

HOME-MADE MEDICINE

Said to Relieve Kidney Trouble and Rheumatism

One ounce Fluid Extract Dandelion;
One ounce Compound Salatsone;
Four ounces Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla;

Mixed and taken in teaspoonful doses after meals and at bedtime, is stated by a prominent physician to give most excellent results in kidney or urinary affections, and also in rheumatism and sciatica. The mixture opens the clogged pores of the kidneys, thus assisting them in their work of filtering all waste and poisonous matter from the blood, and expels these in the urine. To allow this poisonous matter to remain means that it will settle in the muscular tissues or joints, and cause the untold misery known as rheumatism.

The mixture is composed of harmless vegetable ingredients which can be purchased at any good drug store, and mixed at home.

Anyone suffering from any of these afflictions will no doubt be pleased to learn of so simple and highly recommended remedy.

Fidele.

Fear no more the heat o' the sun
Nor the furious winter's rages;
Thou thy worldly task hast done,
Home art gone and ta'en thy wages:
Golden lads and girls all must,
As chimney sweepers, come to dust.

Fear no more the frown o' the great,
Thou art past the tyrant's stroke;
Care no more to clothe and eat;
To thee the reed is at the oak;
The scepter, learning, physic, must
All follow this, and come to dust.

Fear no more the lightning-flash
Nor the all-dreaded thunder-stone;
Fear not slander, censure rash;
Thou hast finished joy and moan:
All lovers young, all lovers must
Consign to thee, and come to dust.

W. SHAKESPEARE.

Dr. Goldwin Smith on the Labour Question.

Few of our artisans probably have read, or if they have read have heeded the hints here given them of danger in case of extreme trouble in our labor market from Eastern competition, either in the shape of the growth of competing manufactures in the Eastern countries themselves, or in that of an influx of Eastern labor into Canada. It is pretty evident, and indeed might safely be assumed, that there is in British Columbia an employers' interest which welcomes Japanese and Chinese labor on account of its freedom from unions and strikes. We are hardly able at present to measure the relative strength of the parties in British Columbia, or to forecast the turn which the matter will ultimately take; but should the party of the employer and free labor prevail, the relations between British Columbia and the rest of the Dominion, from which she is geographically severed, may become inharmonious and a rupture may result.

It is not about manual labor only that the difficulty arises. The spirit of unrest and revolt has extended to domestic service, which is now greatly broken up, so that in Toronto it is with the greatest difficulty that households can be maintained. There is nothing for it but the employment of Chinese.

The workingman is apt in these disputes to think of himself as a worker only and to fancy that a rise of wages in his own industry is clear gain to him. He forgets that he is a purchaser and consumer, and in that character a hirer of other men's labor as well as a seller of his own. A rise of wages all round would be a rise in the price of articles generally to all workmen as well as the rest of us. The same result would follow a general shortening of hours, at least, if it diminished the amount of work done. Manual labor, in a word, cannot sever its own interest from those of the community at large. That it can detach itself from the community at large and prepare the way for a ruinous struggle—ruinous to all classes—in the future is only too apparent. Nor do the signs of this peril appear to be growing less.

Pigless Britain.

Eggs and bacon being the real paladium of British liberty, for few self-respecting Englishmen consider their breakfast complete without them, it is really serious news to hear that the supply of native pigs is falling off. So marked is the deficiency that the Butchers and Pork Butchers Trade Association of Birmingham and district have thought it necessary to issue a special circular calling attention to it. From this we learn that for the year ended June, 1905, there was a decrease in the number of pigs in the United Kingdom of 590,030, and that 1906 showed a further decline of more than 20,000, which would have been greater but that Ireland had an increase of more than 80,000.—London Globe.

The Real Enemy.

At last we have a clear ring from a potential voice in the Democratic ranks in the United States. Governor Folk, of Missouri the great reformer of St. Louis civic affairs, speaking in a gathering of his party at Nashville, in Tennessee, has placed himself squarely against the protective tariff. If he can keep that one shout before the whole country he marks himself out for the much needed leader of whom this party is in search. Mr. Bryan is eloquent and capable of fire-works and can deal magnificently in generalities with no practical outcome. He has failed twice and will always fail. He would be nowhere against Mr. Roosevelt, a man of action who does things, and who has maintained a splendid war against monopolies and privileges. The latter is however, baffled by his relationship to the protectionist party. Personally he is probably as clear as to the real evil as Mr. Folk. He realizes that attempt to down the 'trusts' while maintaining protective privileges is like shooting a squirrel behind a tree stem. But that is the best that is open to him. Mr. Folk has laid his axe to the root of the tree. In this course lies victory, for the people are ready. They may not yet take Mr. Folk's view, but they are in a right mind to be convinced of it. The other point on which Mr. Folk lies stress, namely state rights, does not seem to us, looking from the outside, to be like a winning card. The whole tendency of things in the United States is to solidify into a nation. It is no use to tell the people that in theory the States are sovereign—that when they entered the union they were as independent as the European nations. Even then they were only theoretically independent. They asserted that they were so, and had to fight for it; but they fought for it continually and they were a union from the beginning of national independence. The newer States are mere creations of Congress, and never were and never can be, while the federation lasts, anything else. Financial, commercial and transportation enterprises are now on a scale that does not confine itself within state lines and these absolutely need national regulation. States can have no foreign relations, and are therefore, quoad foreigners, necessarily under the management of the federal government. State rights has been a powerful cry, and has been the central idea of the Democratic party. That party fought its battle in the war of secession and lost. It is perhaps necessary for any one appealing to the Democratic party to make a pious genuflection at that ancient shrine; but Mr. Roosevelt, as the representative of an aggressive naturalism, has probably in that matter the nation with him.—Witness.

