Boarding-House Euclid.

The following definitions and postulates, among others, were posted on the door of the waiting room at Lamlash Pier, Arran:

DEFINITIONS.

1. All boarding houses are the same boarding houses.
2. A single room is that which has no parts and no magnitude.
3. The landlady of the boarding-house is a parallelogram; that is, an oblong, angular figure, which cannot be described, but is equal to anything.

POSTULATES.

1. A pie may be produced any number of times.
2. The landlady may be reduced to her lowest terms by a series of propositions.
3. The clothes of a boarding-house bed stretched ever so far both ways, will not meet.
4. Any two meals in a boarding house are together less than one square meal.
5. On the same bill and on the same side of it there should not be more than two charges for the same thing.

The captain and crew of the Hamburg steamer Uarda had the uncoveted privilege of experiencing both the San Francisco and the Valparaiso earthquake. On April 18, about five in the morning, as the ship was approaching the Golden Gate, it was suddenly shaken violently. The captain immediately ordered the engines reversed, but the ship continued to quiver. While everyone was wondering what the ship had run against, the pilot came on board and told of the great earthquake. Soon the clouds of smoke also spoke of the fires raging in the doomed city. The next day fugitives began to come on board, and during the following ten days about 150 persons were daily fed. Then the steamer started homeward. On August 18th she was anchored in the harbor of Valparaiso. It was after supper and the captain lay on his sofa reading, when, suddenly, the ship was shaken so violently that the captain was tossed up, and glasses fell from the cupboards to be shattered on the floor. The first officer was heard shouting "Earthquake! another earthquake!" The ship continued to move up and down so violently that no one could stand. Then there was a pause, followed by other sea quakes. Looking forward, a terrible sight presented itself. The city was in ruins, and the cries of the people mingled with the dismal howling of the dogs, lent additional terror to the sight of the city burning in twenty places at once.

Perhaps.

Mr. Emerson's announcement that there will be no more deficits on the Intercolonial Railway is good news for the public which has grown weary of footing deficits while nearly every other railway on the American continent is making its shareholders wealthy. Mr. Emerson means, of course, that the railway is paying its own way in every regard, and that expenditures on capital account will be handled in the customary railroad way when the net income is being arrived at. In the past some items which have been charged to capital account and excluded from current expenditure have been such as to make the private business man rub his eyes.—Money Times.

Spending Too Fast.

In an address before the Canadian Club on Monday J. M. Courtney, C. M. G., ex-deputy finance minister, said Canada was spending money too fast and the country needed warning. It was all right in the time of expansion to be a little more generous with the national funds, but the thing could be carried too far. We should follow Gladstone's advice and try to save a little out of our abundant income. There were large maturing liabilities of loans made twenty or thirty years ago and it will require all the wisdom of the government to provide for the future and preserve our high credit. These things are worthy of earnest consideration.

To rid the pantry or cupboard of annoying red ants cinnamon should be used. This spice will kill those insects which have already gathered in the house, and the little pests will not cross a line which has been defined by ground cinnamon.

Mrs. John S. Leighton is so ill as to be confined to the house.

A Baseball Yarn.

Bill Bradley, of Cleveland contributes a story of how five men scored on a home run hit. "Did you ever hear of the game at Auburn, N. Y., in which five runs were scored on one hit?" asks Bill.

"No? Well, sir, it happened all right, although, of course, a regular umpire might have found fault with the way it was accomplished.

"There were three men on bases and one out when I came up to bat. I swung hard at one, straight over, and the ball went chug into the pitcher's box for what I thought would be the usual pitcher-to-catcher-and-catcher-to-first double play.

"But there was no double play this time. As I legged it to first the man following me at bat sprang into the batter's box. The pitcher grabbed the ball and hurled it to the plate to get the man coming in from third.

"Smash!
"The batter met the ball fairly, sent it far over center field fence, and all five of us capered over the plate and all the five runs were allowed.

"I'll bet a little money that this was the only time a four-base hit scored five runs."

"Grandma, did you like that gumdrop?" "Yes, I liked it very much, dear." "Well, Towser didn't. He spit it out twice."
