Long-Burpee.

Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock at the home of Thomas N. Burpee, No. 1 Alma street, St. John, his youngest daughter, Vera Belle, was united in marriage to Murray Walker Long, son of Councillor Long, of Lancaster. The nuptial knot was tied by Rev. George Howard, of Havelock, uncle of the bride. The bride looked charming in a costume of white silk eoline. She carried a bouquet of white roses and had as her attendant her little nephew, Paul Williams, of Woodstock.

The wedding gifts were numerous and among the number was a beautiful piece of cut glass from the choir of the Carleton Presbyterian church, of which the bride was the leading soloist for some time. The Carleton Cornet Band, of which the groom is a member, presented a fine chair. Mr. and Mrs. Long will reside with the groom's parents while their new home in Prince street, West End, is being made ready for them. Mr. and Mrs. Fenton, of the West End, sent to the happy couple a beautiful bouquet of chrysanthemums.—Telegraph. [The bride was for some years a resident of Woodstock, and is a sister of Mrs. Andrew Williams.

Anderson-Stitham.

A very pretty wedding was celebrated at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Stitham, Bath, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon when their third daughter Emma L. was united in marriage to Murray G. Anderson of Deerville. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. D. E. Brooks in the presence of about one hundred guests. A wedding dinner was served after the service. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful presents.

Everybody Wants "a Girl."

The demand for domestic servants in Woodstock was never greater than it is today. One hears on all sides of the scarcity of domestic labour, and not only does one hear it from women, but once in a while a man will let out a wail that his wife has no girl and can't get one.

Domestic servants are remarkably well treated in Woodstock and are paid from $2.00 to $3.00 a week.

A Difference of Spelling.

(From 'Harper's Weekly.')

In South Africa candles are used for lighting purposes in the homes, and when a young Boer maiden has gentlemen visitors, the mother sticks a pin in the candle, and when it has burned to the pin the callers understand that it is time for their departure.

Mrs. Early, a society matron of Washington, recently made a visit to the Transvaal, and was so impressed with the custom of the Boers that she determined to introduce it into her own home. Consequently the electric lights were removed, and candles substituted in the drawing-room.

Mr. Staylate, a frequent though not always welcome caller, was one of the first visitors to call after the inauguration of the new custom. He witnessed the placing of the pin in the candle by Mrs. Early, and after she had gone ventured to inquire:

"Why, Miss Early, does your mother stick a pin in the candle?"

"Oh, responded the young woman, with an air of apparent innocent, 'mother learned that in South Africa as a way of sending home the boers.'

ON Wednesday evening Mrs. J. T. Allan Dibblee entertained a large party of young people most delightfully at drive whist. She was assisted in receiving her guests by her daughters, Norah and Nan. Several hands of whist were played, after which prizes were presented to the winners. Miss Rose Dibblee won the ladies' first prize and H. D. Burns the gentlemen's. After supper, which was served about eleven thirty, the tables were removed and dancing filled in the balance of an enjoyable evening. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Burns, Mr. and Mrs. B. Bedell, Mr. and Mrs. N. R. Loane, Misses Connell, Dibblee, Smith, Neates, Jordan, Bourne, Tapley, Alexander, Newcombe, R. Dibblee, M. Dibblee, I. BRILLIANT SOCIAL EVENT.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Phillips At Home in the Opera House—One Hundred and Seventy Guests Presents.

The most important social event that has taken place in Woodstock for a long time was the At Home given in the Opera House on Monday evening by Mr. and Mrs. George E. Phillips.

The opera house looked as home like as it was possible to make it for the occasion, the stage being beautifully decorated with palms and potted plants. Mr. and Mrs. Phillips received at the door and the guests were ushered to seats by R. M. Watt, O. Townsend, W. Dalling and Reggie McLean.

The first feature of the entertainment was a series of readings from the poems of Dr. Drummond, rendered by J. B. Giles of Montreal. Mr. Giles has caught the spirit of the habitant with remarkable truthfulness and he interprets Dr. Drummond in a way that must give pleasure to the poet himself. Following is a list of the poems Mr. Giles read:

"Poleon Dore," "De Nice Leettle Canadienne," "Mon Choual Caston," "De Bell of St. Michel," "Wreck of the Julie Plante," "Johnnie Courteau," "Cure of Calumette," "Bateese de Lucky Man," "Marie Louise," "Leette Baptiste," "Meb-be," "Dieudonne."

After this programme the seats were moved to the sides of the room and luncheon was served, after which, a dance, with the host and hostess leading in the grand march.

Music was furnished by Davenport's Orchestra of Houlton, reinforced by some members of the 67th Regt. band.

