It is important that persons placing FIRE INSURANCE
should select strong and reliable companies. This being the case it would be impossible perhaps to find four stronger and more reliable companies represented in Carleton County in one office than the following companies for whom the undersigned is agent, namely:
CALEDONIAN, the Oldest Scottish Fire Office NORWICH UNION, Established in 1797.
ATLAS, Founded in the reign of King George III and the QUEEN.
I shall be pleased to see intending insurers.

diseases of the air passages in children.
It is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take. It is guaranteed to cure or your money is returned. The price is 25c. per bottle,

CLEAR THE WAY.
(Algeron Charles Swinburne.)

Swinburne has always been an uncompromising radical. This poem is his indictment of the House of Lords: Clear the way, my lords and lacquers! You have had your day.
Here you have your answer—England's yea against your nay; Long enough your house has held up; up, and
clear the way!

Lust and falsehood, craft and traffic, precedent and gold,
Tongue of courtier, kiss of harlot, promise bought and sold,
Gave you heritage of empire over thralls of old Now that all these things are rotten, all their gold is rust.
Quenched the pride they live by, 'dead the faith and cold the lust, Shall their heritage not also turn again to dust?

By the grace of these, what England says her lords unsay;
Till at last her cry goes forth against them—Clear the way!

By the grace of trust in treason knaves have lived and lied;
By the force of fear and folly fools have fed their pride;
By the strength of cloth and custom reason stands defied.

Lest perchance your reckoning on some latter day be worse,
Halt and hearken, lords of land and princes of the purse, Ere the tide be full that comes with blessing and with curse.

Where we stand, as where we sit, scarce falls a sprinkling spray;
But the wind that swells the wave that follows none shall stay; Spread no more of sail for shipwreck; out and
clear the way!

Does Coffee disagree with you? Probably it does! Then try Dr. Shoop's Health Coffee.
"Health Coffee" is a clever combination of parched cereals and nuts. Not a grain of real Coffee, remember, in Dr. Shoop's Health Coffee, yet its flavor and taste matches closely old Java and Mocha Coffee. If your stomach, heart, or kidneys can't stand Coffee drinking, try Health Coffee. It is wholesome, nourishing and satisfying. It's safe even for the youngest child. Sold by All Dealers.

Delightfully Offensive.

Dave J. was a well-known conductor on a Southern railroad in years gone by. Many recall his portly form, infinite good humor and abounding jests.

On one occasion Dave was giving vent to his dislike of the ways of a certain official.
He expressed himself as follows: "Fellers, I do think the old colonel has more fascinating ways of making a man hate him than any man I ever knew of."

The Lady Cow.

Marjorie was on a visit to her grandparents on the farm, and her enjoyment of country life was somewhat marred by the apprehension of being horned by the cows.
One day her mother asked her to run to the barn and call grandpa to dinner. She started, but spying a cow in the lot, one of the mooley kind, ran back crying, "Oh, mamma, there's a cow out there!"

After a glance out of the window at the meek looking bovine, her mother said:

"Why, Marjorie, that's a mooley cow. She can't harm you, for she hasn't any horns."

"But, mamma," exclaimed the child, "she might butt me with her pompadour!"— nia or Bronchitis. Preventives are little toothsome candy cold cure tablets selling in 5 cent and 25 sneeze, try Preventives. They will surely check the cold, and please you. Sold by All Dealers.

Mourn His Death.

A Scot, who had been a long time in the colonies, paid a visit to his "native glen," and, meeting an old schoolfellow, the two sat down to chat about old times and acquaintances.

In the course of the conversation the stranger happened to ask about a certain Gordie McKay.

"He's dead long ago," said his friend,
"and I'll never cease regrettin' him as long as I live."

"Dear me! Had you such respect for him as that?"

"Na, na! It wasna only respect I had for himself, but I married his widow."

Where is He.

The other day a seventeen-year-old-boy was found dead in a room of a rear tenement in New York City. He was dressed in a flannel shirt, high boots, corduroy clothes, gauntlets and a broad-brimmed sombrero; and round his waist was a cartridge-belt with a chain for a revolver. A bullet had entered his forehead.

The person arrested for the shooting was a boy of fifteen, who with a companion of his own age, was known to frequent the room.
He, too, wore cowboy clothes and carried a revolver. In the room the police found a pile of dime novels and plenty of cigarettes and playing-cards.

When the fifteen year-old-boy was arrested his mother appeared, and declared that her boy had never been a bad boy, and she was sure he was innocent. He had not been at school for a year, but she "always knew where he was."

She ought to have known he was not at home, not at work and not in school; that he was spending his time playing cards with two other boys, reading cheap trash and smoking cigarettes. The revolver he had with him was his father's; yet neither the mother nor the father seems to have interfered or to have been troubled by any of these facts.

One may sympathize with parents who have so little responsibility as these parents felt for their son, but one cannot excuse them. It is not enough to know where the boy is. It is necessary to know that the place is not a moral cesspool and a mental muck-hole.

Congress can make, and the courts enforce, a law for pure physical food; but the mental pure food law must be promulgated by parents and enforced at home; and for some youthful diseases no amount of "pedagogy" or "psychology" or "child study" or "moral suasion" is half so effective as the good old "Oil of Palm," a simple urgent with which the youth of an earlier generation was liberally anointed.—Youth's Companion.

