

NEWS FROM THE COUNTY.

WOODSTOCK, N. B., AUGUST 22, 1906.

Bath.

A very serious runaway occurred here on Saturday evening when Mr. Neil Gormley was thrown from his carriage near Gilbert Giberson's livery stable and was taken up for dead, but after being conveyed to the doctor's office he after some time recovered consciousness.

The excessively dry weather is having a very serious effect on the crops. Potatoes are not turning out as well as was expected and the crop is likely to be a light one.

The school house at DeMerchant Settlement was visited last Friday when school was in session by two well known residents of that place. It is said that they were intoxicated and conducted themselves in such a manner that the teacher and pupils had to leave the building. The offenders are now under arrest.

Mrs. J. R. H. Simms and daughters Ethel and Dora are visiting friends at Plaster Rock. Mrs. Simms was a former teacher in the school here.

Mr. Seth Milberry, of New York, wife and son who have been spending a few weeks here with their uncle Amos F. Giberson and other relatives left for their home on Saturday last.

One of the great needs at the C. P. Railway station here is a ladies waiting room. Although the company have very tastefully had the present quarters newly painted yet this does not compensate for the cramped room for passengers in waiting for trains. To see the present waiting room full to overflowing is a common and daily occurrence, and in the winter season it is still worse.

Rev. L. A. Fenwick made a canoeing trip from Grand Falls to this place recently and that without injury to his fine new canoe, which at this low water and the many rapids was very skillfully done.

Richmond.

Centreville.

Horace G. Perry and John Page (teachers) of Fredericton, N. B., were in the village on Sunday.

Rev. Mr. Bonnell of Caribou, Me., is visiting his father, Rev. Allen Bonnell, of Tracy Mills.

Rev. B. S. Freeman will leave here about the first of September for a few weeks vacation.

The weather is intensely hot and is ripening the crops very fast; the harvesting has already begun.

Notices are being posted calling for tenders for digging a well on the exhibition grounds.

The picnic on Saturday of the Baptist and Methodist Sunday schools was held on the exhibition grounds and was very much enjoyed by all presents. A large number of them found it a very pleasing pastime to watch a game of Base Ball between the Centreville and Bloomfield clubs. The game proved very interesting and resulted in a victory for the Centreville Club.

Mrs. William Joplin has returned to Lawrence.

George Johnson, collector of taxes, from Debec was in this place recently.

Rev. Mr. Harrison, Methodist clergyman, held services in the Orange hall August 19th. They were very largely attended.

Rev. A. W. Teed held services in the Episcopal church on Sabbath morning. The Orangemen attended the service in a body and walked in procession from the Orange hall to the church.

Mary Edgar is visiting friends at Knowlesville.

Edna Hoyt teacher in Maxwell is very much liked by parents and pupils she spent Saturday and Sunday at her home McKenzie Corner.

Grover Flemming our mail driver gives excellent satisfaction at present he is right on time and is very obliging he has some good trotting stock which accounts for him making good time perhaps.

Doubtful.

"Ain't you rather young to be left in charge of a drug store?"

"Perhaps so, ma'am; what can I do for you?"

"Do your employers know it's dangerous to leave a mere boy like you in charge of such a place?"

"I am competent to serve you, madam, if you will state your wants."

"Don't they know you might poison some one?"

"There is no danger of that, madam; what can I do for you?"

"I think I had better go to the store down the street."

"I can serve you just as well as they can, and as cheaply."

"Well, you may give me a two-cent stamp, but it don't look right."—Houston Post.

A Tar Heel John Burroughs.

"I like to watch the little squirrel run and play," said a Charlotte man.

"Do you really study him and his ways?" asked a local John Burroughs.

"I think I observe him closely."

"Does the squirrel come down a tree head-foremost or as the cat does?"

"Let me see! The cat backs down—yes, that is the way the squirrel does. He is very much like a cat."

About that time a squirrel ran down a large oak in full view of the gentlemen. His hind legs were sticking close to the tree on a line with his bushy tail. His head came first.—[Charlotte Observer.

Many explanation have been advanced for non-church-going, but it is impossible to point to any one thing as being mainly, or even largely, responsible. Some people, not excluding clergymen, believe that not infrequently the fault lies in the pulpit. Are our preachers dull? Probably none of his friends and admirers would accuse one Dr. Horton, an English clergyman of some fame, of that failing; but he has just made a compact with the young people of his congregation that for three months he will keep his sermons within the limit of thirty minutes. He did so because he heard that some of them found his sermons too long, and were inclined to stay away in consequence. No doubt Dr. Horton is justified in complaining that congregations often entirely fail to realize the position of the preacher, who has to deliver what he conceives to be his message, although sometimes it may be unpalatable or tedious to his hearers. People ought not to go to church expecting to be entertained. Yet there is doubtless truth in the saying that "Dulness is the worst heresy." According to another English parson, Rev. J. Morgan Gibbon, dulness in the pulpit is an enemy of the cross of Christ. The great problem of the ministry is not how to turn out sermons, but how to keep up to the pitch. There is, says Mr. Gibbon, the danger of a pulpit manner, of a pulpit piety. A simple, sincere sermon is better and more effective than any "eloquent, wind-blown oration uttered for man's own glory." The great danger of the Congregational ministry, in his opinion, is that of "not landing the fish." Other sections of the church are probably open to criticism, but Mr. Gibbon is surely a little hard on the preacher, who, after all, is human. And if eloquence is to be banished from the pulpit, is it quite clear that dulness will be banished also?

Frederic Mistral, the poet who has revived Provençal as a literary language, is preparing his tomb. It is to be a copy of the well known "Pavillon de la Reine Jeanne," at Baux. The care taken by the Provençal poet to make it beautiful will be remembered for generations among the neighboring peasantry. "It is, after all, the tomb that is the house we live longest in; we must have it beautiful." Mistral said the other day when somebody twitted him about his hobby. And he does the work himself, with no mean skill, refusing all aid. But, at the same time, busy as he is with his tomb, he still finds leisure to write. He has just finished his memoirs, and they will be published in a few days.