Among those present were:—

Mr and Mrs Donald Munro, A Bailey, W B Belyea, R B Jones, Geo Gables, Geo L Holyoke, Allison B Connell, Geo Mitchell, W B Nicholson, Geo G Hare, Jas Hamilton, Jas Gibson, Geo W Gibson, T Baker, B B Manzer, E B Manzer, A D Holyoke, H D Burns, N Foster Thorne, William Dunbar, D W Newcomb, G Allan, A Beaton, H V Dalling, William Sutton, J Thibideau, J H Watt, Harry Watt, Jas Woolverton, J A Connell, John Farley, Albert Brewer, G Newnham, C P Bull, Claude Aughterton, C D Jordan, Norman Loane, Burnett Cluff, Robt Ross, Archdeacon and Mrs Neales, Dr and Mrs Sprague, Dr and Mrs Kierstead, Dr and Mrs Grant, Dr and Mrs M G McLean.

Seasoning Granite.

A New York newspaper has been indulging in another pipe dream. Here it is and we especially recommend it to those of our readers who are familiar with the granite industry.

"One of the real reasons for the delay in the erection of the Cathedral of St. John, the Divine, on Morningside Heights, New York, said a workman, busy chipping away at a huge granite block, "is the time required to season the stone."

There was a laugh at this. "Well," said he, "you don't need to believe it, but stone when it is first taken out of the quarry is unfit to go into a large building—a cathedral, especially—as is an oak log when the woodman first gets it to the ground. You see this yard piled full of stone? That has been there for several years, and we are adding to it all the time. When we consider the stone well seasoned we use it; not before. This cathedral is being built to stay."

Absent Minded White.

Willie is a nice boy; as nice a boy as there is in Woodstock, but he is just the least bit forgetful. Yesterday I asked him to go for the mail and after half an hour I found him standing on one foot just outside my office door. I asked him what the matter was and he seemed to come out of a trance and told me he had forgotten what he was to do. He had lifted his foot up to walk and forgotten to put it down again. One day last summer he opened his mouth to say something and forgot to close it again. A canary flew in and laid two eggs before Willie remembered to close his mouth. He is rather inattentive. Last July I asked him to order an extra piece of ice and he went and built a fire in the furnace. His appetite is good and he seems hearty in every way and if I stand over him with a club all the time I can sometimes get him to do some of the things I ask him. But I generally find it easier and quicker to do things for myself.

Don't Export Pulp Wood.

Sir William Van Horne believes this country is making a mistake in allowing the export to the United States of spruce and spruce pulp for paper manufacture. He pointed out at the annual meeting of the Laurentide Paper Company that a cord of pulpwood yields to all interest in Canada, the individual, the Government and the transportation companies, only six dollars. The same cord converted into ground wood pulp would yield $13; if made into sulphite pulp, $21; and if made into paper, at least $36. With these a priori facts Sir William makes the logical and eminently common-sense deduction that it would be to the interest of this country to have the spruce converted into paper at home. A small export duty on pulpwood and on pulp would force the American capitalists to establish mills in Canada. This is always economically desirable, and certainly it would be the result, for timber limits in the United States are getting scarcer every year. The Americans must come to this country for their pulp. Why should they not come here for their paper?

For a Training Stable.

L. R. Seeley has bought of L. K. Cary what is known as "the upper stable" at the Fort Fairfield trotting-park, the stable near the main entrance. He has let the job of leveling and underpinning it, newly flooring, generally repairing and painting, to Charles Morrell, who begins work at once. As soon as the stable receives its renovation it will be occupied by that experienced and successful horseman H. A. McCoy as a training-stable and should make an excellent one. It is a matter of intense satisfaction that this stable is in possession of so enthusiastic a horseman as Mr. Seeley, who has the interest and will, as well as the money, to put it into fine condition, and keep it a credit to the town and a great help to the Fort Fairfield track. It will be discovered before next season is over that the horse and racing interests of Fort Fairfield are a long way from going backward.—Fort Fairfield Review.

[Mr. Seeley is a Carleton County boy and generally gets down to our races with a fast horse.]

Dr. Goldwin Smith on Women's Suffrage.

A suffragette in England, storming a political meeting, shouted that she had in her the spirit of the French Revolution. She had that and more, for the French Revolution never started female suffrage. Her frenzy and that of another lady who, being indomitable in her interruption of a meeting, was passed out, screaming and struggling, over the heads of the crowd, are illustrations of the change which female suffrage might make in the character of women and in the feelings of man toward her, as well as of the peril which the State would run under the rule of irresponsible emotion. Protests are not wanting from cautious members of the sex itself against a change of its character which may entail a diminution of its privileges. As the responsibility for upholding the State and enforcing the law rests on man, in man must belong the authority. No inferiority on the part of woman is implied. Can it be doubted that a gentle wife and mother is a higher being than the termagant who is carried out kicking and screaming over the heads of a public meeting? The law, made by man, is already, in regard to property and generally, not only just, but partial to women.

If the example of New Zealand is quoted, the answer is that in New Zealand the wildest experiments may be made at present with impunity. Let the perils of the nation and the responsibilities of government become in the case of New Zealand what they are in the case of England; New Zealand will then know what it is to be swayed by irresponsible emotion.