Handkerchief Fancies.

One of the most striking colored handkerchiefs has a fine dark blue linen centre and a white linen border plentifully strewn with dark blue polka dots. For the most part, however, the centres are white and the borders of pink, lavender or red. The new pink shades seem specially popular.

Little polka dots of linen set on to a plain white linen handkerchief and hemstitched all round are among the new things seen.
Sometimes handkerchiefs are hemstitched in scallops. The effect is not bad, but hardly worth the trouble entailed.

Handkerchiefs upon which a design has been "picked" are very beautiful. This picking is done with a pin made for the purpose, and consists of drawing threads at certain intervals until a butterfly, bow-knot or flower is formed of the fine linen network. The work must of necessity be extremely tedious and the prices are consequently high.

Valenciennes lace is as popular upon handkerchiefs as upon anything else. Charming little affairs are made of the sheerest linen with several rows of valenciennes insertion set into the border and an edge of the same delicate lace.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a Favorite.

"We prefer Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to any other for our children," says Mr. L.
J. Woodbury of Twining, Mich. "It has also done the work for us in hard colds and croup, and we take pleasure in recommending." For sale by All Dealers.

Soap as a Medicine.

"When I was a boy," said the old man, "they often made me take a little soap as a medicine. It did me good."

"Soap was prescribed in the village for cramps, for sick headache, for a half dozen complaints. The people admitted that it was a nauseous dose, but on the other hand they pointed to its efficacy."

"When I was taken down my mother would cut from the cake of yellow soap in the kitchen a chunk about as big as a chestnut."

"Now, sonny," she would say, 'swallow this,' and she'd hold the yellow morsel in thumb and forefinger close to my lips."

"I'd begin to whimper. The smell of it and the idea of the lather that would form in my mouth—the lather I'd have to swallow —would fill me with despair. But my mother was inexorable. With stiff lips I'd take the scap into my mouth, I'd chew the soft and slippery stuff a little and then, with a groan and a dreadful gulp, I'd swallow it. Horrors!
"Horrors!" said the old man, smiling. "I can still taste those doses of soap that were so common in the village in my boyhood."

Postage Stamps.

The largest postage stamp ever issued was a five cent stamp of the United States intended for newspaper postage. It was 4 by 2 inches in size. The smallest postage stamp, on the other hand, was a twenty-five pfennig stamp of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, issued in 1856. It was one-fourth the size of an ordinary postage stamp. Incidentally it has been calculated that about 13,000 different kinds of postage stamps have been issued by the various countries of the earth.

RANGES, COOK STOVES AND HEATERS.

Did it ever strike you that when you buy a Stove from Connell Bros., that if by any chance it does not WORK RIGHT, they are at hand to MAKE IT WORK RIGHT. They cannot afford to let the stove do anything else but WORK RIGHT.
Their stoves are all built to WORK RIGHT, made from good patterns; of the best material, and by good workmen. Another thing, too, they have all pieces for the stove, so you don't need to get rid of a good stove that was made by them because you can't get the repairs for it. We have repairs for stoves sold 25 years ago.

So intricate is the mechanism of the modern piano that only an expert can properly understand it. The average person therefore buys a piano on faith, that is, they rely on their faith in the word of the dealer and the reputation of the piano. There are two reasons why you should buy your piano from me. FIRST,—I am always here to stand back of every statement I make about a piano. SECOND,—I have control for this district for some of the best pianos on the Quick Wit Saved His Life.

"The strangest and most thrilling piece of of swordsmanship I ever saw," said the fencing master, "was in Vermont. I was spending the autumn in a mountainous part of the state, and there was a military encampment near my hotel. One morning an officer's horse started to bolt with the man during parade and made at breakneck speed toward a precipice. The officer tried to stop the horse, tried to turn his head—no use.
On dashed the frantic animal straight for the abyss. We all held our breaths. In another instant we expected to see horse and rider go over the cliff. But the officer when within fifty feet of the edge drew his sword and plunged it twice deep into the horse. The horse staggered, slowed, keeled over, dying.
The man had sacrificed the animal's life to save his own."

Fate.

A strange comedy and tragedy was woven into the lives of Ibsen and Bjornson. As young men they were great friends; then politics flung them apart; they quarreled and never met for years and years. Strange fate brought the children of these two great writers together, and Bjornson's daughter married Ibsen's only child. The father met after a quarter of a century of separation at the wedding of their children.

Jewish Thrift.

The Allgemeine Rundschau, Vienna, in an article on the Jewish question and anti-Semitism, has this to say as to Jewish thrift: "If we could only induce our own lower class to acquire the Jew's thrift, his industry, his sense of order, his scrupulous exactitude, his religious loyalty and love for his family the Jew on his darker side would appear far less dangerous to them than is at present the case. If one Sunday, by way of interesting experiment, one were to conduct an inquiry into the station, wealth and religion of visitors to the various public houses, the following result would transpire: A large number of the guests would be Christians who would do far better to save than spend their money in alcoholic refreshments, gaming and tobacco. There might be a few Jews, but at the most they would content themselves with a cup of coffee."

Don't get fooled with the idea that in buying "mixed feed" for the cows you are getting more real food for the money than in the clear grains. Mill-men never mix that stuff together for your benefit. Grain feed can be bought at lowest possible cost in the separate ingredients.

E he!—Good morning, Mr. Jones. You
