

RAIN COATS!

The season the weather seems to change with less notice than usual, is that a Rain Coat becomes more than ever a necessary addition to a man's wardrobe. The man who buys one of our useful Rain Coats need not have any fears as to what kind of weather we have, for if it rains he is well prepared for rain. If it shines he has a stylish dressing light weight overcoat on. We know that our rain coats are excellent and are impatient to show them.

A Leading Druggist.

From the Bellingham, Wash., Herald, of August 17th we clip the following paragraph, which refers to the drug store owned by Sabine L. Carr, son of James Carr, of Woodstock:—

An establishment in which the people of Greater Bellingham take much pride is that of Carr's pharmacy, owned by Sabine L. Carr, one the leading druggists of the Northwest. His store, located near business center, is a handsome one, finished in tasteful effects, all the furniture matching, and the showcases and fixtures are of the newest pattern and display the large and comprehensive stock to the best advantage. The business was established by Mr. Carr less than a year ago, and through his efforts and knack of knowing just what articles to give the people at just the right price, he has won a large and profitable business, which is constantly increasing.

The Two New Ministers.

Last week Sir Wilfrid Laurier called to his cabinet the Hon. Dr. Pugsley as minister of public works and the Hon. G. P. Graham as minister of railways and canals. The new ministers were sworn in on Friday afternoon. Dr. Pugsley will run for St. John, N. B., and Mr. Graham for Brockville, Ont. Nominations will be held on the 18th and elections on the 25th.

The change whereby Mr. Graham goes to the management of the Intercolonial is regarded as due to the reluctance to keep that portfolio in New Brunswick in view of the jealousies between St. John and Halifax. So far as Mr. Pugsley is concerned, the present arrangement is understood to be temporary; ultimately the Department of Marine and Fisheries may go to him.

At Home.

"I never was a hand to go gawping round!" contemptuously exclaimed an old woman who boasted of never having seen a railway-train or a trolley-car or any town but her own. The generation of stay-at-homes in the country is perhaps passing away—the women, they were chiefly women,—who prided themselves on their self-imprisonment on farm or in village as a virtue, serving to demonstrate their devotion to home and children and duty.

There is a class of men in the business world who have the same point of view in regard to the object of life. Such a one, dying at the age of eighty-eight, left a record of fifty-five years as the head of a banking-house, during which he had been absent from his desk but two days—and those were accounted for by a sprained ankle. No vacation, no travel, no day of summer leisure with wife and children—fifty five years of steady, unswerving routine!

There is something impressive in the story of a lifetime of persistent toil. But there is another point of view which deserves respect. The gadabout may be a useless member of society; but the stay-at-home is likely to be a narrow one.

We find ourselves on this little planet, with its oceans and mountains and mighty rivers and wide prairies. We know not whence we came, nor if we shall ever pass this way again. Surely we may do our task better in our own appointed place if we look about the world, feed our minds with the glories of nature, and discover how men and women before us have lived their lives, and embodied their aspiration in the great arts of building and painting and sculpture.

The wheat-field and the ledger and the cooking-stoves are facts of human life; but so are the Cologne Cathedral, the Sistine Madonnas, the Canadian Rockies, and the Valley of the Yellowstone.

He has the true philosophy of life who knows with Emerson that
From the earth-poles to the line,
All between that works or grows,
Everything is kin of mine.

GOLF.

St. John vs. Woodstock.

Seventeen men from the St. John Golf Club arrived here on Saturday evening, and spent Sunday looking over places of interest around town. On Monday they played four rounds of golf with the home team, being defeated by a score of 113 to 4. Twelve games have been played between these two clubs, six here and six in St. John, the home team always winning. There is a probability of a game being played on neutral links this fall to decide the matter of superiority. A luncheon was served on the club house verandah from one to three o'clock. The weather was perfect for golfing and many good cards were turned in. Following is the result:—

A Persuasive Prescription.

To Mary Carpenter belongs the honor of having been the pioneer of a movement which resulted in the establishment of industrial and reformatory schools in every large town in England. She is described in "Maids of Honor," as being very practical, but possessed of a ready wit and great perspicuity.

A girl at the Red Lodge, one of the homes for girls established by Miss Carpenter, had a rooted aversion to laundry work, and the weekly washing day was invariably the signal for a seizure of the most alarming kind.

She became absolutely rigid, foamed at the mouth, and seemed altogether in a most abnormal condition.

Miss Carpenter's observant mind took cognizance of these regularly recurrent fits, and in her own practical fashion she formed her conclusions and determined on the remedy required.

Having sent for the doctor she saw him alone, and requested him to notice the symptoms and to approve her proposed method of treatment.

"I have been strictly investigating the nature of these fits, doctor," she said, quietly, as they stood together by the bedside of the apparently unconscious girl, "and I find that the most efficacious cure is the application of a hot iron to the soles of the feet."

The doctor acquiesced with a professional gravity that did him great credit. Turning to the nurse, Miss Carpenter said, sharply, "Heat me that poker red-hot immediately."

The prescription alone was instantaneously effective. The girl sat up and began to speak. There were no more fits on washing-days.

Saves Little Lives.

Most liquid medicines advertised to cure stomach and bowel troubles and summer complaints contain opiates and are dangerous. When the mother gives Baby's Own Tablets to her little one she has the guarantee of a government analyst that this medicine does not contain one particle of opiate or narcotic. Therefore, she can feel that her little ones are safe. There is no other medicine can equal Baby's Own Tablets in preventing summer complaints or curing them if they come on suddenly. Keep a box of tablets always at hand—they may save your child's life. Mrs. C. E. Hancock, Raymond, Alta., says: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for summer complaints, constipation and sleeplessness. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont."

NEXT Saturday night and all day on Sunday, Brigadier and Mrs. Turner of St. John headquarters and leaders of the Salvation Army in the Maritime Provinces, will conduct services and very special meetings in the Citadel on King St. The Brigadier has a warm spot in his heart for the people of Woodstock and it will be remembered that it was through the great effort put forth by him that the Army of this town has a building of its own. As the Brigadier seldom comes this may be on account of the large field of labor in which his time is fully occupied. Everyone should appreciate it and attend the meeting. Remember the dates, next Saturday night and all day Sunday.
