Five Dollars' Worth.

(John Phillips Sousa.)

A Washingtonian was hauled before a magistrate for committing a nuisance.

The Washingtonian had committed no nuisance, but, nevertheless, the decision went against him, and he was naturally incensed. Forgetting himself, he told the magistrate what he thought of him, and was fined $5 for contempt.

He produced a $10 bill to pay the fine with. The clerk took it, searched his drawer, then made as if to hand the bill back again. "I have no change," he said.

"Oh, never mind about the change," snorted my friend. "Keep it. I'll take it out in contempt."

The Awakening of Asia.

(Montreal Gazette.)

A national assembly is now promised in Persia. Its purpose as set out in the announcement is to extend tranquility, advance the welfare of the people and fortify the government. The Shah has been travelling in Europe and seems to have learned something. It is hard, in view of what has happened in Turkey and Russia, to say what will be the outcome of this experiment. As those at the head of affairs have the sense to make it while things are quiet they may also have the strength to carry it through to a quiet success. Japan's doings have heightened the world's belief in the power of Asiatics to do things.

An admirable act of corporate courage and business conscience has come to light in England. The terrible railway wreck at Salisbury, in which so many people were killed, is still fresh in memory. At the official enquiry into the cause of the accident, officers and employees of the company came forward and testified in the frankest possible way, without regard as to whether their testimony would hurt the company or not; and before a verdict had been rendered, indeed, before the enquiry had been completed, the directors of the company issued a formal statement that they "took full responsibility for the accident and for all the legal consequences of it."

Prescription Judgment.

One peculiar and mistaken idea exists in regard to the filling of Prescriptions. Many people think Prescriptions must be taken to the store upon whose blank they are written. This is an error. You have a right to exercise your own judgment as to the druggist to fill it, as you had to choose the physician who wrote it. Any physician in this locality will be glad, we are sure, to have us fill the prescriptions he writes.