Tells How to Mix It.

A well-known authority on Rheumatism gives the readers of a large New York daily paper the following valuable, yet simple and harmless prescription, which an one can easily prepare at home:

Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces.

Mix by shaking well in a bottle, and take a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime. He states that the ingredients can be obtained from any good prescription pharmacy at small cost, and, being of vegetable extraction, are harmless to take.

This pleasant mixture, if taken regularly for a few days, is said to overcome almost any case of Rheumatism. The pain and swelling, if any, diminishes with each dose, until permanent results are obtained, and without injuring the stomach. While there are many so-called Rheumatism remedies, patent medicines, etc., some of which do give relief, few really give permanent results, and the above will, no doubt, be greatly appreciated by many sufferers here at this time.

Inquiry at the drug stores of this neighborhood elicits the information that these drugs are harmless and can be bought separately or the druggists here will mix the prescription for our readers if asked to.

Ban on Coca Cola.

The average summer drink manufactured for sale and erroneously supposed to cool the stomach is impure and harmful.

The United States Government in its investigation of these irritating drinks has put ban upon coca cola. On June 21 the War Department issued an order forbidding the sale of this drink in post exchanges in the Department of the East.

This action was taken after official reports concerning the effect of the drink, and after an analysis of its ingredients was made at the Department of Agriculture by Dr. Wiley, chief chemist. Dr. Wiley reported that in a majority of the samples of coca cola he tested he found quantities of cocaine and caffeine. Officers reported to the War Department that enlisted men have discovered the effect which the drink produces upon them, and that for the purpose of getting this effect they drink six or seven glasses of the stuff, and that the result is injurious to health as well as destructive of morals.

If this be the effect of one "soft drink" upon grown and vigorous men of the army, the question is asked, what must be its effect upon the tender and undeveloped stomachs of the boys and girls who are permitted to gorge themselves with soda fountain concoctions?

The chemist of the German Government, analyzing many of the American compounds offered as summer or cooling drinks, found "that seventy per cent. of them contain some form of poison injurious to the health. They are prepared by manufacturers conscienceless as to the trickery and greedridden for financial gains. Compounds which a thoughtful pharmacist would shudder to inject into the human system in a drink, are recklessly thrown on to the market without regard to consequences."

As a result of this it is next to impossible, under the German pure food and pure drink law, to get an American soda fountain drink in the empire. They are classified as "harmful to old and young, and unfit for human use."

5,000 Pistols Overboard

Five thousand revolvers, supposed to have cost at least $15,000, was taken out to sea beyond Sandy Hook, New York, the other day, and dumped into the Atlantic. These are the weapons seized by the police within the last year and a quarter.

At a conservative estimate the pistols are worth $3.00 apiece, and in all probability the average is even higher than that. Some of the automatic revolvers in the collection are worth at least $28, and there are a few gold mounted pistols to be thrown overboard. These, sometimes with pearl trimmings, and one or two with filigree work, help to bring up the average cost and offset the cheaper kinds, worth scarcely more than a dollar.

Probably it would be impossible to find a more heterogeneous collection of firearms anywhere outside of the big museums. They have come from every nook and corner of the globe. Some are queer and old-fashioned, that have come into the hands of the police in all sorts of curious ways, and a great number are revolvers and pistols which have been taken from newly arrived immigrants. Some that have been picked, up in the bitter scraps of the Syrian quarter, bear the marks of Arabic workmanship, and are strangely wrought.

