NEWS FROM THE COUNTY.

WOODSTOCK, N. B., FEB. 27, 1907.

Kirkland.

The roads are not very good at present. James Leslie Kennedy had the snow plow put on the road the other day. Four span of horses were hooked to it and scraped the roads over some.

David Kennedy died about six o'clock in the morning, February 21st, of heart failure, aged about 80 years. He was only confined to his bed one day. He leaves one son, James Leslie, and three daughters, Mrs. Annie Blue, Mrs. John Campbell, of Littleton, and Lavina living at home, some grandchildren, two brothers, Samuel, who is in British Columbia, and John, of Maxwell Settlement, and two sisters, Mrs. Guy and Mrs. Henderson. He was an elder of the Presbyterian church for a large number of years. He served as trustee of the public school for many years. In politics he was a conservative. His ways were pleasant, he was very thoughtful of the poor and needy, his house was a home for the ministers. We shall miss his smiling face among us.

Charles Nicholson lies at the residence of A. J. Slater, Monument Settlement, very ill of slow fever. Dr. Ebbett from Hodgdon has been to see him several times.

Mrs. Leonard Gould, of North Lake, is very sick. Two doctors have been to see her. David Gidney has been very ill with an abscess. He was stopping at the Karnes' house in Woodstock. The last we heard from him he was some better.

Jabez Snow is very ill at his home. Mr. and Mrs. James Maguire received word of the death of their son-in-law, James Laurie, of Marysville. He was operated on for appendicitis and only lived two days.

Mr. and Mrs. David Dykeman and family have all been very ill but are some better.

Hawkshaw.

Noticing the record of 38,600 sawed by the Lakeville crew, in your last issue, I take this opportunity to say while that may be good, it is badly beaten by our Poquicoek boys, who have a record of 52,000, for one day, and a 250,000 for one week. Messrs. Gilman Bros. and Burden gave each man an extra dollar for the week's work to show their appreciation, and I must add the men did not try for a record until the last day of the week.

Our Temperance Lodge is getting along famously, new members are being added at every session. Miss Ebbett, our popular teacher, has organized a similar one in the school and should have the support of every parent in such a good cause. All of this without the aid of our friend Tennyson Smith.

Louis Heustis is confined to the house with a cold.

Lora Manuel, who had to postpone his studies at the Fredericton Business College and come home on account of sickness, is greatly improved and was able to be present at the concert in the hall given by Mr. Wetmore's Minstrels last Wednesday night, which was a great success. Listerville.

Perhaps you would like to hear again from Listerville. In the first place I would say that a few weeks ago I noticed a piece in the paper about it being uncertain what was the right name of this place for it had so many names, but that is a mistake as it is only called Listerville now. River de Chute is in along the river three miles from us. Upper Knoxford is two miles below us and Mars Hill in Maine seven miles away.

Mr. and Mrs. Ritchie Barker, of Maplehurst, spent Wednesday in Listerville.

Miss Lillian Stewart gave a very enjoyable snowshoe tramp on Monday evening, 18th inst. The party left her home at 8.30 p. m. and after a two hours tramp returned and partook of a delicious hot supper. Mrs. Stewart was assisted in serving by Mr. and Mrs. MacClary, Misses Esure Stewart, Bessie Kilburn and Alan Fullerton. Games and music were then kept up until a late hour, when the party broke up, after giving three rousing cheers for Miss Stewart. The Swettenham Incident.

In referring again to the Swettenham incident, the Montreal Witness, the only daily paper in Canada that took a sane view of the matter says: "We have no fear of Governor Swettenham being humiliated. The British Government has promised that the circumstances shall be enquired into and made known. We presume it will then appear that if the Governor was testy, the invading party was unpardonably saucy. It is hard to blame a great power like Britain for turning the other cheek rather than cause a quarrel over an insignificant piece of offensiveness, even though that offensiveness has been reverberating round the press of the United States ever since, with here and there an intelligent exception, and even though the big drum of the orchestra was played by President Roosevelt himself. The magnificent forgiveness of the newspapers for what they call the insult to their country was to be expected, for unfortunately the average newspaper cares little for facts as long as it has the applause of its own audience. But he looked for more dignity on the part of the man who speaks for the nation than that he should have gone out of his way to compliment Admiral Davis for his unmannerly and aggressive conduct in practically taking armed possession of Kingston in the holy name of charity. The Canadian press has puzzled us more. One would have thought that it also imagined its audience to be boiling over with pride over an act of national dash. We can only account for its attitude on the ground that as we get all our news through the United States, so we get our ideas thence also.

A Rainy Day.

(L. H. Bailey in the March Century.)

The soft, gray rain comes slowly down, Settling the mists on marshes brown, Narrowing the world on wood and hill, Drifting the fog down vale and rill. The weed-stalks bead with pearly drops, The grasses hang their misty tops, The clean leaves drip with tiny spheres, And fence rails run with pleasant tears.

Away with care! I walk today In meadows wet and forests gray; Neath heavy trees and branches low; Past shining reeds, in knee-deep tarns; By soaking crops and black, wet barns; On mossy stones, in dripping nooks; Up rainy pools and brimming brooks, With waterfalls and cascading rills Fed by the new-born glassy rills; And then return across the lots Through all the soft and watery spots.

Away with care! I walk today In meadows wet and forest gray.

Once a Scotsman was visiting New York, and coming across a statue of Washington stood gazing at it.

Just then a Yankee came up and said to Sandy: "There's a good man. A lie never passed his lips."

"No," said the Scotsman. "I suppose he talked through his nose, like the rest of you."

Brood Mares for Farmers.

Have good breeding in your mares, says Successful Farming. A large colt matures early and costs no more to raise than a common one. Keep the best mare colts for breeding. The draft colt can be bred with less risk and liability to accident on account of her quieter disposition than those of the lighter classes. Then again blemishes on a large draft horse do not detract so seriously from the price when sold as in the case of smaller horses. The farmer who breeds light horses must call upon other horses to do his work before foaling time, while the heavy mare will feed and well cared for can do a reasonable amount of work during the period of lactation, and at the same time supply a sufficient amount of nourishment to the offspring. With the draft colt, less effort is required to train him for team work. His training when a two-year-old can be done on the farm, and the farmer who raises him can bring him up to his full market value.

The best and freshest of seeds are always the most economical. With clover seed, far too many of our farmers prefer to buy clover seed at 8c. per lb., rather than to give 14c. when the latter is in reality much the cheapest. In a test made with third quality clover seed only 10 per cent of it grew and gave weak plants, while with the first quality over 75 per cent of it grew and produced strong vigorous plants that could withstand summer drought and by reason of their strong rooting and thrift wintered well.
