Cats.

A cat may pur and pur and be a villain. Once let the cuisine fall below the proper mark, and off goes the ungrateful but shrewd animal to stop with friends who will look after him better. That is the keynote of the feline character, shrewdness. It is the human traits in their characters which make men call cats selfish. The motto of the cat is "Business is business." If a man takes this as his motto and acts up to it, we call him a successful man, and we allow him to write absurd essays on "Hints to Young Lads," and so on, in our papers. But we do not honor the cat.—London Express.

MAN-A-LIN is An Excellent Remedy for Constipation.

There are many ailments directly dependent upon constipation, such as biliousness, discolored and pimpled skin, inactive liver, dyspepsia, over-worked kidneys and headache.

Remove constipation and all of these ailments disappear.

MAN-A-LIN can be relied upon to produce a gentle action of the bowels, making pills and drastic cathartics entirely unnecessary.

A dose or two of Man-a-lin is advisable in slight febrile attacks, la grippe, colds and influenza.

A Steady Trade.

There were only three houses in the little hamlet on Cape Cod, but an orator from a near-by summer colony was minded to rouse the civic conscience by declaring that trade was the beginning of wisdom. "And," said he, "I assure you that it is not capital half so much as it is initiative that is needed in a place like this."

The three citizens spat collectively and simultaneously, looking straight ahead.

"That kind o' reminds me," drawled one, without shifting his gaze, "'o' Harve Upham an' Dan Winsor, down the beach a ways.

"Harve had a shanty an' Dan had a shanty, an' they both had some plug tobacco. One day Harve went to Dan's and bought ten cents' wuth o' tobacco, an' the next day Dan went to Harve an' bought ten cents' wuth of tobacco off him.

"They continued these sales sev'ral days," concluded the speaker. "They both got all the tobacco they wanted, an' Harve finally retired on the dime."

Eva—Have you decided to accept the young man, Katharine? Katharine—No. At present I look upon him merely as a pack of cards. Eva—A pack of cards? Katharine—Yes. If he has the long green I shall make a deal. Eva—And if he has not? Katharine—Then I shall cut him.

An Attractive Booklet.

We have just received, with the compliments of the local dealers, J. McLaughlan Co. Ltd, a booklet showing this season's styles of the well-know "Progress Brand Clothing."

We want to congratulate The McLaughlan Co. and the makers of Progress Brand on having produced one of the most attractive and convincing booklets we have seen.

The front cover shows a riding scene, admirably printed in colors, the back cover the firm's familiar "Climbing the Ladder" trade mark. The illustrations in the booklet are particularly good. There is nothing of the fashion-plate stiffness about them. They show the different styles of suits and overcoats, from the gentleman's full dress to the small boy's sailor, clearly and to good advantage, and at the same time the figures are full of life and action.

The clothing certainly looks good, and the straight, simple neatly-printed talk, concluding with the Progress Guarantee, is strong and convincing.

One feature that in itself makes the booklet well worth getting and keeping is the Dress Chart at the back, which gives every detail of Gentlemen's correct formal evening dress, informal dress, day dress and business dress. We understand Messrs McLaughlan Co. have a supply of the booklets and will be glad to distribute or mail them free as long as they last.

Had He That.

On one occasion in an English court a prisoner was brought in for sentence who had been convicted of being a common gambler. He appeared in a loud checked yellow and black suit, with red necktie and a large paste diamond horseshoe pin. The judge from under his beetling brows looked fiercely down upon him from the bench and remarked with intense scorn, "I sentence you to pay a fine of $50"—

"That's all right, judge," interrupted the gambler nonchalantly thrusting his hand into his trousers; "got it in my pants pocket."

"—and to three years and six months in state prison," continued his honor, with a slight twinkle in his eye. "Have you got that in your pants pocket?"—Bellman.
