 'No,' and I'll ask her if she's sure. When she gets excited over this I'll say: 'O, all right; all right. I was afraid it might have slipped your mind. Let it drop.' That will break her up worse than ever, but I'll drop the subject and ask her if it's true that she eloped with her father's coachman when she was 17 years old. That will settle her sure, and as I won't give her a chance to say more than 'Yes' or 'No,' the jury will be convinced that there is something wrong. Moreover, she'll be so excited and mad by this time that she'll be practically at our mercy and the force of her evidence broken."

"And her reputation ruined."

"But we'll win the case."

"Well, of course, that's what we're hired for."

They shook hands over the compact, and the shyster was afterwards quoted as saying in a political speech that the great fault with the judicial system of the country was the difficulty experienced in getting respectable woman to take the witness stand even in trivial cases. He couldn't account for it except on the theory that they hadn't that desire to see justice done that men had.—Chicago Tribune.

Sold to the Gypsies.

How a girl, 8 years old, was sold to a gypsy for two shillings was the tale told in Heath

Royal Household Flour

THE LOGILVIE FLOUR MILLS CO. LTD. MONTREAL.

Police Court when Albert Would, a boy of eleven, and his sister, Martha Ellen, were charged with stealing three hens from a pheasantry, and three ducks.

Gipsies like to acquire children who know how to steal, because if they are caught, the gipsy owners can say that they are not their children, but have been foisted upon them. Therefore Mrs. Rose Lovell, a gipsy woman, went to see George Albert Would, at Skewen, and the result of the negotiations was that fifty cents changed hands and the father wrote this letter:—

"I do give my child to Mrs. Rose Lovell in her care and to be answerable for her good, and I don't want to take her back again after she has been clothed and dressed, and I do sign my name never to take her back again, and she is to rite (sic) to me once a month to let me know how she is getting on. I have signed my hand this day, July 20, 1906, never to have her back again."

The culprits confessed their crime and it came out that the father sold his girl after the theft. The boy was ordered to a reformatory for five years and the girl to a home.

Fortune for an Inventor.

The housefly is mainly responsible, according to a Lancashire doctor, for an epidemic which is raging among the infant population of the cotton country. The trouble arises from the fact that the flies have access to the milk supply of the house. But the liability does not begin and end there; dairies expose their milk just as butchers expose their meat, confectioners their sugary wares, and the butterman his stock. The potter is responsible for the open-topped cream-jug now in use. He provides a cover for the poor man's cheese, but none for his butter or milk or sugar. The poor woman must have her table displayed according to set pattern, and it would be woefully unfashionable not to have an open cream-jug, even though flies do carry corruption and the germs of disease into its contents. There is a fortune for the man who will place on the market a cheap fly-proof jug, and gratitude as profound as that which sane creatures owe to the dress maker who first popularized short walking skirts.
