Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, unlocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds; it strengthens; it offers real, genuine heart help. If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

The Selection of a Husband.

Because it is the duty of every woman to marry some man, it by no means follows that she is deprived of the privilege of making acute discrimination; on the contrary, to fulfil her mission as completely as possible, she should exercise the greatest care in selecting a mate. Time was when she had no say in the matter, and in some countries she has little or none today; but in this happily civilized land she still possesses, and will undoubtedly hold for all time, the first right to choose and then ensnare. It is a noble prerogative—one, in our judgment, that should be appreciated and cherished above all others. And yet, as we have observed, it should be exercised with caution. Let nothing be left to chance, as Plato would have had it when he decreed that pairing should be done by lot; while not over-nice, be at least particular, in order that the chosen may feel honored by the distinction conferred upon him, and so be the more readily induced to show his undying gratefulness.

Much that was thought and written years ago on how to choose a wife was good enough for the time, but the recent reversal of the relative attitudes of seeker and sought renders it valueless. Nevertheless, despite the fact that, in considering the points to be heeded and the precautions to be observed by womankind, we find ourselves in a fallow field, certain general principles may be regarded as established. It is best, for example, to capture a husband while he is still young, docile and plastic. Preferably also he should be in love. He may then be trained after the manner best calculated to serve the convenience of her for whom thenceforth he must and should toil.

A Reliable Remedy for Croup.

Watches Need a Rest.

(Cleveland Plain Dealer.)
'Watches get tired out just the same as people,' said a methodical man who worries if his timepieces isn't right up to scratch. 'Every little while my watch would stop running with its usual regularity and lose about half an hour in a day. I took it to the jeweller once or twice, but it still had these spells. One day I found out accidentally that it was just tired. If I lay it away somewhere for a day or two when its gets one of those losing fits and then wind it up again it will keep perfect time. All it seems to need, is a little rest.'

Few Here Know This.

When an eminent authority announced in the Scranton (Pa) Times that he had found a new way to treat that dread American disease, Rheumatism, with just common, every day drugs found in any drug store, the physicians were slow indeed to attach much importance to his claims. This was only a few months ago. To day nearly every newspaper in the county, even the metropolitan dailies, is announcing it and the splendid results achieved. It is so simple that anyone can prepare it at home at small cost. It is made up as follows: Get from any good prescription pharmacy Fluid Extract Dandelion, one half ounce; Compound Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking in a bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime. These are all simple ingredients, making an absolutely harmless home remedy at little cost.

Rheumatism, as everyone knows, is a symptom of deranged kidneys. It is a condition produced by the failure of the kidneys to properly filter or strain from the blood the uric acid and other matter which, if not eradicated, either in the urine or through the skin pores, remains in the blood, decomposes and forms about the joints and muscles causing the untold suffering and deformity of rheumatism.

This prescription is said to be a splendid healing, cleansing and invigorating tonic to the kidneys, and gives almost immediate relief in all forms of bladder and urinary troubles and back-ache. He also warns people against the discriminate use of many patent medicines.

EVOLUTION.

I ate me a Welsh rabbit,
In the night last past;
I ate me a Welsh rabbit,
Whereby to stay my fast;
Simply a Welsh rabbit,
A harmless, armless thing,
With not a leg to stand on,
Nor voice to speak or sing.

I ate me a Welsh rabbit
Then hid myself away
To bed and dreams and wishing
'T were longer yet till day;
Simply a Welsh rabbit,
A witless, guileless beast
That hath no other mission
Than serving for a feast.

I ate me a Welsh rabbit,
Gadzooks! I thought it so;
But after I had gone to sleep
How quickly did it grow—
Into the strangest creatures—
Into the maers of night,
Into the gibberish monkeys,
Into the shapes that fright,
Into the ring-tailed roosters,
Into the jabberwocks,
Into the jangling jaguars,
Into the six-horned ox.
Into the horse with flippers,
Into the hog with wings,
Into the cat with feathers,
Into the cow that sings—
Into all manner, of creatures
Of the earth and the air and the sea,
And all of them promenading
Or-sitting around on me.

I ate me a Welsh rabbit,
In the night last past;
I ate me a Welsh rabbit,
Whereby to stay my fast;
Simply a Welsh rabbit—
How could there possibly
In a little thing like that
A whole menagerie?
—'Century Magazine.'

Not The Motor's Fault.

A motor car was proceeding along a country lane. In it were seated two motorists, wearing the most correct thing in the way of fur coats, goggles, etc.

On swinging round a curve they came full upon a groom who was exercising a couple of horses. As the animals appeared to be very resive the car was brought to a standstill, but the horses' terror only grew worse.

One of the motorists called to the groom: 'Can't you get them past? We've stopped the car.'

To their surprise the man responded: 'Oh, it ain't the motor, sir! If you gentleman will only get out and hide behind the hedge for a minute it'll be all right.'—'Illustrated Bite.'

Reading Notice.

Hunting and hunting topics at present occupy the major portion of the thoughts of those who indulge in the pursuit of big game. From all reports the season promises to be one of the best of recent years, and hunters, full of high anticipation, have their preparations well in hand. Included in these arrangements for the perfect enjoyment of the open season must be the possession of the November number of "ROD AND GUN AND MOTOR SPORTS IN CANADA," published by W. J. Taylor, Woodstock, Ont. Although the October number was filled with hunting stories the supply was far indeed from being exhausted as the November issue shows, and mingled amongst pleasant fishing articles will be found much to interest those who are now on hunting thoughts intent.

SOON.

Not yet, but soon,
The big coal-bills
And winter's chills,
And winter's ills,
And winter's medicine and pills.
Will come abreast;
But—take a rest.
It is
Not yet, but soon.

Not yet, but soon,
The glass goes low,
The frozen toe,
The tale of woe.
Due to the slippery, sliding snow,
The ice and slush
Come with a rush.
It is
Not yet, but soon.

Not yet, but soon,
The firelight's glow,
The lights turn low,
The mistletoe,
Yes, gladly we'll let summer go—
Welcome with glee
The Christmas-tree.
It is
Not yet, but soon.

Sudden Change of Heart.

(Tit-Bits.)

Attendance at church service is obligatory upon the part of soldiers at certain English posts, and amusing stories are told of the excuses that are sometimes resorted to in order to escape this requirement.

At one post where a number of recruits were temporarily stationed an old sergeant was ordered to ascertain to what religious sect each man belonged, and to see that he joined the party told off for that particular form of worship.

Some of the men had no liking for church and declared themselves to be atheists. But the sergeant was a Scotsman and a man of experience.

"Ah, weel," said he, "then ye hae no need to kape holy the Sabbath, and the stables hae no been claned out lately." And he ordered them to clean out the stables. This occupied practically the whole day, and the men lost their usual Sunday afternoon's leave.

Next Sunday a broad smile crept over the face of the sergeant when he heard that the atheists had joined the Church of England.