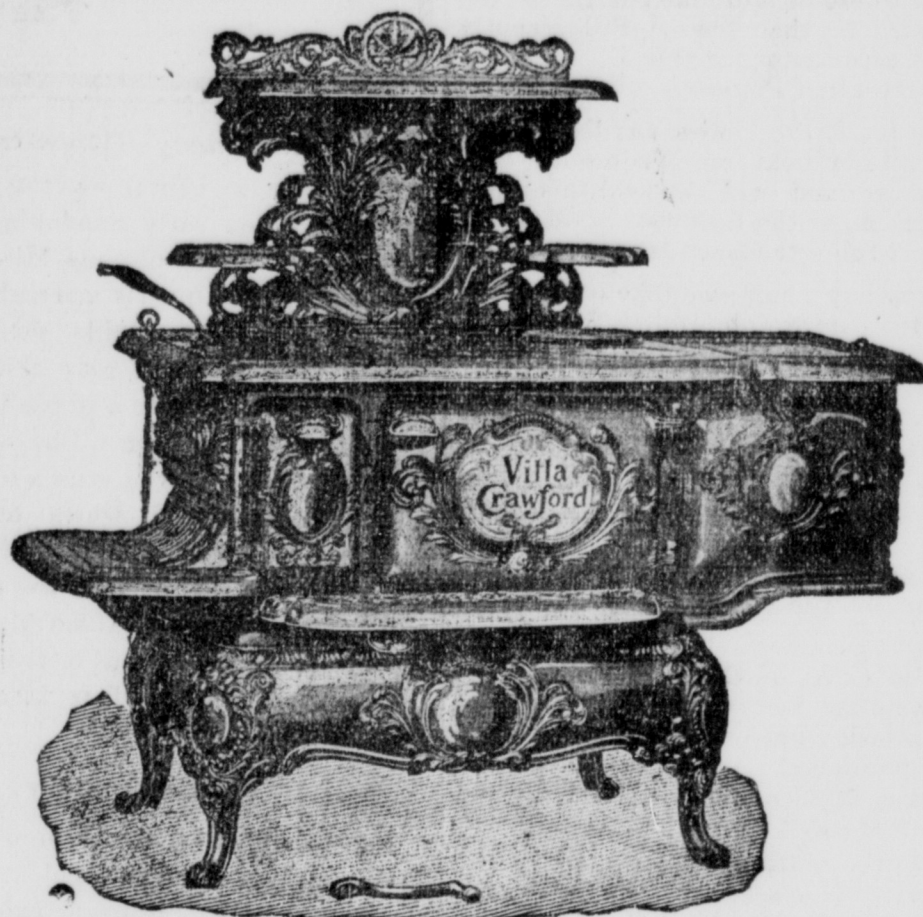

A great many were taken from Italians at the time of the crusade against the habit of carrying concealed weapons, and not a few were used in the Tong fights in Chinatown. Notorious criminals have contributed their share to the collection, and there are many ordinary revolvers taken from respectable citizens, who, for one cause or another, had the mistaken notion that they ought to be armed, but who neglected to get pistol permits.

It used to be the custom to sell confiscated revolvers just before the Fourth of July at a police auction. Bowery pawn-brokers bought them cheaply, and many times revolvers have been sold over and over again. At Headquarters they tell of one revolver which came into the possession of the property clerk four times in its career. Small boys bought some of the pistols, too, and their circulation came to be considered a menace.

At the session of the last Legislature an act was passed, under whose provisions Commissioner Bingham was permitted to dispose of this property by destroying it. The plan to throw the things into the sea was adopted as peculiarly effective, and it will probably be resorted to annually. The "guns" filled thirty-two big boxes.

How to Cure a Cold.

The question how to cure a cold without unnecessary loss of time is one in which we are all more or less interested, for the quicker a cold is gotten rid of the less the danger of pneumonia and other serious diseases. Mr. B. W. L. Hall, of Waverly, Va., has used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for years and says: "I firmly believe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be absolutely the best preparation on the market for colds. I have recommended it to my friends and they all agree with me." For sale by All Dealers.

Deering Ideal Folding Reaper.

Strong, Light in Draft, Easy to Operate.
The Most Up-to-Date Reaper on the Market.

An important feature of the Ideal Reaper is the ease and dispatch with which the driver can make every adjustment to meet varying crop conditions without dismounting from the seat. He can quickly adjust the rakes to sweep the platform, to have them act as reels without sweeping, or tilt the platform to throw the knife down to pick up lodged grain.

Each of the four rakes can be operated exactly as desired by means of the controlling device. By an adjustment of a hand latch every rake, every second, every third, every fourth, or every fifth rake can be made to sweep the platform, or by the operation of a foot lever, the rake can be made to act as reels. This machine may be compactly folded for transportation or storage.

October 'Canadian Pictorial'

A brown October maid; matching the tints of the waning season, looks out from the cover of the current issue of the 'Canadian Pictorial' (145 St. Peter street, Montreal). She is a truly Canadian, healthy, out-of-doors girl, and leaning on her rifle, is proud of the trophies of the hunt which she has secured. The Canadian public man of the Month is the Hon. G. P. Graham, the new Minister of Railways. As promised last month there are two pages of gems from the recent photographic competition. The terrible disaster near Quebec, in which more than three score and ten men lost their lives, is strikingly illustrated. The distorted ruins of the massive steel of which the bridge was composed are shown with wonderful clearness. The stirring events in Morocco have made specially interesting two pages illustrating the Sultan's army and navy, the latter consisting only of two merchant vessels. This is in sharp contrast to a page showing Britain's naval power as demonstrated in a review which brought out 85,000 officers and men who,

with their vessels, made twenty miles of frowning might. There is an intimate picture of the King as he is now and another taken in Canada forty-seven years ago. Those who contributed to the Chinese famine fund will be interested in a page showing how the refugees lived before the new crops were harvested. The riots in Belfast, the great pageants in England, and other current events are depicted. The woman's department includes seasonable furs, autumn millinery, rainy day dress and many other interesting features. The magazine has been enlarged considerably this month.

Ten cents a copy, one dollar a year post-paid to any part of the world.
