The same management are getting up a supper for the I. O. F. which will be given on the eve of their organization here. The supper will be in the Fitzgerald building and a large number is expected to be present.

The high prices of farm produce is creating quite a stir among the farmers and threshing and pressing are the order of the day.

Mr. Isaac Pryor is still living but very low.

Mrs. Ira Miller of Royalton is still sinking and it is only perhaps a matter of a few hours when she shall have passed into the life that has no ending.

Rev. Mr. Ayer preached a Temperance sermon last Sunday afternoon in the Methodist church here which seemed to impress his audience as a masterpiece in its line. He told of the terrible ravages made by the drink evil among the young men and of the misery brought into the home and quoted the immortal Gladstone as saying that it did more injury to the nations of the earth than did war, pestilence and famine combined. He showed that the foundation of all good society was in the due observance of the law and that those who violate the law are law-breakers and deserve such penalties as the breaking of that law imposes and that every good thinking, law abiding citizen should do all in his power to uphold the dignity of the law by bringing the offender to justice.

Mr. Robinson the mill owner of Robinson, Me., has decided not to purchase the lumber lands of Mr. Carlisle of Knoxford as there are other land owners with whom it would be necessary to make a deal to make its transaction a paying one and the other owners are not thinking of selling at present.

Bird Boyer, wife and family, of Hartland, spent Sabbath with Mr. and Mrs. George Marshall here.

A tickling cough, from any cause, is quickly stopped by Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. And it is so thoroughly harmless and safe, that Dr. Shoop tells mothers everywhere to give it without hesitation even to very young babies. The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lunghealing mountain shrub, furnish the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sore and sensitive bronchial membranes. No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress. Simply a resinous plant extract, that helps to heal aching lungs. The Spaniards call this shrub which the Doctor uses. "The Sacred Herb" Demand Dr. Shoop's. Take no other. Sold by all dealers.

Letter from the Rev. D. Fiske

To Editor of The Dispatch:—

And Charles Appleby is gone. It is hard to realize. How he will be missed. In circles intellectual, journalistic, literary, social, domestic, religious and legal. Missed, distinctively, deplorably missed. Too soon, alas, it seems, his passing hence. The town is the poorer with Charles gone. But though his bodily presence is now no longer visible, in the eyes of the souls of his friends his photograph is indelibly pictured. Death can take the body, but it cannot take the influence a life has invested. That high ideal as to literary style, that business sagacity and energy, that example of extensive and varied knowledge acquired, that brightness, geniality, friendliness, that fascinating personality, that legal instinct, that cheerful and heroic fortitude, that affectionate and generous solicitude for the loved ones in his home, that intimacy with his pastor, that literary taste, that warm friendship that beamed from his face and drew towards him with power truly magnetic, that large visioned far seeing political attitude, that while settled in its own Liberal principles, could at the same time fairly, generously, discerningly, appraise the intelligence of his political opponents, that attitude that classes its possession among those genuine publicists whose influence is in line with the best interests of the truest and most progressive nationhood. The influence of these characteristics cannot die. Charles has not lived in vain. May the inoculation by his bright, genial, affectionate, energetic personality be wholesome and lasting. May his early passing hence make us thoughtful. May his cheerful fortitude rebuke our murmuring. May his loving heart in his home lighten our home feelings and manners. Gladly does the writer give this small tribute to the memorial of him whose personal kindness is remembered. May THE DISPATCH whose worthy character as a local paper he did so much to establish continue in a career of prosperity—his influence being an inspiration to those who conduct it.

With deep and appreciative interest has the writer read the comprehensive account in THE DISPATCH of the recently held meetings of the W. C. T. U. It is good and gladdening to note the clear vision our sisters have as to the evil of intemperance and its shrewd aggressiveness; their intelligence as to the legislation suited to suppress this ruthless foe, their sagacity as to the matter of the teaching of the pupils in our schools the nature of alcohol and its effects on the human system. Unlikely to become slaves in after life to alcohol are those well taught while young. Other features of enterprise in our temperance sisters it is gratifying to see. There is one thing, however, I deeply regret, no appointment seems to have been made, nor does the matter seem to have been discussed, of a man to be sent to preach to and circulate helpful literature among the men in the woods. Sisters, in view of the unquestionable claims of the multitude of men in the solitudes, can you see or find no man whom you can send? Is there no man who like Aber Ben Adhem can say, "Write me as one who loves his fellow men," who has mind saturated with the word of God, who loves that word, who loves the Christ of that word, who is ready to say, "Here am I, send me," and will cheerfully and gladly write the secretary to that effect?

Again gladly have I read in the DISPATCH the stimulative account on the Provincial S. S. Convention. And delighted to see our bright and capable young friend Rev. A. A. Rideout, Hartland's worthy contribution to the ministerial ranks figuring as leader of Home Department, a good man to have in charge. Surely Mrs. Bullock has done well on the Temperance Department. But what is the explanation of the absence of reference to the so vastly important department of Teacher Training. Has New Brunswick become a back slider relative to this so prominent feature of progressive S. S. work of our day. She used to shine in that line.
